Today

A Big Birthday.
Conan Doyle Knows, Now.
The Queen Smokes.
Noise, Brain Pressure.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THIS MORNING, John D. Rockefeller began his ninety-second year.

Mr. Rockefeller has every reason to praise the Lord, for he is, indeed, "fearfully and wonderfully made." Many old men have attributed their long lives to "not worrying." Few have lived to Mr. Rockefeller's age, enduring the hard work and strains such as he has borne in building his gigantic industries, in face of keenest competition, enduring savage criticism.

EVERYBODY should wish him more years to enjoy the pleasures of retrospection.

He has done what the people did not know how to do for themselves, changing the natural wealth of the earth into gigantic sums of money, then using the money to fight disease and ignorance, at the same time organizing scientific production and decreasing the cost of necessities.

He has given away, to science and education, more than five hundred million dollars, and his son continues the giving.

He, or his son, to whom he is supposed to have turned over his gigantic holdings, is said to be the world's richest man. By the aid of compound interest, he might easily be richer than he is by a billion dollars, if he had kept his money, instead of giving it away.

MR. ROCKEFELLER'S two favorite words are:

"Patience and perseverance."

A story, told by his brother, William, will take Mr. Rockefeller's memory back about 85 years.

When he was a small boy, a so-called Indian doctor in the district started business by announcing that he would auction off "this bright silver dollar." The crowd, suspicious, did not bid, until young John D., aged about 7, said:

"I bid five cents."

"Sold," said the auctioneer, "give us your nickel, sonny, and take the dollar."

"Take it out of the dollar," said John D. Rockefeller, as cautious as anybody, "and give me ninety-five cents."

Such a boy was quite sure to get ahead.

SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE, who died yesterday, created Sherlock Holmes, a name that has become part of the English language, and died a believer in Spiritualism.

What, if anything, does he think of Spiritualism now?

Is he selecting some earth medium through whom he may tell friends on earth that he is very happy?

Does he remember this earth, or anything about it, or is all that as vague as the months spent on earth, before birth?

Mediums will get many messages, but we shall not hear from Conan Doyle.

PRESIDENT HOOVER says, recommending the agreement under which our Navy would be regulated by the wishes of England, France and Japan that it is "folly to think we can outbuild all other nations."

The President knows best, of course.

BUT ENGLAND, when she had the money, had no difficulty in outbuilding all other nations, including this nation. We have the money now, why can't we do it?

Is there any good reason in addition to the reason that Great Britain does not wish it?

IF THE BRITISH hadn't outbuilt all other nations in battleships and swift cruisers before 1914, the former kaiser wouldn't be in Holland now, and King George wouldn't be in Buckingham Palace. British ships blockaded Germany, and, incidentally, bossed us.

SUPPOSE YOU suddenly learned that your grandmother used to walk a tight rope on one foot, her other foot held high in the air. You'd be shocked.

But you would not be as seriously shocked as ten million British old ladies, male and female, suddenly informed that Queen Mary actually smokes cigarets.

SHE SMOKES only two, one after tea, one after dinner. But she does smoke.

Her marvelously complicated Victorian hats, skirts below her ankles, stately carriage, dignified expression cannot make the horrified millions forget the three dreadful words QUEEN MARY SMOKES.

NEW YORK'S commission on "noise abatement" reports that the irregular, continuous roar of a great city reduces human efficiency and tires nerves.

That explains the fact that successful men nearly always come from the country. Move your children to the country if you can.

EXPERIMENTS prove that workers work harder, wear themselves out more rapidly, accomplish less, while exposed to sudden loud noises.

The sudden bursting of a blown up paper bag causes more pressure on the brain than nitro-glycerine or morphine, which cause higher pressure than any other drugs.

YESTERDAY, wheat reached a new low price, for the third time within a month, dropping to eighty-eight and a quarter cents a bushel in Chicago.

It was predicted in this column some time ago that the arrival of July 1 would bring a crisis in wheat.

Experienced dealers believe that the government Farm Board has made matters worse by discouraging normal liquidation of the carry over. But that cannot be proved.

The Farm Board now beseeches farmers to plant less wheat. That will suit Canada.

GIRL DIVES OFF PLANE TO DEATH

Thwarts Pilot's Efforts to Prevent Fatal Leap; Act Held Suicide by Coroner

LINCOLN, Neb., July 8.—(AP.)—A plunge from an airplane, soaring over the municipal airport, late yesterday cost the life of Miss Alberta Brinkerhoff, 21-year-old University of Nebraska co-ed.

A few minutes before, the pilot of the low-winged monoplane, Pete Orr, had pulled the young woman back into the cockpit of the ship after she had stepped out on the wing.

CLIMBS ON WING

He was circling the airport, preparing to land the ship, when the young woman again climbed out on the wing and fell to earth from an altitude of approximately 1,200 feet. Her body was found on the flying field.

Friends of the university senior said she had not been despondent and could advance no cause for her actions. Meanwhile C. A. Hugart, acting coroner, expressed the belief it was suicide, and County Attorney Max G. Towle said an inquest probably would not be held.

LAUGHS BEFORE TAKEOFF

Arriving at the airport in a taxicab, Miss Brinkerhoff arranged to make a brief flight. Orr, pilot for a flying school, began warming up the motor on the ship, and Miss Brinkerhoff laughingly remarked that she was getting nervous.

Miss Mare K. McQuistan, roommate of Miss Brinkerhof, told Coroner Hughart that the first she knew of Miss Brinkerhof's plans to make a flight was when the cab drove up to the dormitory and the driver inquired for the young woman who wished to go to the airport.

TOM MOONEY LOSES FIGHT FOR PARDON

Plea Denied by Governor; Parole, Long Scorned, Now Is Sole Hope of Freedom

International News Service.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 8.—Tom Mooney, perhaps America's most famous prisoner, today was denied a pardon from San Quentin prison by Gov. C. C. Young.

Mooney and Warren K. Billings are serving life terms in prison for murder in planting a bomb in a San Francisco Preparedness Day parade on July 22, 1916, which cost 10 lives and maimed 40 other persons.

Gov. Young's action followed a recommendation by his pardon advisory board, opposing a pardon for Mooney, and a similar recommendation by the California Supreme Court in Billings' case.

Billings could only be paroled by the Governor with a majority recommendation of the Supreme Court, under California's constitution.

As a result of Gov. Young's decision today, the only hope of Mooney and Billings for release from prison at this time is by parole. They have long been eligible to apply for parole, but have consistently refused to do so, maintaining their innocence. To accept a parole, they said, would be to imply their guilt.

Toe Injury Fatal To Civil War Vet

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 8.—An illness which followed infection of a toe that occurred six years ago while he was attending a reunion of Civil War veterans at Uniontown, last night caused the death of Isaac L. Hall, 93, at Confluence. He was the only remaining G. A. R. member in that town and a former Fayette County poor director.

MAY GIVE UP COURT FIGHT FOR BROWN

Philadelphia 'War Board' Reported Urged by Martin To Drop Luzerne Protest

Francis Shunk Brown is preparing to drop his fight, before the state Supreme Court, to wrest the Republican gubernatorial nomination from Gufford Pinchot on a legal technicality, according to competent authority.

Brown has appealed to the court to throw out the vote of Luzerne County, on the allegation ballots used in 3331odd districts there were mutilated by perforations to prevent fraud. Should the court grant the appeal, Pinchot would lose the nomination now credited to him.

The hearing was set originally for September 29, but Justice John M. Kephart indicated in Philadelphia last week that the court would hear tre case as soon as Brown's attorneys made the request. The latter were quoted as saying they would present final papers this week.

TO SEE 'WAR BOARD'

Meanwhile Brown's strongest ally, the Philadelphia "war board," is reported as planning to meet soon and determine whether to continue the case against Pinchot, according to an Associated Press quotation from the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

The story said that the "war board" had been visited recently by Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, who previously had called on Pinchot at his home in Milford.

None of the conferees would talk after the meetings, but Martin said today he hoped the issue would be settled soon. Martin was reached by telephone at his headquarters as commander of the Fifty-fifth Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard, at Camp Meade, Md., and informed of the

J. D., 91 TODAY, PLAYS GOLF

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller was 91 years old today. "Goodwill to all," was his birthday message.

The world in general probably took more note of the birthday than did the retired genius of the Standard Oil millions, who in his prime was one of the greatest industrial giants of modern times.

Except in slight details, the day's routine was the same as on hundreds of other days since his retirement from active business life 20 years ago.

On his Pocantico Hills estate—so vast that he can take his afternoon automobile ride without ever leaving his own property or being seen by the public—he planned to

Coolidge Praises U. S. Leadership at Parley

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., July 8.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Some of our people are expressing regret because we did not appear at the London conference with the largest navy in the world. If we had done so they assume we would have been able at once to dictate to the other nations a treaty entirely to our advantage.. That would have meant a recourse to the old rule of force. They must conclude that we would have secured an agreement by which we would say just what our own and other navies should be.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

It did not work that way at the Washington conference. We had to reduce our capital ships to a system of parity. We greatly outclassed Italy and France but they left London without agreeing to our terms. With the world as it has been since the war we could have taken no course that would have injured us more in the estimation of humanity than by adopting a building program that could have been considered a menace to other countries.

No one can now claim that we were forcing a reluctant world to arm. Our moral power at London was far greater because we were not attempting to lead in naval limitations.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

PARENTS AWAY, EVICT CHILDREN

Mrs. Pete Lang and her five small children this morning were recovering from the shock of being evicted from their little home at 2000 Howard street, North Side. They were fed last night at the home of a kindly neighbor, allowed to pass the night in the attic of another friend, and their household things carried by willing hands to a nearby empty garage. The husband and father had not yet returned.

Mrs. Lang had been out yesterday consoling her sister-in-law, whose baby had just died. Alice, 12, had been left in charge of little Pete, 6 months, who has been sickly for some time. Tommie, 8; Tillie, 6, and Mary, 3, were playing with other children in the neighborhood.

Alice, through her tears, told her mother when she returned:

"The man walked in and asked for you, mamma. When I told him you weren't home, he looked around to see if I was lying. Then he ordered the men to carry out all our things into the street. When they were all gone, and the baby and I had been sent out, too, he locked the door and went away."

The Family Welfare Association today reported that the family several times had received relief from the association.

Lloyd George Picks Young as President

NEW YORK, July 8.—(INS.)—Lloyd George expects to live to see Owen D. Young become President of the United States, according to Admiral Cary T. Grayson.

The admiral, arriving here from London, said today he had talked with the ex-premier and Lloyd George had told him Young had found much favor in France and England, where his election to the presidency would not be a surprise.

MELLON TO AID BRADDOCK FETE

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon will be the official representative of President Hoover at the celebration in connection with the one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the Battle of the Monongahela, to be held by Braddock, North Braddock, Rankin and Swissvale today and tomorrow. Unted States Senators and Congressmen have been invited to attend as guests.

Tonight and tomorrow night, a pageant depicting the Battle of the Monongahela, or Braddock's Defeat, will be given in Passey's Hollow, Rankin. A huge stage has been erected and 2,000 persons, including Indians from half a dozen reservations will take part.

LADY DOYLE EXPECTING SPIRIT MESSAGE WITHIN WEEK

BRITAIN SEES FINAL TEST OF BELIEF

Science Aloof, Sir Oliver Lodge Joins Family in Waiting Communication

International News Service

LONDON, July 8.—A spirit communication within a week from the late Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who died suddenly yesterday, is confidently expected by his widow, Lady Doyle.

This was revealed by Mrs. St. Stobart, chairman of the London Spiritual Community of which the famous creator of Sherlock Holmes was president at the time of his death.

"Lady Doyle told me a short time ago that when both she and Sir Arthur felt his death was imminent, they had agreed to attempt to communicate as soon as Sir Arthur became 'acclimatized' to the other sphere."

LODGE AWAITS NEWS

Sir Oliver Lodge, famous spiritualist and associate of the late Sir Arthur, expects the latter to attempt this scheduled communication, but he does not place the limit of a week on it as does Lady Doyle. He said:

"As Sir Arthur's work consisted of demonstrating and arguing about survival after death, he will now be in a better position to give first hand evidence on this subject, which he will do when he is ready and able to communicate."

Sir Arthur's family today completed the ample plans for his funeral.

Services will be held Thursday at Groombridge, Sussex, and Sir Arthur's body will be buried in the picturesque village church.

Though the creator of Sherlock Holmes died yesterday, stricken with a heart attack in his seventy-second year, his family and friends considered his death but a transition that will have its culmination in early communications from Sir Arthur from the world of spirits.

The world of science was aloof.

ALL BRITAIN WATCHING

Conjecture and interest grew throughout Britain—a Britain that at one moment grieved the loss of a well-loved writer, gentleman, scholar and traveler, and at the next moment viewed with growing interest the practical test to which his firm belief in communication with the living after death could now be put.

Lady Doyle, her sons, Adrian and Dennis, and her daughter, Jean, all were at his bedside at Windelsham, the family home, in Crowborough, Sussex, when he smiled quietly into his wife's eyes: "You are wonderful," and left them.

His profound interest in and devotion to matters spiritualistic was an indirect cause of the condition that brought on his death. He was weakened by the strain of a lecture tour through Sweden, last fall, where he championed his beliefs.

He was taken ill two months ago, but he regained considerable strength and the end came as a shock.

3 PITTSBURGH MEN DROWN

The bodies of three Pittsburghers, who had been on vacation at Canadian resorts, came home today. All were drowned.

John S. Roll, Jr., 23, of Ridgewood avenue, West View, teller in the Bellevue Savings & Trust Company, and Lionel White, of 2 Norbert street, Bellevue, salesman for the American Oil Company, drowned in Black Lake near Bala, Ont., yesterday. Elmer A. Rall, 35, of 1613 Concordia avenue, Carrick, president of the Rall Brake Service Company, drowned Sunday at Port Rowan, Ont.

Roll and White, both former Bellevue High School athletes, lost their lives when a canoe upset. They, with Cecil Branning, of West View, and Edward Voat, of Mount Troy, had left Saturday for their vacation. Indians recovered the two bodies. Roll was married and leaves a wife and baby.

Rall was spending his vacation with his bride of eight months at Port Rowan. He was a member of the Concordia Avenue Presbyterian Church and of Dallas Lodge No. 508, F. & A. M.

French Government Wins in Senate Vote

PARIS, July 8.—(AP.)—The Government survived a vote on an interpellation in the Senate this afternoon by the scant majority of ten.

The interpellation came in connection with legislation which seemed to the authorities to have a political character. Senators voiced their opposition and the sudden test followed.

pending meeting of the Philadelphia leaders.

Referring to the Pinchot-Brown case he said:

"The question should be settled soon to insure Republican success at the November election.

"We are going ahead with preliminary plans for the general election on the basis that Pinchot is the Republican nominee, subject to contrary orders from the Supreme Court.

MUCH MUST BE DONE

"There is considerable unfamiliarity with the vast amount of work ahead in the matter of preparing printed matter and publicity. In addition to the major state offices, we have to prepare for the election of national and state representatives."

Martin declined to comment on the possibility of the Philadelphia leaders abandoning the Brown appeal at the reported pending meeting.

Wilkes-Barre G. O. P. To Support Pinchot

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 8.—(AP.)—Republican committeemen of the Seventh Legislative District (Wilkes-Barre City), last night adopted resolutions pledging support "to Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor, even in the remote event his name appears in another column at the November election." The resolutions declare "the Pinchot vote in Luzerne is attacked on a senile, shallow and sappy technicality."

Scratches His Leg, Bleeds to Death

MT. HOLLY, N. J., July 8.—(AP.)—Believed to have opened an artery in scratching his leg, Walter J. Brown, 31, of Rancocas, near here, bled to death today before medical aid could be summoned.

Physicians said he apparently had scratched too severely and opened the artery with his finger nail.

Florida Endurance Fliers Forced Down

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla., July 8.—(AP.)—Excessive oil consumption forced George Haldeman and Stewart Chadwick to land their airplane at the municipal airport today after they had been aloft 15 hours and 42 minutes in an effort to establish a new world's non-refueling endurance flight record.

Queen Mary Likes After-Dinner Cigaret

LONDON, July 8.—(INS.)—Through the medium of the press, people of the British Empire learned that Queen Mary, like her lowliest subject, enjoys her after-dinner cigaret.

Her Majesty, according to the London News-Chronicle, for several years has smoked two cigarets a day—one after tea and one after dinner.

will fly overhead during the battle, to add a modernistic touch.

At 1 p. m. tomorrow, a parade will start from Thirteenth street and Braddock avenue, Braddock, traversing the principal streets of the four boroughs and ending on the site of the old John Frazier property, where the first log cabin west of the Alleghenies once stood, and a replica of which has been erected for the celebration.

A bronze statue of George Washington, designed by Frank Vittor and costing $10,000, will be dedicated. Secretary Mellon and the representatives of three nations will take leading parts in the exercises.

WILL VISIT MILLS

The noted visitors will be escorted through the Edgar Thomson Works of the Carnegie Steel Company, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company and various other mills of the district, after which there will be a boat ride up the Monongahela River today.

A banquet in the William Penn Hotel tomorrow night will close the program.

George Todd is general chairman; J. P. Harman, secretary; George Peoples, treasurer, and W. J. Caughey, chairman of decorations for the celebration.

VOTE MACHINE BID REJECTED

for a hoisting device that was protected by patent from use by any excepting the present bidder.

R. F. Griffen, vice president of the Automatic Voting Machine Company, which submitted the lone bid, declared the hoisting device was not patented, could be used by any manufacturer and was designed to reduce labor in elevating one panel above another when the machines were being set up.

State Senator Frank J. Harris, heading a large delegation of the Citizens Voting Machine Committee, asked the commissioners to clear up some uncertainty concerning delivery of machines after an award has been made. Harris said to Armstrong:

"If the manufacturers can make deliveries in proper quantities, will the commissioners buy enough machines to equip all the election districts of Pittsburgh, Clairton, Duquesne and McKeesport for the coming November election?"

HONORS HARRIS

Armstrong replied that the commissioners would buy the number that could be delivered by the successful bidder. He said the assignments to election districts would be made at the discretion of the commissioners, subject to the provisions of the law.

Armstrong said:

"I would like to put the first machines in Senator Harris' senatorial district. You are the father of the voting machine bill and should have the raising of the child."

Commissioner C. C. McGovern observed:

"There are not as many election thieves in that district as there are in other places."

Armstrong replied:

"I'm not sure of that."

Urging prompt action in ordering the voting machines McGovern declared:

M'GOVERN URGES HASTE

"If we don't act reasonably soon, none of the companies will be able to make deliveries in line with what the people want. As a result of the redistricting of the county, it will take considerable time to provide new election boards and instruct the members in the use of the machines. The location of polling places will have to be changed and voters must be given time to become acquainted with the new locations."

Armstrong speculated on the time when the entire county would be equipped with machines and McGovern said:

"You won't be here then."

Armstrong retorted:

"Well, I'll make a little bet I won't be a one-termer."

PHILADELPHIA PLANS

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—(AP.)—Plans to equip "at least" 31 wards, or approximately one-half of the city's 1,590 voting districts, with voting machines at the general election in November were decided upon today at a meeting of the Philadelphia County Commissioners. George F. Holmes, president of the commission, announced that a special training school for mechanics to maintain and repair the two types of machines to be used would be opened shortly. An educational drive to familiarize voters will also be begun shortly.

VOLPE ACCUSED AT HEARING BY BOY VOTER

Witness in Wilmerding Row Testifies He Was Told to Change Story

An 18-year-old boy admitted voting under age as hearings were resumed today in the contest over election of a tax collector in Wilmerding. The boy also testified that he had been instructed by Arthur Volpe, Wilmerding political boss, to change his story on which ticket he had supported.

The boy, William Carrano, employed as a barber, first testified that he had voted for the Citizens' party, supporting former Tax Collector James F. Richards.

CHANGES BALLOT

Cross-examining the boy, Attorney John D. Meyer, counsel for Richards, demanded:

"Who told you to say that you voted the Citizens' ticket?"

Carrano answered:

"Arthur Volpe."

Meyer said:

"Who else was present when Volpe told you to say you voted the Citizens' ticket?"

Carrano answered:

"My father and mother."

Meyer then asked the boy what ticket he actually voted, and he replied:

"The Working Man's ticket."

Another feature of the hearing on the contest, resulting from Richards' fighting the election of C. R. Shiring, was an explanation by Attorney Meyer about the ballot box of the First District, reported missing.

BOX NOT RETURNED

Meyer explained that the ballot box had been taken to the Courthouse for a recount last October in a prior election contest and never returned.

As a result, he said, the ballot box used in the general election last November, the vote of which is being contested by Richards, was used in the May primary this year and the ballots for last November were destroyed legally by the primary board.

BUREAU RECORD BOOK MISSING

Disappearance of the daily record book of applications for building permits from the offices of the Bureau of Building Inspection today caused confusion for the clerks and created the fear difficulty would be found in maintaining accurate files.

It was stated that the records would be of little value to any person outside the bureau and no reason for taking the book could be advanced. If it is not recovered, the work of several clerks for a week or more will be required to restore the bulletin files, it was said.

Chicago Gangsters Slay Newsdealer

CHICAGO, July 8.—(INS.)—James D. Phillipo, a newsdealer, was slain in true gangland style here today when three men approached his downtown stand in an automobile and felled him with a volley of revolver shots.

Coins from his change apron were sent jingling across the concrete as he fell. The slayers escaped.

Police are puzzled as Phillipo had no known connections with gangland.

Holdup Suspect Gets $50 or 60 Days

Percy Collins, Negro, of 10 Conductor way, was fined $50 or 60 days in the workhouse by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg today. Police testified the Negro had knowledge of a holdup and robbery in Logan street, June 27. Robert Germany, Negro, of 16 Conductor way, named by Collins as having tipped him to flee detectives was discharged. Germany denied the charge.

Widow Shot Down By Jealous Boarder

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 8.—Mrs. Cecelia Guidi, 42, widowed by the Mather mine blast in 1928, was killed in the yard of her Mather home last night as a 3-year-old son and several neighbors looked on.

Robert Fabbri, boarder in the Guidi home, is being held charged with the shooting. Police say he has confessed, giving jealousy as the motive.

Alleged Shoplifter Reveals Identity

Arraigned on a shoplifting charge, a woman who had previously concealed her identity, police say, broke down in Central Police Court today and said she is Mrs. Helen Herber, 42, of 538 Colorado avenue, Washington. She admitted stealing two dresses, valued at $24, from a downtown store. She was remanded to jail by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg.

SENATE IN FIGHT TO STRIP PACT OF SECRECY

Awaits Vote on Resolution Again Calling Upon Hoover For Documents Withheld

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP.)—The Senate began debate on the London naval treaty today with Senator Swanson, ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations and Naval committees, advocating ratification.

As the Virginian spoke, leaders were preparing for a vote on the first issue raised by the pact's opponents—a demand for the documents relating to the London conference which President Hoover has denied the Foreign Relations Committee.

OPINIONS ARE DIVIDED

A division of opinion prevailed on the resolution to that end, offered by Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee. Some leaders supposed to have it voted upon as quickly as possible, believing it would make no difference whether it was adopted or not, inasmuch as the President already has decided to withhold the papers. Others wanted to defeat the resolution and make a fight against it. There is doubt as to the outcome of the vote.

Senator Swanson's 12,000-word analysis of the treaty and his demand for ratification cheered the advocates. He was the wartime chairman of the Senate Naval Committee and always has been regarded as a staunch preparedness advocate.

There were indications that the treaty proponents were willing to rest their case on Swanson's speech and the message presented by President Hoover.

DEFENDS IT STRONGLY

The Virginian said the treaty gives America a well-balanced fleet for the first time; establishes naval supremacy for this country in the western hemisphere; saves the taxpayers at least one billion dollars by checking naval competition, and is "premotive of peace."

Today's opening quorum call showed just 50 senators answering—only one more than the 49 necessary to carry on business.

Secretary Stimson, who headed the American delegation to London, arrived on the Senate floor shortly after Senator Swanson began his address.

For the most part, the Senate membership remained through the long speech and gave it close attention. The galleries again were filled.

HINES NAMED VET CHIEF

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(INS.)—President Hoover today selected Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines as chief administrator for all veterans' affairs, which were consolidated under the bill passed by Congress last week.

Under this law, the World War Veterans' Bureau, over which Hines has been presiding, takes over the pensions bureau and the administration of soldiers' homes. The total annual budget for this administration of veterans' affairs will be approximately $800,000,000.

World War veterans entitled to benefits of the new pension bill which went into effect last week must file application if they want the disability allowance.

This was announced by Capt. Edwin S. Bettelheim, Jr., chairman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars National Legislative Committee, following a conference with Hines.

80 Wedding Guests 4 Months to Late

BALTIMORE, July 8.—(AP.)—Four score guests for the wedding of Gertrude Telowitz and Ralph J. Gordon arrived at the Telowitz home here too late for the ceremony.

Invitations were sent out last week, and the guests arrived last night. After the last guest had entered the home, the bride-to-be broke the news that she was a bride-in-fact and had been for four months.

After her mother had been revived from a faint, the story of the March 1½ elopement was told.

Queensland Official Quits, Denying Graft

CANBERRA, Australia, July 8.—(AP.)—E. G. Theodore, Queensland federal treasurer, who resigned under charges against his administration, today defended himself in Parliament.

A former miner, who entered labor politics at 25, Theodore aggressively demanded that formal charges be made against him, so he can appear before a tribunal to defend himself.

He was accused of having accepted graft in the purchase of mines on which the state of Queensland lost about $5,000,000.

Dead

JOHN B. REYNOLDS

REYNOLDS RITES TOMORROW

Funeral services for John B. Reynolds, nationally-known theatrical agent, who died late yesterday at his home in the Iroquois Apartments, Oakland, will be held in the T. B. Moreland funeral home, North Highland avenue and Rippey street, at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be private.

For many years he had been manager of the Alvin Theater.

He had been confined to his home by illness for several weeks.

Mr. Reynolds started his career as a newspaperman. He was one of the Pittsburgh reporters who covered the Johnstown flood story.

GOES TO SHOW BUSINESS

For several years he remained with newspapers here and then through a brother, Fin Reynolds, a former actor, he switched to the theatrical profession.

He became a press agent with the "Bride Elect" Opera Company and later advance agent for the tour of Stewart Robson. During his career as a theatrical press agent, he handled all the big musical shows and most of the prominent stars connected with the Shubert Theatrical Company.

He was with the Shuberts when they took up the "open door movement" and was that firm's personal representative in New England during that campaign.

MADE ALVIN MANAGER

The Shuberts later sent Mr. Reynolds to Pittsburgh as their personal representative and he was engaged by Harry Davis as the local manager of the Alvin Theater.

As a Pittsburgh newspaperman, Mr. Reynolds covered the Johnstown flood in 1889, and was a member of the Johnstown Flood Correspondents' Association.

Mr. Reynolds was one of the founders and an ex-governor of the Friars. He was also a member of the Green Room Club and the Army and Navy Club, of New York, the Pittsburgh Press Club and the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. He was also a member of the Masonic Fraternity and the Theatrical Press Representatives of America.

During the Spanish-American War, Mr. Reynolds enlisted and served as regimental adjutant of the Eighteenth Regiment.

He leaves his wife; a sister, Mrs. Samuel W. Jefferis, and two brothers, Fin and William H. Reynolds, all of Pittsburgh.

Fliers in Bathing Suits Mock Heat

RICHMOND, Va.—(AP.)—Air mail pilots on the Richmond-Atlanta route mock at hot weather with new flying togs—bathing suits.

Two night fliers, Richard Merrill and John Kytle, dress in bathing suits, shoes, helmets, and goggles for relief from the sun-heated air and exhaust-heated cockpits.

Bantam Hens Good Mothers for Quail

ASHEBORO, N. C.—(AP.)—Bantam hens have been found more satisfactory as "mothers" for young quail than the incubator method, state game officials say. More than 700 bantam hens on the state game farm here will rear 10,000 game birds this season.

CAMPBELL TELLS OF MERGER

Steel Head Denies Offer Of Special Post From Bethlehem; Gives Details

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 8.—(AP.)—Trial of the stockholders' injunction suit to prevent merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company resumed in Common Pleas Court today with James A. Campbell, 76-year-old chairman of the board of the Youngstown company on the stand.

The trial—involving a billion dollars—started June 25, and halted dramatically three days later with the suicide of Leroy A. Manchester, chief counsel for Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

Campbell was called as a hostile witness for cross-examination by the plaintiffs.

CAMPBELL TESTIFIES

Questioned by Harry Crawford, one of the attorneys associated with Luther Day of Cleveland, for the plaintiffs, Campbell revealed the history of the Youngstown company from its organization in 1900, with capital of $650,000, to the present day, when its assets total more than $235,000,000.

Crawford led Campbell over other merger details of the Youngstown company, namely, with Republic Iron and Steel, Truscan Steel and Inland Steel. Merger with the latter was approved by directors of both concerns, he said, and then called off by the Inland company because some of the larger stockholders were dissatisfied.

Campbell said he later reopened negotiations with the Inland Company at the solicitation of Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland capitalist who is now the leader of the opposition to the merger with Bethlehem.

BAKER MAKES CHARGE

Former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, chief attorney, charged at the beginning of the trial, that Eaton's opposition to the merger with Bethlehem Co. is based on his desire to merge the company with Inland, which Baker asserted would be more advantageous to Eaton. The Eaton group made the counter charge that merger with Bethlehem was voted illegally and on unfair terms, after officers of the Youngstown Company had been promised good positions with the Bethlehem Corporation.

The Youngstown chairman at one point said he wanted to correct a mistake, and he proceeded to deny that he was actually offered a position of dignity with the Bethlehem Corporation, though he had made such deposition.

He said:

"I want to state positively that never a word was said about salary or other compensation."

RATE PROTEST ORGANIZED

Final plans for presenting evidence at the Public Service Commission hearings on the short haul steel freight rate case were made today at a meeting of 60 shippers at the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh.

The hearings, which will be held in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, will start at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow. The case involves recently increased freight rates on hauls within the Pittsburgh district. Shippers have estimated that the rates, many of which have been doubled, will add over $2,000,000 a year to the freight bills of plants here and will make it difficult for local manufacturers to compete with other districts.

Steel companies and users of steel products have filed 49 individual complaints against the new rates.

Donald O. Moore, traffic representative for the Chamber of Commerce, presided.

Accuse Farmer Of Killing Parents

WARREN, Ark., July 8.—(AP.)—Albert Barnett, 30, farmer, was held without bond in jail here on a charge of murder in connection with the deaths of his father, J. R. Barnett, 65, prosperous farmer, and his stepmother, aged 60, whose bodies were found in the ruins of their fire-razed home near here.

Pittsburghers Again Hear King George on Radio

For the second time, the voice of King George V of England was heard over the radio by Pittsburghers today. His 10-minute address at the dedication of the New India House, Alwych, England, was transmitted through the National Broadcasting Company network of radio stations, including KDKA, beginning at 7:14 a. m.

The king's voice rang out clearly as he uttered the hope of a better understanding between the mother country and India, notwithstanding the present trying period of India's history. The king was the second member of the royal family to be heard in 14 hours, the Prince of Wales having spoken briefly late yesterday.

Several months ago, King George was heard by radio for the first time.

Mellon Institute Finds Milk Unhurt By Boiling

It is a pleasant new discovery that light boiling of milk does not substantially destroy its delicate and very important vitamin C.

Drs. E. W. Schwartze, F. J. Murphy and R. M. Hann, of the Mellon Institute for Industrial Research, have determined by experiments the extent to which heating kills vitamin C in all forms of milk.

The subjects of their tests were guinea pigs, that resemble human beings and monkeys in their urgent need for vitamin C in diet. When fed a non-vitamin C food, these creatures suffered from scurvy and other skin ailments.

Guinea pigs, however, thrived excellently when they imbibed milk that had been partially boiled.

The experimenters report this:

"The amount of vitamin C that was destroyed by lightly boiling three quarts of milk for five minutes, in a glass beaker or aluminum stew pan, was about 20 per cent."

That is, such boiling preserved 80 per cent of the power of vitamin C in milk.

The significance of the discovery is obvious. Milk is boiled and pasteurized in order to kill its tuberculosis and other germs. Now, so far experts had believed that boiling destroys vitamin C, particularly important for babies who live mostly on boiled milk.

But the Mellon Institute scientists assure us that lightly boiled milk contains the vitamin necessary for the proper development of young children.

NEW CASTLE SISTER TELLING WAY OUT OF PROXY WEDDING

I WANT NEDRA BACK
"IM GOING TO GET AN ANNULMENT
MY SISTER WILL HAVE TO MARRY HIM—and THEN GET AN ANNULMENT
NEDRA DOESNT CARE FOR HIM ANYMORE"

FOUR FASCINATING POSES OF AUDREY BAKER, NEW CASTLE SISTER WHO WAS PROXY BRIDE, EXPLAINING THE WAY OUT

Audrey, 21, Tea Guiman hostess, as she assumed the role of Beatrice Fairfax for the moment and explained the way out of the proxy marriage in which she went through a ceremony for her sister, Nedra, 19, model who was "too busy." Now attorneys, Ernest, Audrey and Nedra can't figure out who's married to whom if at all. Someone's marriage must be annulled because Sherry family attorneys have been ordered to get young Ernest out of the scrape. And Ernest wants to have Nedra back.

Ernest, scion of the famous restaurant Sherrys who was married,

TARIFF ATTACK ON MACDONALD

LONDON, July 8.—(AP)—A new threat was leveled today at the much-harassed MacDonald government in a conservative attack on its policies of free trade and elimination of safeguarding which is the British name for protective tariff.

Stanley Baldwin, former Conservative premier and Neville Chamberlain, minister of health in his government, sought from Mr. MacDonald an early date for discussion of a motion of censure of the government for its failure to provide safeguarding duties.

The motion was worded so as to wean from the government some Labor votes whose owners have pronounced more or less emphatically in favor of the protective tariff principle. If Labor defections are of consequence, and any great number of Liberals turn against the government, defeat of the ministry and resignation would be inevitable.

15 MOTORISTS DRAW FINES

The cases of 50 motorists arrested for traffic violations were heard today before Magistrate Charles Papale in East End Police station.

Fifteen defendants received fines ranging from $5 to $25. Fourteen other motorists were discharged, 15 cases were postponed and six defendants failed to appear for a hearing.

Magistrate Papale ordered informations made against the six tag dodgers.

Farmer Resisting Road Crew Jailed

READING, Pa., July 8.—(AP)—Although Victor Hemerly was in jail last night, refusing offers of bail on a charge of resisting officers who came to his Trailer (Northern Berks) farm to take part of his barn on a new state road survey, he is expected to change his mind and to be freed before tonight. The American flag he put on his barn is still waving, but part of the barn itself is to be razed by state highway employes.

Lila Lee, Film Star, Enters Sanitarium

PRESCOTT, Ariz., July 8.—(INS.)—Lila Lee, motion picture star, today was a patient in a local sanitarium, where she had registered under an assumed name, it was learned.

Miss Lee, who recently obtained a divorce from James Kirkwood, motion picture director and actor, came to fame as "Cuddles" Edwards in a vaudeville playlet, "School Days."

Operation Saves Boy With Bean in Throat

ASHLAND, Pa., July 8.—(AP)—The life of Francis M. McLeany, 4 years old, of Mahanoy City, was saved when a hurried operation by Dr. R. D. Spencer here today removed a bean from the boy's throat. A bronchoscope was used in the operation.

The will of Mrs. Karolina Exler, of 205 South Negley avenue, leaves the bulk of a $21,000 estate to her son, Joseph Exler, and her daughter, Mrs. Mary Furch. She leaves a $300 bequest to St. Wenceslaus Church, Progress street.

Fisher Names Sucha As Port Vue Justice

HARRISBURG, July 8.—(AP)—Gov. Fisher has named Joseph Sucha justice of the peace for Port Vue, Allegheny County.

Flagpole Sitter Hopes To Excel Hunters' Mark

ATLANTIC CITY, July 8.—Hoping to "out-endurance" the Hunter brothers, of Chicago, who stayed aloft in a plane for 23 days, Alvin (Shipwreck) Kelly today started his seventeenth day sitting on top of a flagpole. The pole is 225 feet above the Boardwalk here.

BROCKTON, Mass., July 8.—(INS.)—Stagnation of the circulation in the legs today was giving some bother to Ralph D'Agostino, who far 26 days has been sitting atop a 50-foot flagpole in his yard.

Physicians expressed the opinion that if "the dangler" stands on his head, keeping his feet aloft for four hours out of every 12, he can probably stay up at least 30 days.

Having shattered the record of 23 days 7 hours made by "Shipwreck" Kelly in Baltimore in 1927, "Dangling" D'Agostino, from his lofty perch today, was planning a trip over Niagara Falls. He plans to construct a huge rubber ball, reinforced with steel supports.

Bobby Jones Day Legal Holiday In Atlanta

ATLANTA, July 8.—(AP)—Bobby Jones, who already can have anything in Atlanta was all but given title and deed to the place for one day by official act of the city council.

A resolution passed unanimously officially declares July 14, the day Bobby returns from his golfing wars in Europe and Minneapolis a legal holiday. It urged citizens generally to observe the day as such and called upon business men to close shop so that Bobby might be cheered as every citizen would cheer him.

The resolution, one of the most unusual ever passed by the council, bore the name of 25 of the 29 members of council and was passed amid cheers. It now goes to Mayor I. N. Ragsdale for action.

SEIZED BOTTLES PUT TO USE

Various departments of the federal government will make use of 60,965 glass bottles seized in a Hill raid by prohibition agents, under an order today by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in United States District Court.

The bottles were confiscated May 10, 1928, at the warehouse of the Feitler Bottling Company, 1026 Watson street, when dry agents rattled away 67 truckloads of bootleg accessories.

The court ordered the contraband destroyed, but the edict was held up by an appeal by the owners to the United States Supreme Court. That tribunal, in an opinion several months ago, held that the articles seized were contraband.

Most of the bottles go to the medical purveyor in charge of the United States public health supply station, Perrysville, Md. Others go to the United States Army storehouse, Fort Mifflin, Philadelphia; to the United States appraisers' office, Baltimore, and to the medical supply officer, New York central depot. The order was signed at request of John W. Heazey, co-ordinator of the third area, customs house, Philadelphia.

Killed When Aerial Strikes Live Wire

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., July 8.—When he threw a radio aerial over an electric wire carrying a voltage of 2,300, Harry Haymond, 24, a drug clerk, was killed late yesterday at Richwood.

ICE FREES SHIPS LOCKED MONTHS

NORTH CAPE, Siberia, July 8.—(AP)—The icy embrace of the Arctic Ocean has at last released its grip upon the American fur trading ship Nanuk and the Soviet steamer Stavropol, held icebound here since last September.

The Nanuk was freed Sunday when the packed ice moved offshore while a little later the ice broke up in the bay freeing the Stavropol.

Both ships prepared to depart for their respective ports as soon as conditions warrant, the Nanuk for Seattle and the Stavropol for Vladivostok.

It was to the Nanuk that the American aviators, Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, were flying from Teller, Alaska, last November when their plane crashed near North Cape, killing both of them.

700 Starving Chinese Slain for Banditry

SHANGHAI, July 8.—(INS.)—Seven hundred starving Chinese peasants, driven to lawlessness by the ravages of hunger, have been killed and 350 captured in a terrific battle with troops in Kiangsi Province, it was learned here today.

The peasants had embarked "on a campaign of pillage and looting in an effort to stave off death from the famine sweeping a large portion of the interior. They are classed as bandits by the authorities.

Rain Delays Flight Over South Atlantic

NATAL, Brazil, July 8.—(AP)—Rain and fog along the northeastern coast of Brazil prevented the start of Jean Mermoz, French air mail pilot and ocean flier, on a seaplane flight across the South Atlantic to St. Louis, Senegal, French West Africa.

Mermoz had hoped to start from Lake Pomfim, 20 miles from Natal.

Senator Blinded In Timber Battle

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 8.—(AP)—State Senator W. J. Singletary, of Marianna, Fla., was blinded and E. B. Sauls, a sawmill operator, was seriously wounded in a gun battle over timber rights near Newport.

Senator Singletary was brought to a hospital here, where doctors found that both eyes had been shot out and his back pierced with shots.

Skyscraper Plans Have Athens All Upset

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—Over in Athens, Greece, it seems, there's much ado over plans by some Americans to erect a skyscraper amidst the classic ruins of the ancient capital.

Folks are writing pieces of protest to the Athenian papers, and John Vassos, New York architect who designed the structure, has been receiving letters from prominent residents of the Greek capital declaring it a violation of Greek tradition. The structure is to be only 16 stories high.

The cost of the skyscraper, which will be nearly $1,000,000, is being defrayed by Americans of Greek origin. The site was contributed by the Greek government.

JURY TAKES UP LINGLE TRAIL

CHICAGO, July 8.—(INS.)—The July grand jury began today its investigation of facts surrounding the gangland murder of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, with the prospect that the inquiry will be carried to the doors of Chicago's officialdom.

It was indicated as the jury went to work that its investigation of the slain reporter's life will be centered on insinuations that Lingle was either in the employ of or backed by "higher-ups." Lingle, a reporter earning $65 a week salary, had an income in excess of $60,000 a year, it has been disclosed. He has been referred to as Chicago's "unofficial police chief."

FOSTER FIGHTS RETURN

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—(AP)—Having temporarily blocked his removal to Illinois by a surprise move for a writ of habeas corpus, Frank Foster, indicted in Chicago for the murder of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, newspaper reporter, waited in jail here today as his attorneys fought for his release.

Foster, a lieutenant of the George (Bugs) Moran gang in Chicago, sued out the writ as the hour for his secret departure East drew near. It was made returnable today.

GOSLIN AGAIN HELD IN POOL

Tom (Goose) Goslin, 33, of Brownsville road, has no luck at police stations.

A few days ago when he appeared at South Side station to inquire about bail for four friends who had been arrested for operating a "numbers" lottery, he was arrested on the same charge.

Today he went back to ask about bond for Milton Raymovich, 21, of Carey way, arrested as a lottery operator. Again he was arrested on the same charge.

Raymovich, driving, had been chased out Carson street to Beck's Run road by police. When a tire blew up he was caught.

A third arrest today on a lottery charge was that of Clement Blazewich, 21, of Merriman street.

NYE GETS VOTE REPORT HERE

Leander Trautman, chairman of the recount board checking the vote of the primary election, May 20, today is preparing a reply to a request from Senator Gerald P. Nye, of the Senate Campaign Funds Committee, for information concerning Trautman's findings.

Senator Nye, through his secretary, Russell M. McFarland, asked Trautman to submit a brief summary of the errors and changes discovered in the various ballot boxes that have been opened and checked, also a statement of the general classes of errors. McFarland explained in a letter that the requested information would be used in a preliminary report to the Senate Investigating Committee.

Trautman declared McFarland was here some time ago and received an oral report of the recount board's procedure.

Violinist Who Slew Girl Near Death

PATERSON, N. J., July 8.—(INS.)—Threatened with pneumonia, Roderick Meakle, 28-year-old violinist, who shot himself and Jennie Brauer, beautiful 22-year-old girl, in a suicide pact, was fighting death today with hardly a chance to survive. Physicians said his condition was critical.

MT. VESUVIUS IN ERUPTION

NAPLES, Italy, July 8.—(AP)—Mount Vesuvius yesterday burst into a state of active eruption, developing three fountains of burning lava that invaded the whole northwest section of the vast platform of its crater.

The eruptive cone fell 95 feet down into the crater.

Alessandro Malladra, director of the Vesuvius Observatory, said the eruptive activity would continue for several weeks, but the lava probably would solidify in the crater and in the valley of the inferno.

He thought it would not pour out over the neighboring fertile slopes.

Communists Call Convention Sunday

READING, Pa., July 8.—(AP)—Communists of the state, in a statement attacking not only the old line political parties, but the Socialists as well, have called a state convention in this citadel of the Socialists for Sunday, July 13.

The call urges workers' groups to support the seven-hour day, five-day week and to work "for the repeal of the Flynn anti-sedition law, for unemployment insurance and relief against unemployment, against imperialism, for the defense of the Soviet Union, the building of a mass Communist party and for a workers' and farmers' government."

Coke Plant Begins Full Time Operation

BROWNSVILLE, July 8.—Better industrial conditions in Fayette County were seen with the announcement that the Oliver plants of the Pleasant Valley Tining Company have been placed on a full time basis. Over 700 men are given employment. Of 600 ovens at the three plants, 200 have been fired.

McAfee to Direct Board of Missions

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, professor of systematic theology at the Presbyterian Seminary in Chicago, has accepted the secretaryship of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, it was announced here. He will assume his new duties about September 1, succeeding Dr. Arthur J. Brown.

OTTO SEEN KING OF HUNGARY

BUDAPEST, July 8.—(INS.)—Archduke Otto, oldest of the eight children of the late Charles IV and the Empress Zita, will be king of Hungary. The return of Carol II to the throne of Rumania has made this a certainty.

This is the considered opinion of Senator Joseph Vesti, publisher of Pester Lloyd, Budapest's largest newspaper, who says there is no other course the country can pursue. Hungary must bring the Hapsburgs back to the throne. He declares:

"There is no particular hurry. We Hungarians are a patient people and everything comes to him who waits. We learned our mistake by hurrying on two occasions in the past—1920 and 1921—when Otto's father, Charles, tried in vain to regain his crown."

The publisher said Admiral Horthy is doing and will continue to do all in his power to further the return of the youthful king.

Navajo Indians Turn To Modern Irrigation

GALLUP, N. M., July 8.—(AP)—Seeing in white man's medicine something more dependable than the caprices of their rain god, Navajo Indians of six tribal divisions gathered in annual powwow here today to discuss irrigation.

Fewer dances to placate deities, and more dams to store the water from artesian wells in the canyons of the 12,000,000-acre reservation, are proposed.

The tribesmen, half-hidden in multi-colored blankets, drove here in automobiles. Dashne-Cha-Ches-Chil-Igi, youthful educated chief, presides over the councils.

Pitt Summer School Appointments Made

The University of Pittsburgh announced two appointments today in the summer session and extension division. C. Stanton Belfour, former assistant registrar, will be assistant director of the summer session, while Endicott Batchelder will act in the position Belfour vacated. Belfour is national president of Phi Alpha Theta fraternity, while Batchelder was for two years in charge of registrations in the downtown university.

Even Law Turns Its Back on Poor Skunk

HARRISBURG, July 8.—(AP)—The Dauphin County Court has ruled that a skunk is legally not a small game animal and is not entitled to protection under the law. The court set aside a $10 fine imposed by a justice of the peace upon Miss Belle Shields, of lower Dauphin County.

A state game protector brought suit against Miss Shields, alleging that her dogs killed a skunk.

Britons Wish Lipton Luck At Lifting Yacht Trophy

LONDON, July 8.—(INS.)—Britain's master mariners bade farewell today to Sir Thomas Lipton on the eve of his departure for New York with his Shamrock V, and wished him good luck in his fifth attempt to lift the America's cup.

Sir Thomas was the guest of the Honourable Company of the Master Mariners at luncheon in Fishmongers' Hall, within the shadows of London bridge. The Prince of Wales, master of the company, presided.

Gen. Charles Gates Dawes, American ambassador to Britain, and Rudyard Kipling, the author, were among those present. The prince said:

"All we ask is a turn of luck. I believe Sir Thomas will be as popular in the United States as in Great Britain if he brings back the cup."

Sir Thomas said in reply:

"This time I think I have a reasonable chance of bringing back that illusive mug."

NEWPORT, R. I., July 8.—(INS.)—With one elimination triumph stowed away in her victory locker, the good ship Yankee, with the Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams at her wheel, will go to the line today pitted against Whirwind, probably the weakest of three rivals.

In the other half of these elimination trials, which began here yesterday, Weetamoe will do battle with Enterprise.

Enterprise and Weetamoe, on past performances, are regarded as having the best chance of defending the America's cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V, but Yankee's stock zoomed skyward as a result of her brilliant victory over the Vanderbilt ship.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The campaign for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is taking on new form, with the leading anti-prohibition organizations gaining financial strength and taking an active part in elections, it was disclosed today in political campaign reports filed with the clerk of the House under the corrupt practices act.

Although dry leaders on occasion charged that huge slush funds have been raised in the fight on the amendment and Volstead act the regular campaign reports of national organizations have indicated a contrary condition until the past few months.

The semi-annual report of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, largest single anti-dry organization, disclosed the names of many prominent American business men who have lent financial aid recently.

DU PONTS LIBERAL

For a considerable period the association was financed largely by Pierre S. Du Pont, Wilmington, Del., capitalist chairman of its executive committee, his brothers, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Charles H. Sabin and Edward S. Harkness of New York.

The current report which lists contributions for a three-month period, showed gifts of $1,000 or more from 21 persons in addition to several hundred small contributions.

During the half-year ending June 1, the organization received $332,839 and expended $385,392.

The expenditures include $100,000 to Robert L. Montgomery, treasurer of the Bohlen-Phillips-Dorrance campaign committee for use in the recent Pennsylvania primaries. This is the first time the reports have shown anti-dry organizations engaged in a state campaign on a large scale.

With efforts being made to put anti-dry candidates in the field in the congressional elections in the fall, it is expected that organized political activity of the anti-prohibitionists will grow.

OTHERS IN FIELD

In addition to the Association against the Prohibition Amendment, a half dozen anti-dry organizations are in the field. They include the Crusaders, a young people's organization; the women's committee, headed by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, of New York; the Congressional Districts Modification League, and the Federal Tax Reduction Dispensary League.

Contributions to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment from March 1 to June 1 as reported to the clerk of the House, include:

Hobart Ames, North Easton, Mass., $1,000; Larz Anderson, Boston, $1,500; Vincent Astor, New York, $2,500; Clarence M. Brown, Chestnut Hill, Pa., $1,250; Robert K. Cassatt, Philadelphia, $2,700; Pierre S. du Pont, Wilmington, $17,500; Mrs. William L. Harkness, New York, $1,000; E. Roland Harriman, New York, $1,000; Mrs. C. F. Hatheway, South Lincoln, Mass., $1,050; Eldridge R. Johnson, New York, $12,500; William S. Knudsen, Detroit, $5,000; William J. McGlinn, Philadelphia, $1,487; W. E. Norvell, Jr., Nashville, Tenn., $1,250; Harold F. Pitcairn, Philadelphia, $5,700; Raymond Pitcairn, Philadelphia, $5,700; Theodore Pitcairn, Bryn Athyn, Pa., $1,950; Herbert M. Sears, Boston, $1,050; John R. Umsted, Philadelphia, $1,487; Mrs. Edith Van Gerbig, New Canaan, Conn., $1,200; Ernest L. Woodward, Le Roy, N. Y., $10,000.

Californians Paying 10½ Cents for Gas

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—(AP.)—Directors of the Retail Service Station Dealers Association today asked Gov. C. C. Young to intervene in the California gasoline price-cutting war and save them from "utter ruin."

The telegram suggested oil companies be declared public utilities and placed under the control of the State Railroad Commission. Gasoline has been selling at 10½ cents to 17 cents a gallon.

Police Close Hunt For 3-X Murderer

NEW YORK, July 8.—(INS.)—A police guard of 200 men searching for the mysterious 3-x murderer had been withdrawn today, and police announced they believed the killer had completely ceased activities and disappeared.

Commissioner Mulrooney said that the killer's last letter to newspapers, stating his "mission was ended" and that he would operate no more, would now have to be accepted.

10 Die as Farmers Battle for Land

MEXICO CITY, July 8.—(AP.)—The correspondent of Universal at Autlavguanajuato today reported that 10 agrarians had been killed and numerous others wounded in a battle between farmers of Huicachi and Zoyatlan over disposal of communal grants of land.

Nap Disturbed, Man Kills Boy, Aged 8

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 8.—(AP.)—Rescued from a threatening crowd after he had shot and fatally wounded Joseph Pagliaro, 8, Antonio Colosimo, 33, was being held today on a murder charge. Police said Colosimo fired because Joseph and two others boys were disturbing his slumber.

JOHN D.—91 TODAY!

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER ON A QUIET GREEN

Rockefeller oil leader nearing the century mark as he vowed he'd spend much of today, his 91st birthday, in a quiet round of golf over his private links on his Pocantico Hills estate in New York.

J. D., 91 TODAY, DISPERSE 3,000 WELL, HAPPY FLINT STRIKERS

spend the day doing the same thing at the same hour as on other days that stretch back and back through the years in an endless procession of quiet, absurdly pleasant monotony.

Reporters and photographers who used to be invited to Mr. Rockefeller's birthday parties were unable to see him today. They have not been admitted to Pocantico Hills for several years now.

HAPPY, GRATEFUL

Miles away in New York, through the offices of Standard Oil, a statement from Mr. Rockefeller was issued. It read:

"It gives me great pleasure to say that I have had more kindnesses shown me during the past year from every part of the country than ever before in my life, and it is needless to state that I am unspeakably grateful.

"I am in the best of health, surrounded by dear friends, and have naught but goodwill toward all."

Today's program called for the bestowal of many bright, new dimes on servants, guests and members of the family of the man who has given away, in larger sums, more money than most men ever possess.

It has for years been Mr. Rockefellers' custom to make a tour of his house soon after arising, at 7 a. m., giving a dime to every servant he meets. And everybody at breakfast gets a dime, too. Breakfast is a fairly hearty meal for Mr. Rockefeller does not suffer from indigestion and never has, despite popular belief.

NINE HOLES OF GOLF

A short walk in the garden, breakfast, a bit of numerica, the game of numericals made famous by Mr. Rockefeller, who adopted it as a means to keep everybody from rushing away from the table, an hour of work in his study on his financial and benevolent undertakings, and exactly at 10:15 nine holes of golf, with some of his neighbors as companions.

Rest before lunch, numerica, more rest, then an automobile ride, followed by another nap.

And then dinner, undoubtedly surrounded by his family. And probably, although nothing was said about it, a birthday cake. For the first time in many years John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who usually cut the candle-lit cake, was not present, being in the West on a business trip.

Poison Kills U. S. Bride of Nobleman

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 8.—(AP.)—Police today investigated the death of a beautiful 23-year-old New York bride, Dorothy de Konkoly-Thege, who died in a hospital here yesterday of poisoning.

Her husband is a member of the old Hungarian nobility and an engineer.

FLINT, Mich., July 7.—(Universal)—Three thousand strikers milling about the Fisher Body plant were driven off the streets by a squadron of mounted police who charged down the sidewalks two abreast.

The sixth day of the largest strike in the history of the city was marked by a concerted effort on the part of state and city police to dismantle the workers who are protecting the newly established "sit-down" strike.

Forbidden by Chief of Police Caesar Scavarda to picket with banners, the men walked slowly back and forth in mute protest on the streets opposite the factory which extends for half a mile. Before the appearance of the mounted police plainclothes men stationed 20 feet apart kept the strikers moving.

R. J. Whiting, general manager of the Fisher Body plant, expressed himself confident that the backbone of the strike was broken although not more than 200 men passed through the heavily guarded gate of the factory. According to Chief Scavarda, 21 men and 2 women were held over the holiday on charges of resisting an officer, unlawful assembly and riot.

TAKEN ON RIDE, ASKS HELP

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 8.—(INS.)—Police throughout Northern Illinois were on the lookout today for Robert Bimm, 39, of Rockford, after a note was found in Silvis, Ill., stating he was being taken for a "ride" by Chicago gangsters.

The note, signed by Bimm, was found on the highway and was addressed to his wife. In it he asked for help.

Bimm was kidnaped July 1 and taken to Cicero, a Chicago suburb, where he was tortured and accused of informing federal agents about Rockford liquor selling resorts, according to Mrs. Bimm. Cicero is the stronghold of the Capone forces.

Mob Storms Inn, Hurls Furniture Out

TREVES, France, July 8.—(AP.)—Furniture of an inn, formerly the rendezvous of separatists, today was seized by a mob and thrown from windows into the River Moselle.

Several shots were fired by the beleagued dwellers, who barricaded themselves against the angry Rhinelanders. Police rescued the inmates.

Boys Invite 'Another Good Scout,' John D., to Camp

AUBURN, N. Y., July 8.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, on his ninety-first birthday today, had an invitation to relive the days of his youth in the old haunts. Forty-two Boy Scouts of Cayuga County, in camp on Owasco Lake, in almost the exact spot where Rockefeller lived as a boy, penned and signed this invitation about their campfire:

"We Boy Scouts about our campfire tonight are writing this note to you as another good scout, who when a boy lived and played on this same shore where we are in camp. In our hikes we've been over every foot of ground where you lived from the age of 4 to 10. We have fished in the lake where you and your brother William caught your first fish with a bent pin, and we've drunk on a hot day from the brook that ran past your door yard. One troop today located the spot where once stood the first school you ever went to, a little frame house your daddy built.

"We are inviting you to come to our camp on your yearly trip back to your boyhood home in the Finger Lakes region and eat fish we'll all catch here in Owasco Lake."

G. O. P. LEADERS FAIL TO OUST HUSTON

Tennessean Seems Certain To Force Public Demand, Not Private Hint to Quit

By GEORGE L. DUENO,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The controversy within the Republican party over continuance of Claudius H. Huston as its national chairman has developed within the last 24 hours into one of the most amazing political situations in recent years.

Virtually every newspaper reporter in Washington on Monday received information from an assortment of assumedly responsible Republican sources that President Hoover on Sunday night, had finally in the interests of party harmony, suggested to Huston his position was no longer tenable.

Still last night, friends of Huston belatedly rallied to his support and intimated quite strongly the question of resignation had not been brought up by either man.

OUSTER DEMANDED

Unquestionably, there is a strong movement afoot within the Republican party to oust the chairman. It has been an open secret, ever since a Senate committee disclosed he had raised funds for a Muscle Shoals lobby and then temporarily diverted part of the money to his private brokerage account, that G. O. P. leaders felt he could only harm the party by remaining as chairman.

Senators have left the White House within the past few weeks and gratuitously offered the information they were discussing with Mr. Hoover "the question of Huston's successor."

STICKS TO JOB

With this impressive background, reporters went to Republican headquarters at the Barr Building expecting an announcement of Huston's resignation. Instead, they found him bland and smiling and giving every indication—without actually saying so—that he intended to stick on the job for many months to come. For publication he had this to say:

"I have no statement to make at the present time."

On Thursday there will be a meeting of the officers of the committee and the chairmen of the Republican Senatorial and Congressional campaign committees. It was called by Huston to discuss matters pertaining to the coming campaign. Those matters according to report are going to be discussed, and the press will be given a statement thereafter outlining the events of the session.

ASSESSOR HELD IN BRIBE CASE

CHICAGO, July 8.—(INS.)—County Assessor Gene Oliver today was under indictment here on six counts of bribery. The state grand jury late yesterday returned the indictment against Oliver while he was on trial in Federal Court on charges of income tax evasion.

The indictments charge Oliver with accepting a $42,000 bribe for fixing taxes, checks for which were introduced as evidence in his income tax trial.

William Nichols, a salesman for the Wisconsin Lime and Cement Company, was indicted with the assessor.

21 Persons Drown In Korean Floods

TOKIO, July 8.—Dispatches to Tokio newspapers said 21 persons were drowned, many missing and heavy property damage resulted from floods in Southwestern Korea. Two hundred houses were reported destroyed, many bridges washed away, farms ruined and much livestock drowned.

Baseball Most Dangerous Sport

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP.)—An insurance company's analysis of claims for vacation injuries would indicate that baseball is the most dangerous recreation. Injuries noted were: Baseball, 807; swimming, 562; scuffling, 287; bowling, 269; skating, 230; fireworks, 194; hunting, 177; golf, 164; ping pong, 3.

Morrow Returns To Mexican Embassy

MEXICO CITY, July 8.—(AP.)—Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, after a week-end at his Cuernavaca country estate, returned to his desk at the embassy, where he said he now expected to remain until the latter part of September.

'Racketeer' Brand Wins New Trial For Man

CHICAGO, July 8.—(AP.)—Calling a man a "racketeer" is not a good idea until the man has been proved to be such, Judge Phillip J. Finnegan said yesterday, granting Thomas Cregan, union official, a new trial on charges of conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses.

In closing arguments Cregan was called a "racketeer" by prosecutors. Judge Finnegan held that use of this term and other prejudicial epithets was sufficient grounds for granting a new trial.

RIVALS BATTLE FOR AIR MAIL CONTRACTS

Established Lines Here Face Competition, Seek Protection of New Law

Aviation interests hoping to capture air mail contracts on the new transcontinental route through Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and St. Louis are in Washington awaiting a momentarily expected decision of the Postoffice Department on the new Watrous airmail law.

Postmaster General Walter F. Brown and Comptroller General J. R. McCarl have been holding daily conferences which will greatly affect Pittsburgh's future in aeronautics.

Whether two Pittsburgh aviation concerns already operating on daily schedule—Clifford Ball's Path of the Eagle to Washington and Pittsburgh Airways to Philadelphia and New York—will receive protection made possible by the Watrous act or established operations also will be determined.

MAY WAIVE BIDS

Under the Watrous bill the Postoffice Department is authorized to make air mail contracts without bids with concerns which have been operating over the territory for six months or more. This makes both the Ball line and Pittsburgh Airway eligible. Authorized air mail routes include Washington and Norfolk, as well as Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Four operating concerns are eligible for contracts on the transcontinental run. Besides Pittsburgh Airways these include Western Air Express, National Air Transport and the Safeway Airlines.

Also interested are non-operating concerns, among which is said to be an un-named Pittsburgh corporation.

This corporation, it is said, is concerned chiefly with the New York contract, and is attempting to become eligible through an arrangement with Transcontinental Air Transport now operating a combination air-rail passenger service from coast to coast.

FEAR TURMOIL

The present Eastern air terminal of T. A. T. is Columbus, but according to reports the local concern aims at an arrangement whereby T. A. T. would be granted an extension east from Columbus, and the local corporation would operate or become a part of this new link.

Should this occur, it is predicted, other companies here would contest the award, throwing the whole business into turmoil.

It is to prevent entanglements that the Postmaster General and Comptroller General are conferring. The Comptroller General has power to refuse to pass payments, unless he approves the form of the contract.

Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover said today that the department was extremely anxious to settle this question in order to start the new routes immediately.

Son Killed by Wire, Parents Ask $25,000

A value of $25,000 has been placed on the life of their son and sole support, Raymond Eakin, late of Penn Township, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Eakin against the West Penn Power Company. The youth was killeed by coming into contact with a high tension wire while walking along a path near Olympia-Oakford Park, where he had been employed, July 7, 1929.

BISHOPS GIVEN GLOOMY VIEW OF CHURCH

N. Y. Minister at Lambeth Conference Says Religion Is Failing to Avert War

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng., July 8.—(AP)—A gloomy picture of the world situation of the church today was painted by Dr. Fred D. Smith, of New York, at the meeting of the International Congregational Council.

Dr. Smith, secretary of the national council of Congregational Churches of the United States, said the international situation in the world is overwhelming, while the economic situation is even more chaotic. He said:

"The very philosophy whereby the world was organized into nations is menaced."

SEES WAR THREAT

Dr. Smith added that the extreme nationalism which is being propagated in various countries, if carried to its ultimate conclusion, meant war.

Dr. Smith said he was not faint-hearted, but that he almost lost courage when he observed the inefficiency of Christian churches in this eventful period of history.

The clergyman declared himself convinced that if humanity really believed that the Christian gospel would be applied, serious injury to churches meant business and would refuse to approve of war there would be an enormous rally to the standard of the church.

The New York minister said he wished the picture was more encouraging, but if the churches do not face the seriousness of the situation they will never be able to rise to the occasion.

'Confession' Story Wins Divorce For Wife

CUMBERLAND, Md., July 8.—(AP)—Too much publicity for his affairs of the heart brought Mrs. Esther Pleagle a divorce from her husband, Vorder Smith Pleagle, in a decree based on a story written by the man for a "confessions" magazine, in which he outlined his love affair with a neighbor's wife.

The manuscript of the "confession" was admitted as evidence. It also was testified that Pleagle paid numerous visits to the home of his neighbor while the latter was absent, and ordered his wife from the room. She said she watched the couple's love making through a radiator opening. Mrs. Pleagle was given custody of their five children.

U. S. FIGHTING CHOLERA IN TROPICS

Scores of Filipinos Die On Island of Cebu; Yellow Fever Tropical Menace

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—Cholera and yellow fever, old scourges in a new age, have made the tropic map a battleground for Gen. Hugh S. Cumming, of the United States Public Health Service.

It is a fight of many phases, brought sharply to focus by the serious outbreak of cholera in the Philippines. In its broader aspects it involves rigid quarantine regulations by sky as well as by sea and ultra-modern vaccination and eradication methods.

To Dr. Cumming has been given the task of formulating an international convention whereby the various countries involved in tropic travel may enter a compact to prevent the spread of plagues by airplanes.

CHOLERA SPREADS

Returning to regular desk routine this week after absence which included the international health conference on tropic diseases, Dr. Cumming found the cholera problem on Uncle Sam's own doorstep for the first time in many years.

A crescendo of Philippine cables each longer than the last because it told of more cases, more deaths, lay upon his desk. He commented:

"Sounds bad. It has hit many of the large islands—seems pretty much all over the Philippines."

The speed with which the disease spread was shown by its trail through the island of Cebu, about 200 miles by sea south of Manila.

The first cable, June 6, noted one death in Cebu. On June 10 there were eight cases, seven deaths. June 19, 53 additional cases, 28 additional deaths. June 23, 53 more cases, 11 more deaths. June 30, 86 more cases, 43 more deaths. July 7, 14 cases, six deaths in the port of Cebu.

MOUTH VACCINATION

The most modern note in cholera control, Dr. Cumming remarked, is the mouth method of vaccination, recommended at the May League of Nations health conference by Great Britain, Rumania, Bulgaria and Soviet Russia.

In the fight against yellow fever, Dr. Cumming has sent Dr. H. P. Smith, former chief quarantine officer of the Philippines, on to Liberia, its historic home, with the instructions:

"Eradicate."

Mouse Will Warn Hawks Against Plane Fumes

WICHITA, Kan., July 8.—(AP)—In the forthcoming transcontinental sky dash of Capt. Frank Hawks a mouse will be the danger signal against the hazards of a carbon monoxide filled cockpit.

Capt. Hawks, who will leave Wichita Friday for New York, there to await favorable weather for his three-stop cross country record attempt, announced the latest wrinkle in air safety devices today.

The mouse will ride in a cage in the enclosed cockpit of Hawks' monoplane. If the animal is overcome by fumes the flier will realize his danger, lower his speed and open the cockpit for ventilation.

SAN FRANCISCO GREETS FLIERS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—(AP)—San Franciscans lined roof tops, thronged the civic center and crowded Mills Field today as Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith, world flier, flew from Oakland airport to receive a rousing reception from old friends.

The Australian and two companions, Capt. J. P. Sault and J. W. Stannage, stepped from the famed Southern Cross at Mills Field to be hurried to the Embarcadero where a parade was formed.

With sirens screeching, a long line of automobiles moved up Market street to the city hall where the fliers were officially greeted. A banquet last night ended the welcoming ceremonies.

The trio will depart within a few days for their homes—Kingsford-Smith to Australia to marry Mary Powell of Melbourne; Stannage to England and Sault to his real estate interests in Ireland.

DIVORCEE SLAIN IN RUM RESORT

DETROIT, July 8.—(AP)—Andrew Steffen, 48, scion of a wealthy Michigan family, late yesterday shot and killed Mrs. Irene Harder, 33, a divorcee. He then held the muzzle of the pistol against his temple and pulled the trigger several times but the gun was empty.

According to police, Mrs. Harder was partner in an apartment "blind pig" in which the shooting occurred. She was struck by five bullets.

Steffen was captured just outside the apartment by a traffic policeman who was on his way to investigate the shots. Police said he confessed killing the woman and said she had impoverished him and broken up his home through blackmail.

Contractor Dies At Sharpsville Home

SHARON, Pa., July 8.—W. D. Williams, 68, Sharpsville contractor, died at his home after an illness of several months.

DRY LAW VOTE FACES DELAY

BISMARCK, N. D., July 8.—(AP)—Petitions bearing sufficient signatures—more than 20,000—to initiate a measure for the repeal of the state's prohibition laws were on file with Secretary of State Robert Byrne today, but legal technicalities intervened, making it doubtful whether the proposal would be placed on the November election ballot.

J. A. Danielson of Minot, a representative of the group sponsoring the repeal movement, submitted 20,800 signatures to the Secretary of State. Not all the petitions, however, are accompanied by affidavits as provided by law. Under the statute, every sheet bearing a group of signatures must carry an affidavit stating the collector of the names witnessed the signatures. About 7,000 of these signatures in the petitions presented by Danielson do not have these affidavits.

Byrne stated he could consult with Attorney General James Morris for a construction of the law before taking action on the petitions.

RED 'INVADERS' FAIL TO GAIN

FORT GEORGE G. MEADE, Md., July 8.—(AP)—The Red invading army, repulsed in an attack Monday by its fleet against the harbor defenses of Baltimore, continued to make raids on the Blue defending forces in the Back and York River sections, but these attempts against the rear of Fort [illegible] were unsuccessful.

Fort Saulsbury, Delaware, was silenced by the Red sea and air forces and raids were made at various points between Baltimore and Fort Monroe by the invaders, but no material damage was inflicted on the Blue army.

Thus the first official day of the action in the theoretical warfare between an invading force and members of National Guard, reserve forces and the regular army of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia, centering here, ended.

Passengers Shaken As 2 Trains Crash

ELLWOOD CITY, July 8.—Passengers on a Pittsburgh and Lake Erie passenger train on the branch line to West Ellwood Junction were shaken up and traffic was tied up several hours when two cars of the train were derailed as the result of a collision with a switch engine. The heavy engine plowed into the rear end of the passenger coaches, derailing two.

Passengers were taken by bus to Wampum to make connections with through trains.

Woman Screams, Vigilantes Kill Husband

CHICAGO, July 8.—(AP)—Two armed vigilantes patroling the dark, lonely stretches of suburban Forest Glen where a woman was slain by an assailant last February, saw a motor car pull away from a curb just as a woman ran across the lawn, screaming:

"Stop him! Stop him!"

The vigilantes fired, the man toppled from the auto, mortally wounded, and the vigilantes learned, they said, that instead of shooting a criminal, they had slain a piqued husband who had just left a party at his home because of a quarrel with his wife.

The victim, Clarence Schultz, died in a hospital.

PADLOCK FACES FRAT CLUB

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—A padlock complaint demanding the closing of the dining room, grill and bar room of the Fraternities Club, headquarters for 18 Greek letter societies, in East Thirty-eighth street, has been filed against the Allerton Operating Corporation, owners of the building, by the United States attorney.

The complaint is the result of a raid staged upon the 20-story club last April by prohibition agents who posed as college boys. The agents charged that liquor was sold in the dining room and grill, occupying the first floor and basement of the building, and in the bar room, on the second floor.

PLANE UPSETS, 3 MISSING

STETTIN, Germany, July 8.—(INS.)—Three persons, including one woman, were missing and believed to have drowned today when the Lufthansa flying boat G-864, capsized while it was being towed toward Bornholm Island in the Baltic Sea, according to Telegraphen Union reports received here.

Two of the crew and three passengers were rescued.

The plane had been forced to land because of engine trouble while en route from here to Kalmer, Sweden. A schooner sighted it today after Swedish and German naval vessels had been on a nightlong search for the plane.

NORRIS FIGHTS NORRIS IN WEST

LINCOLN, Neb., July 8.—(AP)—Suit was filed in District Court here by Donald Gallagher, a Lincoln attorney, to restrain Secretary of State Frank Marsh from entering the name of George W. Norris, of Broken Bow, on the Republican primary ballots in Nebraska, in opposition to Senator George W. Norris, of McCook, for the senatorial nomination. He attacked the legality of accepting a mailed filing which was received July 5, two days after the polls were closed, although posted in the mails on July 3.

Friends of Senator Norris in Omaha were preparing to also attack the filing with a protest to be filed directly with the secretary of state.

DOROTHY DIX writes to PITTSBURGH WIVES

"How love cheerful color! Your home charms when curtains, cushions, slip covers, lamp shades, table linens, all are as lovely and fresh in color as new."

Sample washed 12 times in Lux, fresh, vital—the color has all the thrill of new.

Sample washed 12 times with ordinary "good" soap—undeniably faded, lacking color charm.

If it's Safe in Water, it's just as Safe in LUX!

"Let your surroundings reflect YOU"

HIS wife—his home! How closely bound together, in YOUR HUSBAND'S mind.

Busy . . . making money for his family, his loved ones . . . that man of yours always carries in his mind's eye . . . a PICTURE.

You are the center of the picture—its frame is YOUR HOME.

Does your home express the charm of your own dainty femininity—does it reflect YOU—to your husband? IT CAN! There is one charm which every home, no matter how simple, can have.

The charm of fresh, vibrant color!

Men Love Color

Men LOVE cheerful color, my dears. Just as you yourself attract when your little house frocks, your dainty blouses, your printed silks, are adorably COLORFUL, so your home charms when curtains, cushions, slip covers, table linens, spreads, all are lovely and fresh in color.

But, women ask me, "How can we keep these pretty fabrics lovely looking in spite of frequent washing? So often they fade all too quickly."

It is true that just ordinary "good" soaps do take out some of the color along with the dirt. But this will never be the case if you wash them always in Lux.

Lux is made especially to keep colors vibrantly alive, to preserve the soft, dainty texture of sheer fabrics.

And not only for colored things, but also for the many white linens and sash curtains about your house, is Lux invaluable.

The extra daintiness and freshness that come from the use of Lux, the loveliness of texture and the saving of white things from unsightly yellowing, are truly remarkable.

KIP MAY PAY ALICE MILLION

NEW YORK, July 8.—Leonard Kip Rhinelander is about to trade a "substantial sum"—probably more than $1,000,000—in exchange for freedom from Alice Jones Rhinelander, Negro hackman's daughter.

Attorneys admitted the six years of litigation between the couple is near an end. They denied, however, a settlement has been definitely signed.

Frank M. Gagliardi, one of Mrs. Rhinelander's counsel, was asked concerning reports that his client would gain $1,000,000 through an agreement already reached. He replied:

"All I can say at this time is that negotiations have been under way for three weeks, and that if they go through a substantial sum will be involved."

It is understood Mrs. Rhinelander will not oppose the Nevada divorce recently obtained by Rhinelander, and will agree to lift the receivership put on much of Rhinelander's property pending the outcome of her two actions.

FINNS PROTEST REDS' STATUS

HELSINGFORS, Finland, July 8.—(AP.)—Some 20,000 enthusiastic citizens of Helsingfors cheered a group of Finnish peasants as they marched into this city to demonstrate against the license accorded Communism and Communis propganda in Finland.

The peasants' parade in the main square of the city was viewed by the president of the republic, members of the cabinet, Gen. Mannerheim and all foreign ministers present.

President Lauri Relander in an address referred to the patriotic character of the demonstration and emphasized it was carried out on constitutional lines.

Two Boys Injured Riding Street Car

Knocked off a street car while "hooking" a ride in Forbes street near Hooper street, last night, Theodore Moore, 10, of 642 Wandless street, and David Woods, 6, of 2844 Orbin street, Negroes, suffered lacerations and were taken to Mercy Hospital, police reported.

The boys, standing on the journal boxes of the car, were knocked off when the car passed a parked truck, it was said.

Three Pennsylvania Postmasters Named

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP.)—The Postoffice Department has announced the appointment of the following Pennsylvania postmasters:

Boyers, Butler County, Mrs. Mary A. Kerr; Iselin, Indiana County, Miss Rachael M. Thurston; Rochester Mills, Indiana County, Richard M. Dodson.

PARDON OF 270 UNCENSURED

ATLANTA, July 8.—(AP.)—City Council has voted down a resolution censuring Acting Mayor J. Allen Couch for his action in emptying the city jail by a Fourth of July amnesty order and ordered an impeachment trial for Dr. John G. Wilkins, city physician, recently indicted on charges of extortion.

Dr. P. L. Moon, former alderman, and H. M. Rantin, Democratic nominee for council, were named to succeed Alderman J. E. Turner and Councilman W. E. Saunders, both under conviction of bribery. Rantin defeated Saunders, who ran in the recent primary, asking a "vindication vote." Turner and Saunders resigned after their conviction.

U. S. SIGNS SHIP LOAD LINE PACT

LONDON, July 8.—The United States and 26 other countries signed a new international load-line convention for ships.

The convention establishes for the first time uniform loading rules for all cargo ships of the signatory nations. A conference of shipping men has been discussing it in London since May 20.

I Gained 9 Lbs. in 3 Weeks. Pimples Gone, Look Younger

BOULDER DAM WORK NOW UNDER WAY

Completion of Project Will Conquer Great American Desert, Wilbur Declares Universal Service

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Preliminary construction work on Boulder Dam, $165,000,000 power, irrigation and flood control project on the Colorado River, is today on the way.

"Boulder Dam will signalize our national conquest over the Great American desert," said Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, in making the announcement that work has been started.

With $10,660,000 made available in the second deficiency appropriation bill to start the work, Walker R. Young, resident engineer, and a corps of assistants have begun laying out streets for the town site.

CONQUEST OF DESERT

Secretary Wilbur added:

"The Boulder Dam will signalize our national conquest over the great American desert. With dollars, men and engineering brains, we will build a great natural resource. We will make new geography, and start a new era in the Southwestern part of the United States.

"With Imperial Valley no longer menaced by floods, new hope and new financial credit will be given to one of the largest irrigation districts in the West.

"By increasing the water supply of Los Angeles and the surrounding cities, homes and industries are made possible for many millions of people.

WILL AID INDUSTRY

"A great new source of power forecasts the opening of new mines and the creation of new industries in Arizona, Nevada and California.

"To bring about this transformation requires a dam higher than any which the engineer has hitherto conceived or attempted to build. It is to be placed in the bottom of a canyon, whose walls rise over 2,000 feet, and through which flows a turbulent river, at times carrying a flow equal to the average of the Mississippi at St. Louis.

"The dam is to be built in a region of intense summer heat, amid desert surroundings and where the public lands in large part are being surveyed for the first time.

EMPLOY 1,000 MEN

"To build the dam economically and efficiently requires that special attention be given to those factors which influence the health and energy of the workers.

"A thousand men will be employed over a period of five to eight years. Many of these will have families, and this means that the town to be created near the dam site will have a population of 4,000 to 5,000 people. This town will not be a temporary construction camp. During the time that the dam is under construction, thousands of tourists will each year visit this section.

"When it has been completed, the lake 100 miles in length above it, will draw other thousands because of its scenic beauties. Plans accordingly have been made to lay out a town which will represent the most modern ideas in town planning.

IN COMPETENT HANDS

"The designing of this dam is in competent hands. No organization in any country has had greater experience in such work than the Bureau of Reclamation. Not a single dam of the 125 built by the Reclamation Bureau has failed. Its chief designing engineer, J. L. Savage, is recognized as a genius in his line. He has successfully designed three dams which at the time of their construction were the highest in the world.

"Boulder Dam adds another to this unique record. In addition to the corps of experts on the permanent staff of the bureau, it has as consulting engineers A. J. Wiley, who has an international reputation and is consulting engineer for the Irrigation Department of India; L. C. Hill, the designer and resident engineer on the Roosevelt Dam and many monumental works in this and other countries, and D. C. Henny, one of the foremost consulting engineers of the country."

Bank's Hay Barn Destroyed by Fire

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., July 8.—Spontaneous combustion of heat in 10 tons of new-mown hay in the barn on the Ohio Savings and Trust Company's farm, six miles south of this city, destroyed the structure at a $3,500 loss.

Home as Woman's Career Plea of Mrs. Edison

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, wife of the inventor, gave a radio talk from station WJZ urging women to return to home-making and pay less attention to the lure of professional and business careers.

Trends originating in woman suffrage and the World War are responsible for the decline in the art of home-making in recent years, Mrs. Edison said, and the country is facing a widespread restlessness. She continued:

"Unless the women of America make a decided effort to return to the business of home-making, the most vital institution of the country is threatened. America is essentially a nation of homes. The woman who doesn't want to make a home is undermining our nation."

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

RUTH ETTING and Lee Morse add brilliance to a sparkling bill in tonight's theater of the air.

Ruth will entertain in the RKO Hour while the blues singing Morse girl will appear as guest artist of the Eveready Hour, WCAE at 9.

Some favorites will be found in the Westinghouse Salute to Philadelphia at 10 p. m. from the studios of KDKA. These include Leopold Stokowski's interpretation of Strauss' "Blue Danube Waltz," Rossini's "William Tell Overture," Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumble Bee" and "Anchors Aweigh."

Ruth Etting

Jetrude Cleveland, soprano, and Earl Cleveland, tenor, will be guest artists of Sacred Songs, KDKA at 7:30. Hymns include "The King's Business" "Jesus, Blessed Jesus" and "Jesus Loves Me."

The Latin-American concert on WCAE at 11 o'clock will feature th U. S. Marine Band and soloists.

"Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" stands out as the highlight of the Happy Bakers on WCAE at 9:30. This ever popular selection has been arranged for Frank Black's Singing Violins.

When a pianist appears at WCAE these days, the announcer immediately swings into action as a mechanic.

A studio within a studio is constructed hastily to improve acoustics. This is done by forming a rectangle of four velvet screens. The screens are seven feet square, weigh 15 pounds each, and are easy to handle.

Peculiar effects are gained by placing these affairs at different angles.

U.S. CENSUS SET AT 122,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 8 (INS.)—The United States has a population of [illegible] 000,000, according to an estimate today by Dr. Joseph A. Hill, assistant census director, on the basis of [illegible] about 80 per cent of the returns.

So far the population figures submitted to the census bureau supervisors have not been totaled.

There has been a considerable increase in the number of urban communities of [illegible] population. Little change was expected in the number of counties, 3,000 in 1920.

The [illegible] 1920 represented [illegible] per cent of the population [illegible] 1930 probably 55 per cent, according to Dr. Hill's estimate.

Figures [illegible] indicate a decrease [illegible] population.

Baltimore Man Fights to Bar Dial Phone

BALTIMORE, July 8 (AP).—The United States senators aren't the only ones troubled by the automatic dial system which is coming into vogue with telephone companies. Whether the phone subscriber has to submit to installation of the dial system is the knotty problem placed before the Maryland Public Service Commission by an irate patron.

When senators objected to the dial, congressional action was obtained. Rodney Niles here is no Senator Glass, but doesn't want the contraption in his home and cited various reasons in his complaint to the state body.

MIDLAND, Pa., July 8 (AP).—Miss Ogden, 24, school teacher of Vera Cruz, died in the Rochester Hospital from injuries received in an accident at a local plant. He was working [illegible] during his summer vacation. The body was taken to Vera Cruz for burial.

HOOVER LAUDED IN 'TALKIE'

WASHINGTON, July 8 (AP).—A goodwill message from Dictator Berenguer, the new Premier of Spain, was delivered to President Hoover through the ultra-modern method of talking pictures.

In a special picture made in Madrid by Paramount Sound News, Premier Berenguer was shown telling the Associated Press correspondent at the Spanish capital, Clarence Dubose, of his admiration for the President and the American nation.

Mr. Dubose, who responded, thanking the Premier, formerly was the Associated Press correspondent at Mexico City and was with Mr. Hoover during his good-will trip through Latin-America.

STAR ABSOLVED OF 'LOVE DEBT'

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—(AP)—Harry Langdon, screen comedian, owes no love debt to Thomas J. O'Brien, an engraver whose divorced wife he married, the Superior Court decided.

A judgment in favor of Langdon was returned in O'Brien's suit to collect on three promissory notes totalling $11,500 which the actor admitted giving O'Brien to forestall a quarter of a million dollar alienation of affections suit in 1929.

The comedian's contention he had not stolen the love of Mrs. Helen Langdon was supported by the court. Langdon married the former Mrs. O'Brien in 1929, following her divorce from the engraver in 1928.

The court also agreed with Mrs. Langdon's claim that O'Brien had killed her love for him before she met Langdon in 1923.

In addition to the $11,500 in notes, Langdon gave O'Brien $15,000 in cash.

2 DIE OF HEAT IN MISSOURI

KANSAS CITY, July 8.—(AP)—Two deaths yesterday in Missouri were laid to the extreme heat which prevailed also in Kansas and Oklahoma.

John A. Dauphin, 66, died here of heat prostration and in Brookfield, Mo., Gustave Picket, 61, succumbed while excavating a basement.

The maximum temperature in Kansas City was 95, the high humidity resulting from thundershowers adding to the discomfort. In St. Louis, the mercury reached 93 degrees and at Springfield, in Southern Missouri it climbed to 92.

At Emporia, Kas., a high temperature of 105 degrees was recorded, two points lower than Monday's top. It was 104 for the second consecutive day at Neodesha, Kas., while Topeka and Pittsburg each reported a maximum of 99.

Anne Promises That She Will Wait for Morgan

CHAPTER XIX

A guard led Morgan into the small visitor's room. His eyes swept the other section behind the wire netting. There she was—Anne!

He rushed forward and for a moment he could say nothing. Anne looked at him, in the convict gray, her eyes filled with tears, her head slightly tilted, her hands against the screen.

"Anne!" he said at last.

"Oh, John!" she hesitated, then added: "You are John to me—John Everett — still my John—"

"Anne, how did you know I was out today?"

"The warden—he told me. I had been to see him before. I had a long chat with him. I told him the truth—everything—how I knew you had changed and that you should be given a chance—"

"Sweet Anne—but you don't know prisons—"

"He was so kind and considerate. He believes me and believes that you—he says that he will believe as your conduct convinces him."

The time seemed so short. She told him how she had been incapacitated for a month after the awful news; how Ruby had been her unremitting companion; how Ruby had told her so many fine things about him and had advised her how to act.

"John—John, you look so pale—and weak," she sniffed compassionately.

"Oh, that's nothing — I'll be all right in a few days—this will tonic me up."

"But that dungeon—is it as ghastly as Ruby says?"

"No, not at all," Morgan laughed. "It's not half bad—they give you angel cake and the best of water. The dieting really does you good—why some people, of their own accord, go to worse than that by themselves."

Doesn't Love Kent

Anne was silent a moment.

"How is Kent?" she ventured at last.

Morgan's face turned hard. But he smiled again with an effort to conceal the emotions.

"Oh, he's all right. He's a trusty now—in the library. He doesn't have a hard time at all. Haven't you heard from him?"

"Yes, I have received two letters—but I have not even read them. I can't bear to. I feel so—so goose-fleshy about it all."

"Don't think of it, Anne honey. If you don't love him, don't grieve over him. It wasn't your fault that he got here. He will be a different man when he gets out."

"What? How? you mean—"

"Just that he'll be older, his views on life will have changed. He will think in new veins and channels."

"I thought you meant something else."

"But, what else could I have meant?"

"Nothing." Anne bit her lip. "But John—I can call you that, can't I?—John, can't you talk to him for me—tell him the truth. Explain to him that I feel toward him as I always felt, that I want to help him, but that I don't love him and that I never did and I will never marry him."

Morgan looked into her supplicant, generous feminine eyes.

Consents to Wait

"I'll tell him," he agreed with slow emphasis. Then: "But how do you feel, Anne—toward me? Are you willing to sacrifice years of your life for me? Do you really believe you care enough? In here we have lots of time to think—and feel. We can't fight for what we want. It will be hell for me if I am not sure. I am selfish.

"To dream and hope and wait that some day I can be free and I can have you, yet to think and fear that after all, you are not sure you want me enough to hold out and keep yourself for a convict—"

"Oh, John, don't talk like that," Anne begged, with tears in her eyes. "I do love you and I will wait for you. I never was surer of anything in all my life. There could be no other man."

"Oh, I love you so, Anne. I have nothing else—you are all—everything—my religion!"

"I'll wait for you dearest—I'm your woman. I told Ruby—I lied so she'd—understand."

Her voice trailed off in a sob. How Morgan burned to coil her into his arms and console her, to hold her close, to thank her, bless her, kiss her, dishevel her—

But between them was the cold, hard metal mesh of his transgression. At each foot's length was a steel bar. He was in stir!

A guard tapped him on the shoulder.

"Time up, Morgan."

Promises to Write

Anne looked at him helplessly, bucked up by only the determination and affection she read in his eyes. She smiled gamely and held her face close to the imperturbable screen. He placed his lips there. He closed his eyes. He felt as if their lips met. He pressed until his lips bled. But it could not be enough. Women's warm mouths are not for cons.

"Goodby, Anne, don't worry," he wept.

"Goodby, John—I'll write you. believe in me."

Morgan staggered drunkenly through the prison yard without seeing anything. He was rudely roused by a tug at his arm.

"What's the hurry, pal?" It was Butch. "Remember me at all?"

"Say, Butch," raved Morgan, dizzily, "were you ever in love? I mean, on the level—all the way?"

"Me? Well, that's a wicked question to answer. I used to like Sadie—she was a good old frail. Sadie never had that bug poison I slipped her 'comin' to her. Sadie would let me hat her around all night and day and then come up and kiss me and call me her great big, rough, playful boy."

"I guess she was in love all right," sighed Morgan.

"What's eatin' you?" Butch asked, suspiciously.

"Oh, nothin'," shrugged Morgan. "I'll be glad when I'm out of this place—"

Butch Disgusted

"It won't be long now," and Butch nudged him significantly.

"Lay off, Butch!" Morgan's voice was icy with warning.

"Lay off?" exclaimed Butch viciously. "What y'mean, lay off? I been framin' this breeze for months. Everything is copesetti. It's a man-sized job and we're going through. You're gassed up wit' that love stuff, sighin' an' cryin' an' you ain't got no time for us fall-guys who want to see some more life and fun. Lay off! Huh! You cackle like a scared, sick sparro'."

Butch spat in disgust.

"Oh, be yourself—you know me—suppose you do get out, Butch," Morgan's tone was pleading. "What of it? They just collar you again and they make it good an' sweet for you."

"What've I got to lose excep' my life? But if I get out, I ain' goin' to go messing around no dames," said Butch, disgustedly. "Leave them twists alone an' you'll never get hog-tied. You ain' told me everything, Morg, even though we is pals, but I know how you got brung back. It was through a jennie."

"Come on now, Butch," Morgan stopped him with a cold, threatening look. "That's my affair."

"Don' mean no harm, Morg," said Butch. Though twice the size of the other, and twice as strong, the brutality of Butch bowed down before the grit and personality of the smaller man. Butch actually feared Morgan. More, he respected him.

Morgan Determined

"Butch, you're my pal—I like you. You've got a big heart in you and I'd trust you further than I would a lot of square suckers—outside a cockroach race—Kent, for example."

"Oh, Kent's a louse, but he'll stay put."

"Will he? I did meet a real woman when I was outside. And she showed me what life meant. I'm living only for her—"

"Oke, Morg, you don't have to tell me. I can't argue with no man as far gone as you." Butch sadly shook his head. "What's she got to do with Kent?"

Morgan smiled.

"Remember that picture—his opening night?"

"Yah. No! Not her!"

"Her. Kent thought she was his. Soon he won't. I'm goin' to give that to him on the button. Then see! Every minute I ain't with her is agony. But I'll get out—my OWN way!"

THE OFFICE WIFE

By FAITH BALDWIN

CHAPTER XXVIII

Kathleen, coming in rather late, found Ted still there. When she entered, he was walking the floor in a state of excitement.

Anne curled up in a chair, a little pale, her eyes drowsy, was watching him. And as Kathleen entering, ejaculated: "Why the oratory? Where's the soap box?" Ted seized her, implanted a sounding kiss upon her smooth cheek and announced gayly:

"Congratulate me, sister!"

Kathleen promptly extricated herself and looked at Anne. "Has he gone cuckoo?" she asked, astonished.

"On the contrary," Ted answered for himself. "I'm sitting on top of the world. How'd you like to be maid of honor at a quite home wedding?"

"Not really?" She ran to Anne, stooped to kiss her.

Anne nodded. "Yes, really," she answered. "Ted, do go along home. I have to work tomorrow," she added mechanically, and then she stopped and bit her lip.

"No you don't," Ted told her. "never again. Kathleen, will you leave the room or must I embrace my affianced bride before an audience?"

Kathleen's Advice

Having received her cue, Kathleen departed. Ted, lifting Anne to her feet, held her a long moment and then kissed her with, she thought wearily, a new reverence, a new sweetness.

"Good night, dearest," he told her. "You've made me very happy."

At the door he turned. She was looking at him with a curious expression—one which he could not read. "May I tell people?" he asked.

She hesitated, then nodded. "Well, why not?"

When he had gone, Kathleen came back into the living room in a wisp of lace and a sheath of satin.

"It's true, then?" she asked Anne gravely.

"Yes."

"Anne, you're not happy. You don't love him!"

"I do," said Anne. "I'm awfully fond of him."

"It's not enough," Kathleen answered out of a new wisdom. "Being awfully fond isn't enough. Nor yet being crazy about a person. I think I know now," she went on dreamily; and Anne was too preoccupied with her own problems to wonder about that. "Anne, you can't marry Ted with another man in your heart."

"I won't, I promise you, Kathleen. I'll make Ted a good wife."

"Who wants a 'good wife'?" asked Kathleen scornfully. "Anne, we've got to have this out. You're in love with Lawrence Eaton and you're going to marry Ted O'Hara. It's not fair to you or to Ted."

"I'll make it fair!" Anne cried. "The other was madness, insanity. I'll cure myself. I'll forget."

Family Doubtful

"I advise you to make the cure thorough before your wedding night," said Kathleen.

"Kathleen!" Anne cried, and then was silent, flushing. Her—wedding night!

"Oh, Anne," Kathleen told her, in affectionate exasperation, "get wise to yourself! You are grown up, you've worked for your living, you've seen what life does to people, what marriage does to them. You don't believe in Santa Claus any more, do you? Face things. Don't hide around corners from them!"

She put her arms around her sister. "I want you to be happy."

"I will be. I must be," Anne assured her.

Time went on. The family was told and received the news without much astonishment. Mr. Murdock was frankly pleased.

"I hope you can manage her better than I've been able to," he told Ted dourly.

But Mrs. Murdock was grave. She liked Ted; she had hoped for just such an outcome to his devotion to Anne, but she was anxious.

She asked her daughter, that first Sunday when the entire family reunioned in the little brick house: "Anne, tell me, girl, are you sure?"

"Quite sure, dear," Anne told her steadily.

"You must be," her mother said. "Marriage is hard enough even for people who love each other very much."

Jim got Anne by herself long enough to ask: "Is it all right, sis?"

News Spreads

"Of course, it is. Don't be silly. Don't you like Teddy?"

"Sure, I like him. He's a good scout. That's not the point. I mean, what you told me—he floundered—and what I said up at the office. That hasn't forced you into anything you'll regret, has it?"

"No. Please don't worry about me. What I told you was true, only it was just who you said: glamour, propinquity. This is different."

And with that he had to be content.

Wants Time

It was then early autumn, a year from the time Anne had gone to Hot Springs with Eaton and Linda.

"Yes."

"But what's the sense of waiting?" he wanted to know, in despair.

"All the sense in the world. I want to get my clothes ready."

Anne told him, frantically hiding behind one of the oldest of all feminine excuses. "We must take time and look about for a place to live—and I want to go back to work."

"Work? But you promised—"

"No, I didn't. Ted, please don't be angry," she begged him. "I can't be rushed into things. I must have time. You said you'd be patient."

He was terribly disappointed, but there was no moving her. So he had to accept her decision. Soon thereafter she took a job with the Barrows people and went to work as secretary to the general manager of the concern and tried to believe she was happy there and contented.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

The Role Your Skin Plays in Health

As long as life lasts the different parts of the body have their work to perform. The skin plays an active and important part in the upkeep of our human machine, the body.

DR. COPELAND

The body is composed of solid and fluid materials, besides some other things. The water contained in the body is largely in excess over the solid materials. If you should weigh 100 pounds, then 70 of them should be water.

A good deal of the water is thrown off from the body in perspiration and many of the waste products of the body are carried off with it. Some of the wastes are removed by the urine through the kidney.

The skin serves a double purpose. It is the protective covering of the body, and through its tiny pores great quantities of waste escape from the body. The skin must be kept very clean in order that it may do its work thoroughly and well. It needs to be bathed every day, in warm weather especially.

The intestines also carry off the wastes of the body, so here are three sources of elimination of wastes from the body. The skin, the kidneys and the intestines must be kept in splendid working condition if we are to have good health.

Knowing what large quantities of liquid are thrown off from the body every day, you can see how necessary it is to drink plenty of water. Many people never seem to think of this. Every adult and child should take at least a quart of water every day to keep in good condition. The kidneys and intestines must be flushed out in this way.

Some persons perspire a great deal and others very little. For the person who does not perspire freely it may be from every portion of the body. Or the sweating may be confined to some one part, as under the armpits, the hands, the feet, or some other single region. It can be extremely annoying, especially if there is an offensive odor with the perspiration.

Frequent bathing with warm water and soap, followed by the use of cold water, will be found refreshing to perspiring and aching feet. Continual perspiration of the feet causes the skin to soften and fissures and cracks result. In extreme cases of this kind a dusting powder of stearrate of zinc may be helpful. Plain rice powder is good also. Cologne, and any alcoholic preparation of quinine, are good local applications.

If the excessive perspiration is confined to the feet, try the following: Give your feet daily baths in cool water and dry them thoroughly. Once a day rub with a solution of 10 per cent salicylic acid in alcohol. Immediately after this, having dried the feet, apply a 10 per cent solution—or 1-100 solution of formalin, or 1-1000 solution of permanganate of potash.

By attention to all these details and attention to the right diet your health will be sure to improve. With good health should come normal perspiration.

Answers to Health Queries

MRS. M. M. Q.—What would cause a pain in the stomach toward the right side running through to the back, causing a bloated feeling and no relief until I vomit? This brings immediate relief.

A—Very likely due to a gall bladder disturbance. Correct your diet and keep your system clear. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

M. J. Q. What causes a pain on my right side below the belt? My appendix is all right.

2—What can be done for nasal catarrh?

A—You may be troubled with constipation or gas in the intestines. Correct your diet and keep the intestinal tract clear.

2. Special treatment is advisable.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

Husbands of Today

As husbands, some men make awfully good chauffeurs—and, as wives, some women make awfully good bridge partners.

To a modern girl, marriage appears to be just a little way-station, which she must pass through, in order to reach the Happy Hunting Grounds of divorce, and being a bride is just the preliminary step toward becoming an "ex-wife."

A man seldom asks a girl if her love will last forever; because he is perfectly satisfied if it will last until week after next.

A woman's vanity lives so close to her heart that a man can't possibly stab one without puncturing the other.

The same man who rhapsodizes over "roughing it in the open" and a "bed of pine needles," is often the first to complain of a draught or a rumpled sheet at home.

Funny, how much more thrill it gives a man to win two dollars by betting on the right horse, than it does to save a hundred by not betting on the wrong one.

A husband without "regular office hours" is like a great Dane in a pink satin boudoir; he just doesn't look natural hanging around.

It's something of a shock when you thought that it was conscience or devotion that was making your husband come home promptly to dinner every evening, to discover that it was the fact that the corner speakeasy had been padlocked.

A man almost never asks a girl to marry him in the first moment of inspiration; he waits until the last moment of desperation.

Household Hints

Most lamp shades can be satisfactorily washed with lukewarm water and mild suds. If very soiled use a soft brush to clean the material. Rinse carefully and hang in the wind to dry.

On rainy days set all the house plants out in the yard to freshen them up. There is nothing like a good rain to restore the life and luster to potted plants.

Salmon may be used as a sandwich spread, in salad, croquettes, creamed on toast or baked in casserole. For the hot salmon dishes an egg sauce is usually served.

Tea stains on china or table clothes can be removed by rubbing the spots with warm water, salt and soda combined. Then wash as usual.

Maple syrup flavoring for biscuits, waffles, cookies, cakes and desserts will add the fillip the early Summer menus need in the majority of cases.

Nearly all stockings shrink slightly during the first washing. If they are a snug fit the first wearing, they will be too small afterwards. A size that is amply large is better for foot comfort; it does not induce perspiration or cramp to the toes. Soap should not be rubbed directly on hosiery, nor should chiffon socks be rubbed on the washboard.

CAPONE FREED OF 2 CHARGES

MIAMI, Fla., July 8.—(AP.)—Two of the four perjury charges against "Scarface" Al Capone were quashed by Judge E. C. Collins in Criminal Court here. Trial of the other two charges, which had been set for today, was postponed until tomorrow.

County Solicitor George McCaskill said he planned to file two new perjury charges immediately to replace those quashed.

The charges grew out of Capone's testimony in a case in which he alleged he had been falsely arrested May 8 by S. D. McCready, public safety director of Miami.

Judge Collins quashed the charges that Capone committed perjury in his testimony that McCreary had threatened to arrest members of the gangster's family and that the public safety director had thrown the gangster's personal belongings into a toilet in the jail.

Hurt in Elevator, Sues for $25,000

Because of injuries sustained in an elevator accident, Walter Matheney, Pittsburgh, has filed suit for $25,000 damages in Common Pleas Court against the Otis Elevator Company. GOT SO BILIOUS I LOOKED DIRTY

World's Tonic Most Effective Medicine I Ever Heard Of.

"Last summer I got so bilious that the whites of my eyes turned a sickly yellow and my skin always looked dirty. I had difficulty in concentrating my mind on anything, and had no energy whatever. I would belch and belch after my meals, and soon my kidneys were affected. I formerly weighed 141 pounds and I got down where I only weighed 116," said Mrs. Waught, a well known lady of 501 Edgewood Ave., East Liverpool, O.

"There was great pain and stiffness in my shoulders and back, and my bowels were so sore that I thought I must have appendicitis. This state of affairs continued for several months, with me growing weaker and weaker every day. I got worse after I had the flu. I had begun to despair of ever getting well, when an old neighbor of mine urged me to try World's Tonic, the new medicine that is creating so much attention in our town. I was unwilling to spend any more money on medicine, but she insisted so strongly that I finally bought it. Her pushing me into this purchase I owe the splendid health that I now enjoy. This wonderful tonic took right hold, and after a few days I could feel myself growing stronger. All the pain and sickness disappeared at the end of two weeks, my eyes cleared up, my skin took on a better color, and I began to feel like a new woman. My weight is now 129 pounds.

"Since my recovery I have kept a bottle in the house, and when I feel I have eaten too much or feel a cold coming on I take a dose or two. I want everybody you can reach to know that World's Tonic did a wonderful thing for me, and that it is the best medicine I ever heard of."

World's Tonic is sold by Dow's, May's & Hagg-it's, Mayflower, and by any other first class drug store. (A-90)

ADMITS DEATH FRAUD PLOT

HARRISBURG, July 8 (AP)—Charles Kaldes, 30, of Reading, pleaded guilty to two charges of conspiracy to defraud, in connection with an attempted insurance fraud plot near Hershey in September, 1928, and, recently revealed through Kaldes' confession to state police here, following his arrest in New York last month.

Sentence was deferred until after the September meeting of the grand jury, when it is expected indictments will be returned in similar charges against Kaldes' cousin, Kostas Haidos, who is serving a long sentence for a serious offense in Detroit.

The attempted fraud involved the placing of a body believed by police to have been taken from a grave, in Kaldes' car, after which it was pushed over an embankment and set afire. Haidos was the beneficiary in two policies taken out by Kaldes, which would have paid $20,000 for accidental death.

Wife Wins Divorce From Publisher's Son

CHICAGO, July 8 (AP)—Judge Charles A. Williams in Superior Court granted a decree of divorcing Forrest T. Kable, son of a wealthy publisher from Lewis, Mrs. Jane Seelig Kable, formerly of Detroit, Mich. They eloped in 1927 from the University of Michigan. Mrs. Kable alleged cruelty. They have a daughter.

GLIDER FLIES 8 HOURS AT SEA

NEW YORK, July 8 (AP)—A wireless message from Capt. Stuparich of the liner Saturnia revealed today that the glider Clarbonne Foster stayed in the air for eight hours yesterday.

At the end of eight hours a faulty shock cord connecting the tug and the glider caused the little flying boat to plunge into the waves.

The glider, named for the Broadway actress who is sponsoring the venture, is being towed to Gibraltar for an attempted East-West flight across the ocean behind a ship. On the eastward voyage practice flights are being made by the youthful owners, Hugh Kramer and Robert Lewis.

13 Arrested in N. Y. Arson Racket

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 8 (AP)—More arrests, last night and early today, brought to 13 the total of persons held in connection with Western New York's arson racket, which police credit with a $1,000,000 annual income. Police Commissioner Roche today said he expected that within the next 48 hours there would be 30 persons in police custody.

IS THIS YOU
five years from now?

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

When tempted to over-indulge

"Reach for a Lucky instead"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*An investigation conducted by the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors and the Actuarial Society of America revealed the fact that the death rate increases practically 1% for every pound of excess weight carried between the ages of 40 and 44 years. In other words, a man 40 pounds overweight at this age has only 60% of expectancy of life of a man of normal weight. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

LEGGE URGING CUT IN WHEAT

HASTINGS, Neb., July 8.—(AP.)—Chairman Alexander Legge, of the Farm Board, told hard wheat growers of the Middle West that low prices were in part due to the general depression and that he doubted they would be permanent. Better times were coming, although he could not say just when.

Chairman Legge was here with Secretary Hyde to advocate reduction in wheat acreage as a relief from the record low prices for that grain. Legge said:

"In the last analysis the matter of what you are going to do about the situation must be left to the producer."

Legge advocated a gradual slowing down of wheat production "with the object of eventually balancing domestic production with domestic consumption."

He rejected the proposed equalization and the debenture plan as solutions of the present troubles confronting agriculture.

100 Chickens Die When Barn Burns

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., July 8.—More than 100 chickens were roasted to death and farm implements and feed were destroyed when fire swept a barn and outbuildings on the farm of Wade Love, on the Mt. Pleasant-Tarr road, last night. Loss was placed at $10,000. Two companies of firemen from Mt. Pleasant fought the fire.

Life Guard Saves Girl Who Perils Rescuer

ELLWOOD CITY, July 8.—John Wilson, lifeguard at Van Gorders Mills rescued Miss Jennie Koran, of Rochester, after the girl had taken a death grip on another swimmer, Bob MacMurdo. The girl tried to swim across the creek and when she called for help, MacMurdo went to her assistance. Wilson brought her to shore.

Year's Record Fish Caught by Boy, 12

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(INS.)—A fish story so good that it is broadcast by the United States Bureau of Fisheries was made public today.

A 12-year-old boy in Pocahontas County, W. Va., caught a 30-inch brown trout, which, according to the West Virginia state game and fish commission, was the largest captured in the state during the year. A 23-inch rainbow trout was landed in Fayette County.

RUSSIANS FIGHT LUMBER BAN

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP)—Representatives of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, the official Russian lumber and pulpwood importers, sought in arguments before Assistant Secretary Lowman to have set aside the action of customs officials in barring from this country six ship loads of Russian lumber on the ground that it had been produced by convict labor.

Entry of such goods is forbidden by the tariff law. While Treasury officials would not disclose the source of their information that the shipments had been the result of convict labor it was said government agents had reported convicts had been used in Russian forests where lumber was produced.

After the hearing Lowman reserved his decision but announced he expected to settle the question within a few days.

Ex-Sheriff Chafin Injured in Crash

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 8.—(AP)—Don Chafin, former sheriff of Logan County, and son Rathburn, were injured near Marmet when their automobile left the road. Chafin suffered a broken kneecap and his son a broken nose. They said their car was forced from the road by another automobile which failed to stop.

Benwood Ex-Mayor Convicted Over Rum

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., July 8.—(AP)—Fred Olson, former mayor of Benwood, was convicted in Marshall County Court of possessing liquor. He asked for a new trial. Olson was arrested two months ago during a raid on his store.

A year ago his mother, Mrs. Agnes Olson, 70, pleaded guilty to violating the prohibition laws following her arrest in a raid on the store, and was given a suspended sentence.

High Court Refuses To Blockade Recall

LANSING, Mich., July 8.—(AP)—The State Supreme Court refused to interfere with litigation surrounding the proposed recall of Mayor Charles Bowles, of Detroit. A petition by several Detroit taxpayers, asking that the high court issue an order prohibiting the holding of a special election was denied.

BUS FARE CALLED BLOW TO SUBURBS

4 Boroughs Against Blue Laws

SEWICKLEY JOINS IN FIGHT

Liberal Sunday Favored As Poll Shows Large Majority for Repeal

Results in the poll of the boroughs of Braddock, Rankin, Swissvale, Wilmerding and Forest Hills and the townships of North Fayette, South Fayette, North Versailles and Versailles, will be published tomorrow.

Final results for the entire county will be published Sunday.

Sewickley and West View, together with Oakmont and Verona, unite with most other boroughs of the county reporting in the Blue Law Poll by the Sun-Telegraph in opposition to the closed Sunday.

The demand for liberalization in these four boroughs, expressed by a majority better than 3-to-1 for repeal of the Blue Law, is exceeded by the demand of a group of four townships, Harrison, Jefferson, Plum and Ross, with a total majority nearly 6-to-1 for repeal. The divisions are:

Boroughs	Enforcement	Modification	Repeal
Oakmont	41	26	152
Sewickley	59	40	228
Verona	24	10	68
West View	28	13	132
Townships
Harrison	51	16	276
Jefferson	11	15	98
Plum	14	8	107
Ross	26	14	112

The total vote to date in the poll from these eight divisions is 1,569, or more than 20 per cent of the aggregate May primary vote in all.

The total vote to date from voters of Allegheny County in the poll is 61,772, divided on a ratio of 4.5 votes for repeal to each vote for enforcement. The divisions are:

	Men	Women	Total
Enforcement	5,439	4,205	9,644
Modification	3,193	1,654	4,847
Repeal	33,034	14,247	47,281

CAMPAIGN PLANNED

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—Plans for formation of a state organization to work for repeal of the blue laws of 1794, were discussed at a conference of Representative M. A. Musmanno, of Allegheny County, and William W. Roper, chairman of the Philadelphia City Council's committee on Sunday laws, here tonight. It was decided that Representative Musmanno sound out sentiment in Pittsburgh relative to a meeting of the councils of the two cities on the repeal of the laws.

Following agreement of the councils it is planned to form committees in counties throughout the state, which will seek to impress upon the Legislature the popular demand for a modification of the laws.

Musmanno, prior to meeting Roper, met Mayor Mackey, an apostle of blue law reform. Following the conference, the Mayor said:

"A liberal Sunday law is not an anti-church law, but a pro-church law."

Local referendum laws in many states have proved that the plan as outlined in Musmanno's bill has proved satisfactory to the people, and has in no way affected church attendance, he declared.

CHECK SEEN ON GROWTH IF RELIEF FAILS

Limit Held Near Unless Transportation Systems Improve and Reduce Cost

The 25-cent bus fare has been retarding the growth of Pittsburgh's outlying districts, W. G. Negley, counsel for the Allied Boards of Trade in their fight for lower fares, now before the Public Service Commission, said yesterday.

Many of the communities surrounding the city have had an enormous growth in spite of adverse transportation conditions but their development would have been even more rapid had they been supplied with adequate bus or street car service at a reasonable fare, he charged.

EXTENSIONS LACKING

Negley pointed to the fact that many boroughs such as Brentwood have no convenient transportation facilities while others such as the more distant parts of Mt. Lebanon have to depend entirely on buses operated on too high a rate. He prophesied that the development of the territory surrounding the city is rapidly reaching a limit beyond which it cannot continue without buses charging a moderate fare.

There has been no extension of street car lines for 14 years, according to Negley. In other cities, buses, operated either independently or as feeders for street car lines, have supplied recent needs.

RELIEF PREVENTED

But in this city the railways company has not only refused to operate buses for a sensible price but has kept independent operators from supplying the much needed service.

In commenting on the case now before the Public Service Commission, Negley stated that the Allied Boards, which have very limited financial resources, have been seriously handicapped in securing sufficient funds to provide the necessary engineering surveys.

He said:

"Support of the Allied Boards by the member boards of trade and by the various boroughs is absolutely essential for us to carry this fight to a successful conclusion. Our transportation experts already have laid the ground work for a splendid case."

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

In a Pittsburgh hospital catering to children there is a Negro boy of 2 years. His health is as good as yours. Recently he recovered from his third attack of pneumonia. He is well now, but he cannot be discharged because the hospital officials have no place to send him. Since he was taken to the hospital his mother has disappeared and his father, for a shooting, has been electrocuted by the state.

Former Councilman Jim Malone, when he was hailed by a traffic cop for violation, meekly proceeded to the police station to pay his fine. But Councilman John Herron, owning a mischievous sense of humor, first has his fun.

"You can't park there," a traffic cop tells Mr. Herron.

"Why can't I?" the Councilman demands. "I know more about the traffic laws than you do."

"All right, all right. Drive down to the station house," the cop orders, jumping on the running board.

"Get off that running board," Mr. Herron orders. "It's against the law."

The traffic man thereupon gets into Mr. Herron's machine and the two proceed to the police station.

Halfway to the hoosegow, Mr. Herron satisfactorily identifies himself and the crestfallen policeman departs, mubling things about councilmen in general and Mr. Herron in particular.

We take off our hat to a 9-year-old citizen of Ingram who, late on the night of the Fourth, was advised by his mother to set off the rest of his fireworks. The mother saw no reason why the place should be cluttered up with fireworks after the Fourth. But the young man looked around him, saw the neighbors' children lighting up the district with their own, settled down to enjoy the nearby rockets and told his mother he'd save his for a rainy day. This is the stuff of which young America is made.

On the Sewickley course Bob Davey and Kenneth Bower have been playing bridge golf. If you play bridge and golf you'll like this new game. You simply apply the rules of bridge scoring to golf. Take, for example, this foursome: you and Smith against Bower and Davey.

You bid that you and Smith can play No. 1 hole in a combined 10. Bower and Davey bid a nine. You bid an eight, and Bower and Davey promptly double. You, confident, redouble. If you shoot an eight, you win your contract. If you shoot a seven you get credit for a seven by the scoring rules of bridge. If you shoot a nine, you're set.

The new game has one weakness, to which you might apply yourself for a solution. The pair which loses the bid hasn't much of an incentive, regardless of its score, merely playing the hole for the exercise.

Lack of Job Blamed For Death by Gun

Despondency over his inability to procure employment was ascribed today as the reason for the alleged suicide last night of Peter Ranstrom, 59, R. F. D. No. 1, McKeesport. He died in McKeesport Hospital shortly after he had shot himself at his home, according to the coroner's report.

North Side Man Cuts Both Wrists

Martin Woessner, 65, of 90 Compromise street, North Side, was in Allegheny General Hospital today suffering from cuts on both wrists inflicted, police said, in an attempt to end his life. He was found by his wife when she returned to their home early last night.

Will Rogers Says:

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 8.—Us ignorant laugh at spiritualists, but when they die they go mighty peaceful and happy. After all, about all there is to living is to go away satisfied. Maybe they have got "an ace in the hole" at that.

We got an epidemic of crazy women parachute jumpers. Going just for the jump. Shooting your husband has got so it don't land you on the front page, so they have traded their guns for parachutes, and are trying to jump and land on it. It's never a real aviator that makes an exhibition jump, they know parachutes were made to save useful lives in an emergency and not to put on a show with.

Yours,
WILL.

Golf Ball Theft Suspect Chased, Hurt in Fall

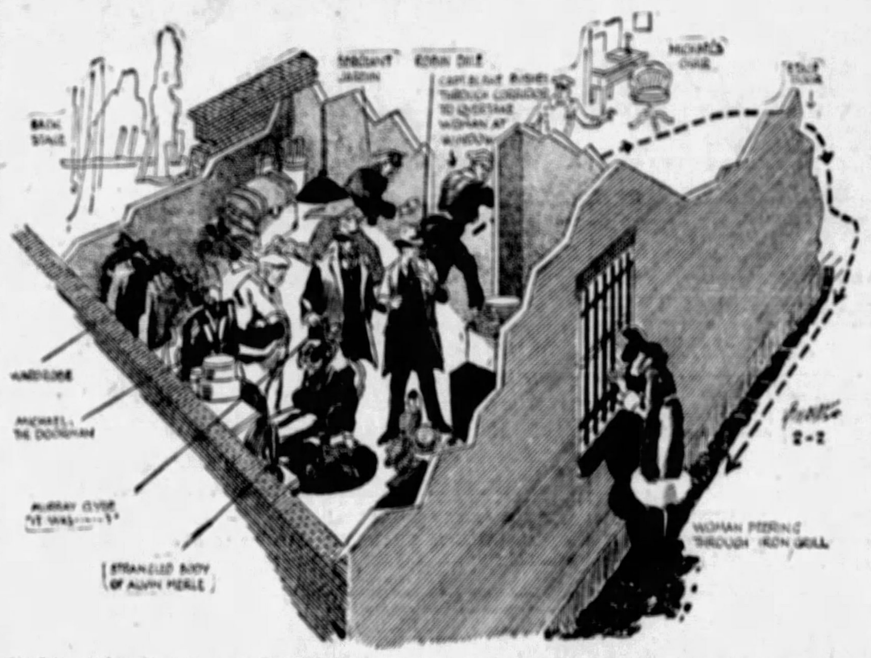
Nick Yourck, 22, of 43 Acorn street, was in Homeopathic Hospital today, his left shoulder fractured, as a result of his alleged attempt to escape from Patrolmen J. F. Keefe, and S. E. McCandless who said they detected him stealing golf balls from the Schenley Park course laste yesterday.

In his flight, Yourck fell down a 50-foot embankment near the bridle path. Police, after taking him to the hospital, placed a suspicious person charge against him.

Master Mysteries

By ARTHUR HOERL

His Last Performance



What Has Gone Before

Alvin Merle, famous Broadway stage star, is mysteriously murdered in his dressing room after an evening performance. Robin Dale, reporter, finds Capt. Blake and Sergt. Jardin, of the Homicide Squad, at work on the case.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER II.

When Robin Dale entered the dressing room, Dr. Wattles had just about completed his first examination. He turned toward Capt. Blake.

"Been dead at least an hour, Blake." It was then 12:15. An hour. . . .

"That makes it about 11:15. He wasn't in the dressing room over 15 minutes when the crime was committed. Damn strange, Sergeant, I want to talk to that doorman now."

While this was going on Robin Dale had walked across the room and stood near the single window. He was within 10 feet of all that remained of Alvin Merle. There was something terrifically morbid about it, something which held him with grim fascination. The eyes were still open, the lower jaw sagged as though there was a gasping for breath; the features were becoming rigid as though frozen. The chair in which the body sat was closely drawn to the dressing table and Merle was facing the mirror. Dale made a mental note of that; strange that he should not have turned when the intruder entered. Was it true, then, that the criminal had not entered by the door? The position of the body seemed to signify as much. Robin Dale turned and looked out of the window. It was, as Jardin had said, closed and latched on the inside. There were iron bars on the ground floor, with the window on the alley.

Later Dale made a closer inspection of the rope about Merle's neck. It was a sash from a dressing gown so tightly drawn that it was embedded in the flesh. The sash apparently gave no clue because it was taken from one of Merle's dressing gowns that was still hanging on the rack.

Dale curtailed his first examination of the room when Michael, the doorman, was brought in by Jardin. Capt. Blake did all the questioning.

"You say Mr. Merle came into his dressing room right after the last act. That was about eleven."

"Two minutes to eleven, sir."

"Who else entered the room from that time until his body was discovered?"

"I never got out of my chair, sir, and Mr. Merle's door was never out of my line of sight. Nobody went in or came out!"

"It's a pretty tiresome job for you . . . perhaps you dozed for a few minutes."

"I was never known to sleep on the job, sir!"

Capt. Blake looked around the room and then up at the ceiling. There was only one window, the single door and no sign of any break in the ceiling.

"All right, I guess that's all for the present. Get his address, Jardin, when we want to call him."

Old Michael went slowly out through the door. Jardin closed it behind him and came quickly back to the center of the room.

"I don't think we'll have to look any further!"

Capt. Blake looked up with a frown. Robin Dale smiled as if he sensed what was coming. Dr. Wattles went on writing in a little book as though not greatly interested.

"The old man convicted himself! No one went in or came out . . . he was the only one here all the time. It's even simpler than we figured. The old man did it!"

"Bravo, Sarg!" Dale said. "You don't belong on the police force, you should be in Hollywood writing movies. I suppose the villain did wrong by the old man's sweet and innocent daughter and with vengeance in his heart the doting father brought in his dastardly career to an end . . . and to make it poetic, justice used the sash from the defiler's dressing gown. After which the avenger filled his pipe and sat down to enjoy a peaceful smoke with the comfort of a deed well done."

"What are you tryin' to do, kid me? If you know any other way it could be done, tell us your story."

"Sorry, Sarge, I was only trying to make the atmosphere in here a little more cheerful. My serious opinion is that your solution is too easy. There's something much bigger behind this—everything points to it."

"Let's talk to that stage manager," Capt. Blake said.

When Jardin returned with Murray Clyde, the dapper little man was more composed. He was quite ready to tell all he knew.

"I left the theater at eleven . . . went to the Perry Theater, that's only Forty-seventh, as I had an appointment there. I met the lady and from there went to Ricci's, which is right next door to the Perry Theater. We had arranged to meet Merle at the restaurant for a little celebration. When he failed to arrive by 11:30, I figured I'd run back to the theater here and see what was delaying him. That's how I found out he had been murdered."

"What time did you meet the lady at the Perry Theater?"

"About five after eleven, I should say."

"Anybody else in the party?"

"Yes, a second lady. She joined us about 11:15 at Ricci's."

"Mrs. Merle?"

"No."

"Who was it?"

"Does it make any difference now?"

"How can I tell you until I know who it was?"

Murray Clyde seemed hesitant in answering, acting as if it was information he had rather not give the police.

"Come on, who was the other lady?"

"It was . . ."

Murray Clyde did not finish his sentence, for Robin Dale, who glanced toward the window, saw a sight which made him tug at Capt. Blake's arm. A single glance and the police captain ran swiftly to the door, threw it open and rushed into the corridor.

For there had been a woman's face peering through the iron grill.

Sane 4th, Chief's Orders; Officer Held Violator

Accused of buying powder for use in a cannon July Fourth, in violation of Police Chief John Wahlen's order for a sane celebration, and of pointing his revolver at three Negroes, Motor Patrolman Thomas McDonald, of McKeesport, was under suspension today as a result of a hearing before Mayor George H. Lysle.

McDonald was accused by Patrolmen Wilbert Spears and Joseph Connelly. Five residents testified the charges were false. They were J. P. Kerr and Robert Kerr, of 1714 Evans street, who said the accusing officers had struck them; Leo Haughey, of Versailles avenue; Elmer Louden, of Meadow street, and Glenn B. Hobby, of Stewart street. McDonald also denied the charges made against him.

YOUTH DROWNS AS TWO STRIVE TO RESCUE HIM

The Camera Question Box

Today's Question. The District of Columbia has passed a law against noisy radios in residences and places of business. Do you favor such a regulation here?

M. A. Gorenkin

MAURICE A. GORONKIN, store manager, Squirrel Hill: I don't see why anyone shouldn't turn on his own radio as loud as he wants it. Radio owners pay money for their receiving sets and they ought to be able to use them to their own liking. Even when radios are placed outside on the street they're a pleasure and not a nuisance.

Miss Guenther

MISS H. GUENTHER, cashier, Beltzhoover: Loud radios are a nuisance and I certainly think some sort of regulation should be passed against them. They don't have to be turned on at full force for someone in the same room to hear them.

W. A. Reilly

W. A. REILLY, salesman and furrier, Ambridge: I don't favor loud radios at all — especially when used for advertising purposes. A loud speaker in front of a store cheapens the street on which the store is situated and gets on the nerves of all the people around.

Harry Wolfson

HARRY WOLFSON, service man, East End: Yes, I would favor such a regulation but, of course, with a few reservations. Loudspeakers are a good way of advertising and should not be ruled out when used for that purpose.

Mrs. Freeland

MRS. F. L. FREELAND, saleswoman, Squirrel Hill: I think they ought to pass a law against radios at any time. They're all too noisy and are annoying at all times.

J. Bernbach

JOSEPH BERNBACH, shop owner, Squirrel Hill: I am absolutely in favor of such a regulation. There are too many radios with loudspeakers now. Almost everyone has his own radio anyway — why can't they all listen to their own set in peace without being disturbed by those of all the neighbors too?

Mrs. Rosa Piazza.

Mrs. Rosa Piazza, 67, of 245 Benton avenue, North Side, died yesterday in her home. She leaves her husband, Girolamo Piazza; two sons, Leonard, of New York, and Paul, of Detroit; two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Kilian and Miss Angelina Piazza, of Pittsburgh, and eight grandchildren.

Ware Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Gussie Kann Ware, 75, former resident of Pittsburgh, who died July 2 in San Francisco, were to be held in the Abraham Lippman Memorial Chapel, West View Cemetery, today. She was born in Pittsburgh and lived here until 10 years ago. She leaves a son, S. G. Ware, of Chicago; a daughter, Mrs. Alma Smith, of San Francisco, and a sister, Miss Rosa Kann, of Pittsburgh.

Steele Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ruth L. N. Steele, 76, who died in St. Margaret's Hospital yesterday, will be held at the home in Jefferson Township, Fayette County, tomorrow. She was a member of the Little Redstone Presbyterian Church, Jefferson Township. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. C. G. Haugh, of Denver, and Mrs. C. S. McKean, of Charleroi; a son, John R. Steele, of Aspinwall, and a brother, Paul R. Nutt, of Charleroi.

Somerville Funeral.

Funeral services for Samuel Somerville, 61, who died Sunday, were to be held at the home, 824 Clarissa street, today. He was born in Ireland and came to Pittsburgh 40 years ago. He was a member of the Schenley Heights Methodist Episcopal Church. Besides his widow he leaves a son, William Somerville, at home.

ALLIES BLVD. CLOSING JAMS TRAFFIC

Motorists Bound Downtown Advised to Use Fifth or Bigelow During Repairs

Motorists were advised today to use Fifth avenue and Bigelow boulevard as substitute routes in entering town while a stretch of the Boulevard of the Allies near Brady street is torn up for repairs.

C. M. Reppert, chief engineer of the city department of public works, issued this advice after a traffic jam resulted at the peak hour on the thoroughfare this morning.

BAN INBOUND CARS

A ban on inbound traffic will continue for two weeks at least, Reppert said, after which time Viaduct No. 2 will be in "first class shape again." Outbound traffic is being routed as usual with but little delay.

Reppert said:

"Motorists can save themselves considerable delay by using Fifth avenue or the Bigelow boulevard in coming to the downtown.

"While the repair work is causing much inconvenience, it is absolutely necessary to insure safety and a smooth road surface."

DETOURS SUGGESTED

Although neither the Better Traffic Committee nor he were consulted about detour routes while the boulevard repair work is in progress, Prof. Lewis McIntyre, city traffic engineer, said he added his suggestion to Reppert's that Fifth avenue and Bigelow boulevard be used.

McIntyre reported that Traffic Inspector Jacob Dorsey informed him extra motorcycle policemen and traffic men were being stationed at congested points on those two routes today to expedite vehicular traffic and prevent possible jams.

Kellogg Proves Illness Only Rumor

MINNEAPOLIS, July 7.—(AP.)—Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, came to Interlachen, where golfers are practicing for the national open, starting Thursday, and, without saying a word, made a vigorous denial of reports that he was ill.

Instead of accepting a quiet seat at the front of the clubhouse, he joined a gallery of 600 people and trudged along to watch Bobby Jones, defending champion, play around, despite his 73 years.

Colorado Asks U. S. To Put Down Gangs

DENVER, Col., July 8.—(AP.)—State prohibition enforcement officers today said they would request Attorney General Mitchell to take steps to cope with what they termed arrogant liquor gangs operating in the state.

The request for special Department of Justice agents was provoked by the slaying Sunday at Aguilar of Dale F. Kearney, prohibition agent.

Senator Fess' Son Divorced by Wife

DAYTON, O., July 8.—(AP.)—A divorce decree was granted in Domestic Relations Court here to Mildred Fess, from Charles Fess, of Yellow Springs, son of United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio. The decree was given on the grounds of cruelty.

MOTHERS FIVE 'COON ORPHANS

Five whimpering raccoon orphans, their mother a victim of a reckless motorist, are being cared for by Game Warden Ralph A. Liphart, of Homestead.

Found beside the mangled body of the mother coon along a road in the northern part of the county, the quintet of furry babies was picked up by John Lorch, son of the Allison Park justice of the peace, and later turned over to Game Warden Liphart.

They were frightened and hungry. Liphart provided food for them, but they were too young to eat. He tried milk bottle feeding and the animals refused it at first. Soon hunger overcame fear and took the lacteal substance.

They're a bashful lot and won't eat in the presence of company. One of their number, huskier than his brothers and sisters, acts as sort of guardian for the others. His snarling mein warns strangers to "keep hands off."

As soon as they are old enough to forage for themselves, Liphart will turn them loose in some wooded section of the county. They cannot stand city life.

HURT BY AUTOS, TWO MORE DIE

Two motorists whose automobiles fatally injured a woman and a 6-year-old girl were to appear at the coroner's office today to post bonds pending inquests.

Running from a playground into Bessemer avenue, East Pittsburgh, Anna Adams, of 411 Ridge avenue, East Pittsburgh, was struck last night. She died in a physician's office. The machine was driven, police say, by Raymond Young, of 718 Church street, Turtle Creek.

Mrs. Gussies Wiseman, 60, of 604 Bark street, McKeesport, died early today in McKeesport Hospital of injuries suffered July 4 in Fifth avenue, McKeesport. According to the coroner's report, the machine was driven by Dr. E. L. Wall, of 317 Shaw avenue, McKeesport.

John Watkins, 50, of 216 Zurich street, Duquesne Heights, and William Gearing, 41, of 127 Meridian street, were injured early today when their automobile crashed into a pole at West Liberty and Cape May avenues. They were taken to South Side Hospital, where Watkins was held for observation. Gearing, alleged driver, was arrested by Mt. Washington police on a charge of reckless driving. The automobile belonged to William Madden, of 1213 Grandview avenue, who had given Gearing permission to use it.

Stepson Sought In Woman's Murder

NEW YORK, July 8.—(INS.)—Carl Spathe, 17, was sought by police today for questioning in connection with the murder of his stepmother, Mrs. Minna Spathe, 48. The woman was found beaten to death in her home, with a wicker clothes basket over her head.

Air Beacon's Glow Brings Firemen

A pedestrian who mistook the reflection of the aerial beacon atop the Grant building, Third avenue and Grant street, for a fire, sounded an alarm from a box at Third avenue and Smithfield street early today.

Steam from the Federal building, combined with the beacon's red glow, brought on the appearance of flames, firemen agreed.

SHARON MOOSE TO FETE DAVIS

SHARON, Pa., July 8.—(INS.)—Sharon today made plans for homage to its famous son, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, Thursday, when Sharon Lodge 292, Loyal Order of Moose, sponsors Jim Davis Day at Conneaut Lake Park.

David Davis, aged father of the secretary, will be among those at the park for the event. Officials of the Moose lodge plan to make the trip in the Goodyear Zeppelin, Vigilant, which will stop here en route from Akron.

Judge O. Clarke Kent, of Meadville, will introduce the secretary, who will deliver an address in the Temple of Music that afternoon.

Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of the Republican party in Pennsylvania, and Brig. Gen. E. C. Shannon, nominee for lieutenant governor, will be in Secretary Davis' party.

FRANTIC LAD'S STRUGGLING COSTS LIFE

Bellevue Boy, Exhausted, Screams for Help, Grabs Pair as Safety Nears

Nicholas Bickar, 18, of 124 South Bryant avenue, Bellevue, was drowned last night in the Ohio River at the West Bellevue Railroad Station, despite the efforts of his brother-in-law and another youth to rescue him.

Bickar and his brother-in-law, D. C. Campbell, 24, who lived with him, were bathing when Bickar became exhausted and screamed for help.

Campbell seized him and was making for shore when Bickar locked his arms about his rescuer's neck. Breaking loose, Campbell again grabbed him, aided by Robert Bigley, 20, of 265 West Riverview avenue, Bellevue. In the struggle with the frantic lad, both lost their hold on him.

The body was recovered a short time later by Bellevue firemen, headed by Assistant Chief J. E. Wills.

GROWING CALM SEEN IN INDIA

LONDON, July 8.—(AP.)—The secretary of state for India, Wedgwood Benn, issued a statement in which he declared indications to July showed a "distinct improvement" in the Indian situation.

The statement contained the following:

"Conviction that the civil disobedience campaign cannot succeed is growing and commercial and industrial circles are showing increasing concern regarding the dangerous consequences of its continuance.

"There has been an increase of constructive effort toward constitutional solution of political problems."

BOMBAY, India, July 8.—(AP.)—The forces of civil disobedience are being held in abeyance throughout India, while the last sessions of the Indian legislative assembly is held at Simla, and a statement from Viceroy Lord Irwin on the Simon commission report and the impending round table conference is awaited.

Hindu leaders expressed no optimism concerning the nature of the forthcoming statement. The London Daily Herald correspondent quoted Moderates as saying they feared the statements merely would reiterate a policy of repression.

BRIDAL COUPLE PUTS HOME IN SHAPE

Commissioner to Reside Amid Scenes of Success; Duties End Honeymoon

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and his bride today were preparing to establish their home in the house at 919 Carson street, where the commissioner has lived since he was a worker in in the South Side glass factories.

Mr and Mrs. Armstrong, the former Mrs. Ethel Wilson, returned yesterday from an automobile honeymoon, and during a brief visit to the bride's former apartment in Rutledge Hall, 600 South Negley avenue, the commissioner said:

"We are going to make our home on the South Side. I lived there while filling important public offices of the city and the county, and I intend to remain there."

DELAYED IN ALTOONA

The bridal couple arrived at Rutledge Hall about 3 p. m. after a three-hour drive from Altoona, where they were delayed Sunday night and yesterday morning while the automobile was being repaired. Mrs. Armstrong said to visitors:

"The first thing I did when we arrived at the apartment was to tune in on the radio, as I had not heard a local program since we left."

Referring to their return, Commissioner Armstrong declared:

"I was anxious to get back because of my deep interest in voting machines, bids for which are to be opened at the Commissioners' meeting today.

"I have been told the specifications for the voting machines contain a clause that restricts the bidding to only one concern and if that is true I will oppose any award on that basis. The specifications should permit every responsible manufacturer to submit a proposal."

'ELOPE' TO EAST

The couple sprang a surprise on their friends by "eloping" to Philadelphia where they were married June 19 in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

They left by automobile the next day for New York City and after a brief visit, motored to Albany. They toured the Adirondack Mountains, making one-day visits in various towns until they arrived at Schroon Lake for a week's stay.

The honeymoon trail continued to Montreal and turned homeward last Friday.

BOROUGH CHIEF REINSTATED

Chief David R. Lindberg, of West Homestead, today started on his vacation, reinstated by council as head of the police department. He had been suspended by Burgess Robert A. Morrow.

Council not only reinstated Lindberg last night, but rejected the monthly report of the burgess and instructed Borough Solicitor George McCleary to notify Burgess Morrow to make out his returns in accordance with the borough code.

Council voted to borrow $10,000 to pay off borough indebtedness and to establish a water sinking fund to pay service charges for water to be supplied residents by the South Pittsburgh Water Company.

Homestead council last night accepted a notice from West Homestead council that its contract with the former borough for its water supply would be closed October 1. Homestead councilmen signified they would make arrangements to take out meters installed in West Homestead.

Homestead council passed a resolution favoring construction of a high bridge from Brown's Hill crossing railroad tracks in the borough, to overcome grade crossings.

LARGE BRIMMED HATS ARE FASHIONABLE SUN-SHADES

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, JULY 8.—We are no more trembling on the brink of the brim. With the first onslaught of warm weather, nearly every other woman here has sought the shelter of a wide brimmed hat, giving Paris something of the aspect of a huge garden party. Horsehair is extremely well liked for afternoon hats designed for more formal occasions, while milan straw lends itself dutifully to deft manipulation and draping. Of course the little hat will be back with us again later in the year, but for the moment women seem quite content to enjoy the flattering charm of a hat with a brim calculated to cast glamorous shadows across even the most severe countenance. The best models seen here are studiously plain, for a large hat plentifully be-trimmed with flowers can be and often is, more kittenish than chic. A simple trimming of ribbon is generally deemed sufficiently ornamental.

Both of the hats shown on this page were sketched amidst the charming surroundings of the Ritz garden at tea time one warm afternoon last week. We do not know which modiste made those models, but both of them bear the unmistakable cachet of an important house. The first hat is built entirely of horsehair or "crin" as it is called here. The underbrim and crown are of black crin, while the half-over-crown passed over the back of the crown proper and a shallow over-brim are both of white crin. This very smart model was trimmed with a simple scarf and bow-knot of black satin ribbon.

THE OTHER HAT is also exceedingly chic and becoming. The wide brim of beige milan straw is folded over on itself in back beneath a narrow bow of beige taffeta. The same material is also used to face the brim and form the supple and comfortable soft crown. These two models will give you an approximate idea of what is really being worn here by smart women at smart restaurants and resorts. It will be seen that smart simplicity and comfort dominate the millinery mode at present.

TEACHERS' PAY UP IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 8.—(INS.)—The schoolmarm of Chicago's financial situation was brought to the fore again today as school board officials sought to raise sufficient cash to pay off 15,000 school teachers who left unpaid on their vacations two weeks ago.

Board of education trustees were to meet today with Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the finance committee, to discuss plans for raising the necessary money by selling 1930 school tax anticipation warrants.

H. Wallace Caldwell, board president, was to hold another conference with City Comptroller George K. Schmidt in an effort to arrange sale of tax warrants. The teachers' payrolls total $3,600,000.

Civil service payrolls likewise overdue amount to $400,000.

SURVEY TO AID WOMEN'S WORK

CHICAGO, July 8.—(AP.)—Directors of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs reported that they had noted a tendency to discriminate in business against a woman of more than 40 years.

The board, meeting here in annual session, voted to conduct an immediate survey with the aim of helping the older business woman adjust herself or increase her opportunities.

The survey will be directed by Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, of Montclair, N. J., industrial engineer and chairman of the federation's research committee.

A quarter of a million dollars was disbursed last year to prospective business boys and girls through scholarships maintained through the local chapters of the federation, the report of the national education committee, headed by Miss D. O. Williams, of Washington, D. C., revealed.

PLANNING CUBA PARCEL POST

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP.)—The United States is prepared to negotiate a parcel post convention with Cuba—the only nation in the Americas to which packages cannot be mailed from this country.

The action was precipitated, the Postmaster General said, after he had officially informed the Cuban ambassador that the new tariff act removed limitation prohibiting importation of shipments of Cuban cigars in lots of less than 3,000.

Postmaster General Brown said he had notified the Cuban government that we are ready to proceed with the negotiation of such a treaty at any time.

In turn, he said, the Cuban embassy here has informed the Post-office Department that the Cuban postmaster general himself probably will come to the United States soon to discuss the terms of the proposed treaty.

Ex-Premier Ward, New Zealand, Dies

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, July 8.—(AP.)—Sir Joseph Ward, 74, former prime minister of New Zealand, died here yesterday. Sir Joseph only recently resigned the premiership, which he had held continuously since 1928. He also was prime minister from 1906 to 1912. In 1917 and 1918 he was the representative in the Imperial war cabinet.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Do You Believe That the Woman Always Pays?

Then ... She doesn't ... as the ... prove.

Daily ... not so ... into ... "damages ... ladies ... themselves ... makes ... court ... less. ... And all ... be made ... they have ... ful victims. As a consequence the breach of promise suit has become one of our most profitable female industries. And doctors and dressmakers and young girls are worse than ever to get themselves made into victims.

And now Jock has been cast in the role of villain. His is not a pretty letter, but it is extremely important for it touches conditions that are very vital to twentieth century life.

Jock and his lady are great believers in the live-and-enjoy life.

"And why not?" says the lady. "I'm earning my own living. I'm just as much a part of the man world as my boy friend. Why shouldn't I enjoy the liberties he enjoys?"

Which if you ... that sort of thing seems reasonable enough.

But, unfortunately, the lady doesn't stay reasonable.

She wants all the privileges of the 20th century. But she also wants all the protection of the 19th. She insists on being both a sturdy oak and a clinging vine. She claims her rights and then insists upon substantial damages for her wrongs. And the court backs her up in her hold-up game.

That's why I'm printing Jock's highly unpleasant letter. Do you, as an American citizen, think the girl in this case should be given a verdict of damages? Do you think she should be allowed to threaten and frighten and blackmail this man into marriage? Do you think that any court should permit such actions to befoul its calendar?

Jock has asked me for my answer. But I'm putting it up to you. What is your verdict?

"Dear Miss Martin: I am in an awful jam and I surely need some sane advice. For obvious reasons I can't consult my family or friends in this matter, so I am turning to you. You seem to have an unusual knowledge of the world—what would you advise in this case?

"About a year ago I had occasion to go daily into a downtown hotel to have some stenographic work done. The public stenographer who did it for me was a stunning looking girl and we gradually became friends.

"I thought she was a most unusual girl. She was a smart dresser, knew her way around, and seemed to be an awfully good pal . . . for a while I fell for her hard. I began to go out with her exclusively. Several times we went off on week-end trips together . . . but not against her wishes. In fact she urged that we go.

"I was wild about her. She seemed so sweet, so anxious for me to enjoy myself, and so much the good fellow about little things. So after we'd been going around together for four or five months, I asked her to marry me, and she promised that she would.

"Then she began gradually to show up her true colors. She began being bossy and dictatorial, and extremely irritable. I guess she felt she had me hooked, and she could be natural. I had never felt that before, but I didn't realize what a hold bad temper had on her, and how frightful it would be to be tied to such a person, until she flew into tantrums a few times. But, at last, I began to realize just how things were. So when she began again, I walked out and said I was through.

"Well, there's where things stand now. The next day she called me up and tried to talk sweet things, and I wouldn't make up with her. Then she broke loose. She called me everything she could think of and ended up by saying that if I didn't come back and be a good dog she'd sue me for breach of promise, and she'd tell on the witness stand how I'd betrayed her.

"Well, I want to tell you, I was stunned. I'm not defending myself for the trips we took or for anything else, but that girl knew her way around. She wasn't so dumb that she was taken in by me at all. She'd been in the business world for six years. She's twenty-five, and I know for a fact that she'd had affairs with other men. I found that out just later. But she didn't sue them. They didn't have money enough to make it worth while, I guess.

"But because of my circumstances she's got me by the ears, and she knows it, and intends to use her advantage to the full.

"She knows that if she got up on the witness stand and spilled a lot of dirt it would wreck my law practice. I can't afford to have that happen, because I've made it my life work. I'm only 29, and not so well established as yet. She knows that if she makes good her threat I'll be through in this town . . . and in this state.

"My whole life is rooted here. I was born and raised here, and planned to live here always. Besides that, there are my mother and father and two sisters and a brother, and she can make things rotten for them, too, if she goes ahead with this.

"Miss Martin, what on earth am I to do? I can't possibly marry a woman with such a vile temper. And if I don't marry her I'm wrecked. Because I know perfectly well that the court will uphold this girl if she brings suit. The woman is always supposed to be the injured party, and no judge would dare go against public opinion.

"Either way I get soaked. I'd have been more than glad to marry this girl if she had a decent disposition. My breaking with her is her own fault. But nobody will ever consider that if she brings this suit against me. She'll put over the idea that she's just a poor abused little martyr and I'm a big, coarse brute . . . and she'll take the shirt right off my back.

"Do you think that's fair? I don't. I think it's an outrage.

"So long as women can hold up a man's life like that, I wouldn't blame any man for fighting shy of them. Believe me! If I ever get out of this with my skin I'm going to be woman-shy for the rest of my life.

"What would you do if you were me? Would you try to buy her off? Or would you take a chance and marry her? I just get chills when I think of having my name dragged into court and scare-headed all over the newspapers. JOCK."

Well, what's your answer, pal?

THE PLEASANT'ST ANGLING!

For Both Messrs. Pike and Eel and Carp and Trout—and Two Lovers.

DRAWN BY NELL BRINKLEY

A perfect fishing day. Bright-eyed perch and fat sunfish, with dived fins and scales of molten gold and silver, rose and blew bubbles under a hazy, sunny sky. A perfect fishing day—but George and Georgette are angling for a little boy without fins. Perfect fishing day for the fish and for Love. Death for the slippery river inhabitant is far away and he can come to the top and sing "hip hip" in chorus, under the four ardent eyes in the boat, without fear.

The lone fisherman, with no time to waste on the beauty of the day or of Love, is the fellow to fear and stay close to the bottom for. There is one lone hand who is as harmless as the pair of lovers for the tawny finned. That's the editor fellow who "just loves to fish." And this is what he means when he says it—to lie on his back, eyes shaded by a duck hat, with a boat, flat-bottomed, stocked with lunch and plenty of the newest books; a line out, MAYBE, SOMEWHERE, he doesn't care much where; a hazy day, filtered gold sun, and all the time in the world—on a slow Southern river! He loves to fish—THAT way. And that's the way the fish like a fellow to fish.

But lovers are the best river guests of all. The setting of the day is the thing to them. And the pretty fish are a part (a fetching part) of that setting. Sun and shadow, a lonely river, waving grass splashed with flowers, the busy silence of water and fields, the long, long day for dreams and beloved companionship, the leap of a living silver bow from the water, peace and ecstacy—a perfect fishing day for George and Georgette—and the FISH.

For you know, of course, that they never caught a thing!

—NELL BRINKLEY.

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

WHEN HAIR THAT is naturally dry has had a permanent wave it should be given a daily spraying with brilliantine, which will soften the hair shafts and make them fall into wave lines.

The vapid expression of mouth-breathers is a common sight. They are air-starved. Breathing through the mouth is not as effective as breathing through the nostrils. The function of the nose is to heat, filter, moisten and purify the air before it pours into the lungs. Mouth breathing produces an offensive breath and makes the tongue dry.

Anger, jealousy and all unlovely emotions produce chemical changes in the digestive mechanism. The skin chills, circulation slows up, nervousness develops. As an after-effect the skin loses tone. Women who cherish mean emotions invite wrinkles, a sallow complexion and emaciated form. Being sweet is the best of all possible ways to give Popper Time the laugh.

There is an idea, which sounds reasonable enough, that when white hair is yellow the discoloration is caused by chemicals exuded by the pores on the scalp. Snowy peaks can be kept white by using blueing in the last shampoo water. In all beauty shops are sold special preparations for this purpose; they are of a purple cast and in them are incorporated mild bleaching properties that remove the yaller streaks.

There's nothing silly about hanging on to good looks. The professional woman and the wage earner know that an attractive appearance is an important part of the business equipment. Youth has an advantage over age, hence it is necessary to ward off the havoc that Mister Time will scatter over the human portrait if given a free hand. To keep young looking is to be happier. It is a satisfaction to see that the old phiz is standing up heroically against the bombardments of the birthdays.

Dicky Takes Blame for the Disturbance

At Dicky's mirthful adoration to Katie our temperamental little maid who had brought everybody to the kitchen with her shrieks, drew aside the apron which covered her head and peered with ludicrous coyness at her audience. But at the sight of my mother-in-law standing almost directly in front of her she popped back again as if she were a mouse that had just caught sight of a majestic and predatory Tabby.

"I should think you would cover your face," my mother-in-law said sternly. "Anything so absolutely idiotic as this performance I never heard. If there had been a burglar in the basement who was threatening you with a revolver you couldn't have made more noise. If I ever hear of you yelling like this again I'll—I'll give you something to yell for."

The old-fashioned parental threat coming so lamely at the end of her tirade was almost too much for Dicky's risibles and mine. Patently she had realized, as she always does, with much irritation, that there really is no punishment she can visit upon Katie, who is in reality in the employ of my father. Indeed, I knew that she would have said nothing to the girl if my father had remained in the kitchen instead of hurrying back to his room as soon as he found out the reason for Katie's performance.

But my mirth was short-lived, for my mother-in-law swung herself to be alone, there came a different mutter from her place in front of the stove.

"Dot old scollop face! Me, I get breakfast, two, tree times ofer, vile she get on slats und shoes."

But there came no answering reproof from me to make her realize that she had been overheard.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, July 9

With the planet Neptune, the orb of intrigue, conspiracy, confusion and mystery, a dominant factor in the events and conditions of this day, it is probable that the eccentric, singular and perplexing may govern affairs generally. While the favorable lunar trine position is encouraging to all manner of secret ventures, and to the launching of mergers, combines, rings and similar projects in which secret agreements figure, yet the financial situation is hazardous, being subject to danger through investment loans, speculation and extravagance as well.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of the unusual, unpredictable and mysterious, with all things flourishing that may require stratagem, intrigue, conspiracy and diplomacy, rather than essentially above-board dealings. New projects and alliance of this nature are encouraging, but there is a menace of loss through loans, injudicious investments and speculation.

A child born on this day may have a subtle and future cast of character, leaning to the strategic, the mysterious and secret, but may succeed, with prudence.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

An Invitation to a Prom

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—I am graduating from high school and would like to invite a young man to accompany me to our formal Prom. What sort of written invitation should I send him?

2—How should I introduce this young man to our principal and his wife? S. H. B.

1—A note worded something like this may suggests a form to you:

Dear Bob:

We are to have our Senior Prom on Friday, the 7th of July, and it would give me great pleasure if you would go with me. The prom is to be held in ———, at 8 o'clock, and is to be formal. I hope that this date is convenient for you, and that you may find it agreeable to go.

Of course I have the tickets, and so all that my anticipation needs is your "yes!"

Best wishes to you, friendliest greetings and the hope of seeing you on the "famous 7th."

Cordially yours.

2—First to the wife of the principal: "Mrs. Gregory, may I present Mr. Eaton?" This is by far the best form to use for this introduction, which is important and which should be most formally done.

When you introduce the young man to your principal you may mention only the names, if you wish: "Mr. Gregory, Mr. Eaton." Or you may use the formal form that I suggested for the other introduction.

The Lady Indicates Her Wish

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it improper for a man to extend his hand to a lady when being introduced? JOE.

The man waits for the woman to extend her hand first, to indicate that she wishes to shake hands.

A Menu for a Formal Tea

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—I am planning a tea and I would like your advice. I am sending out about 70 invitations. Will you kindly give me suggestions as to the menu? I am thinking of serving a frozen fruit salad, sandwiches, fancy cakes, punch, coffee, mints and nuts. Do you think that ice cream would be more appropriate than the fruit salad?

2—Shall I use linen or paper napkins? T. B.

1—Your menu as you have planned it, is excellent. Either ice cream or frozen fruit salad is correct—but frozen fruit salad is usually so much more delicious—don't you think?

2—Use small linen napkins, tea napkins. They are in so much better form than paper napkins, which, for a tea, indicate a definite compromise.

Seating the Gentleman Dinner Guest

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When a young man is invited to dinner with a young lady and her mother just where is the young man placed at the table? Does he sit between the mother and daughter, or at the head of the table, or is anywhere proper, just so that he is at the left of the young lady?

2. When descending stairs, who leads, the man or the woman. READER.

1—In this case, the mother sits at the head of the table, her customary place since she is the hostess of the home, and the young man, who is the guest of honor, sits on her right.

2.—There is no definite rule about this. But I think that it is far better form for the man to lead when they are either going upstairs or going downstairs.

RICHER and CREAMIER

Neighbors called to ask for her mayonnaise recipe

. . . . And no wonder, for this mother of long ago was justly famous for her wonderful mayonnaise. . . So deliciously different! So much richer and creamier!

Today the self same recipe produces the self same, homey mayonnaise now called Ivanhoe. . . Chock full of flavor. Each golden spoonful a measure of deliciousness. No wonder the fame and popularity of Ivanhoe has spread—until today it's a nation's mayonnaise!

Buy it almost anywhere in quarts, pints, half-pints, and 3¼ ounce jars. Once used you'll really never be "out" of Ivanhoe again. . . . Yet it costs no more than ordinary mayonnaise.

"SALAD LEAVES" is a unique booklet of salad recipes and balanced menus. Write for your free copy to Harriet Meaker Osborne, Ivanhoe Kitchen, Auburn, N. Y.

Slump of Robin Vets. • Klein's Bat Resumes.
Flag Chance at Stake. Senators Back on Top.
Dangers of Rabbit Ball. Passing Up of Tilden.

BROOKLYN NEEDS VANCE AND LUQUE

THOUGH THE NATIONAL LEAGUE schedule will permit the Robins to remain in their own backyard in Brooklyn nearly all of the time from now until August 5, the advantage of playing at home may not be sufficient to keep the club near the top of the heap unless there is a marked improvement in the work of a couple of veteran pitchers. The hurlers in question are Dazzy Vance and Adolfo Luque.

Adolfo Luque

The possibility that these two aging flingers might slump to some extent when the hot weather arrived was one of the reasons given by baseball men for the view that the Robins would not be able to keep up during summer the fast clip at which they traveled during the spring.

Developments up to date have been of a nature to bear out that dope. After winning six of his first eight games, Vance has lost five of his last seven, and after getting away to six straight wins at the beginning of the season, Luque has been beaten in three of the last four engagements.

IN A TOTAL of 11 games since their spring effectiveness began to fade therefore, the combined efforts of Vance and Luque have brought in only three victories against eight defeats. Quite a drop from their earlier form in which they won 12 of the first 14 games they pitched, and a change that will be very damaging to Brooklyn's pennant chances unless it proves only temporary.

Vance, at least, may pick up a bit later, inasmuch as he is almost two years younger than Luque, who will be 39 on August 4. Certainly, a marked brace on the part of one of them will be required to keep the Robins in the fight, as the club could hardly be expected to stay up there with Watson Clark, Jim Elliott and Ray Phelps shouldering almost the entire pitching burden and receiving only a limited amount of assistance from Clise Dudley, Ray Moss and Hollis Thurston. Moss turned in a brilliant number yesterday, but it isn't a regular thing with him. It was only his third win of the year.

THE CONTENTION OF some baseball veterans that it is folly to keep a pitcher from working in his regular turn in order to save him for a particular game gets not a little support in the case of Vance. Twice Dazzy has been held over, and twice he has been walloped.

Dazzy Vance

Last month, Vance was nursed for six days to start against the Cubs. Chicago walked away with the game, 13 to 0. Last week he was kept out of a two-game St. Louis series and rested for seven days to face the Giants. The game that he should have pitched in St. Louis was lost, 15 to 7, and on top of that the Giants beat him because he weakened in the late innings.

SO THE SAVING of Vance brought only a couple of defeats, to say nothing of two other games that he might have won had he pitched in his regular turn. The 15 to-7 game in St. Louis at least, probably would have been easy for him. It has always been said that Vance cannot maintain his best form unless he is given four days' rest between games. Evidently, too much rest upsets him to the same extent as too little, as he rarely comes through after remaining idle from five to seven days. The tender handling of some of the modern hurlers gives many an old-timer a pain when he recalls that A. G. Spalding once pitched 39 consecutive complete games between May 14 and July 24 and that Charley Radbourne turned in 22 successive complete contests between August 21 and September 24.

THE LOSS OF the services of Bernard Walter, injured by a batted ball in hitting practice yesterday before the Rovers tripped the Cardinals, would not appear, at first thought, to be a very heavy one to the Pirate pitching staff, but as a matter of fact it is certain to be felt in an indirect way.

For though Walter holds the role on the Pirates that Hank Grampp formerly held on the Cubs and has never pitched an inning in a real game, his daily batting practice services at least made it possible to save the other pitchers. It will now be necessary for Manager Ens to use one of the rest in practice, and he is not in a position to spare any slab material.

INCIDENTALLY, WALTED 18 the second Buccaneer hurler to be injured in batting practice within a few days, Martin Lang having been cut down by a batted ball last Thursday.

Chuck Klein

And these Corsair chuckers are only two on a long list of players and umpires who have been hurt by batted balls this season. That's another item that may be charged up against the lively ball, and there will be danger of additional and perhaps more serious injuries if something isn't soon done about it.

BACK AT THE home park of the Phillies, with its friendly right-field wall, Chuck Klein has resumed his home-run operations. Yesterday he tied with Hack Wilson for the National League leadership by cracking out his twenty-fourth homer. Klein's production of four-baggers fell off noticeably while the Phils were on the road, but with the exception of two days his club will play steadily at home from now until August 2, and in that time, by taking advantage of the short fence, Chuck will have a good chance to establish himself at the head of the list again and make some big strides toward breaking the National League record of 43 homers in a season, hung up by himself last year.

IF GALLANT FOX wins the American Classic in Chicago next Saturday he will take down about $70,000, boost his total winnings to approximately $280,000, and put himself in a good position to surpass the American record of almost $314,000, established by Zev.

Whether or not Gallant Fox succeeds in beating Zev's mark for total winnings before his racing days are over, his rider, Earl Sande, declares he must be ranked above Zev as a distance horse. Sande declares that while Zev had more early speed, Gallant Fox is better over a long route and is the best that he has ridden over a distance of ground in a number of years.

PERHAPS THE AMERICAN Davis Cup tennis powers know what they are doing in declining to set aside an absurd writing rule and take steps that would put Bill Tilden on the United States team for the challenge round with France in spite of his decision not to be a candidate, but the wisdom of their course is not apparent to outsiders.

In view of the remarkable come-back staged by Tilden in winning the men's singles championship at Wimbledon, defeating Wilmer Allison in the finals after Allison had downed the mighty Henri Cochet, No. 1 player in the world ranking, there is no question that he would have strengthened the American Davis Cup team tremendously and the amateur writer rule is not a good excuse for refusing to make overtures that would insure his being on it. Even if the younger Americans succeed in lifting the cup, the failure to draft Tilden will stand out as a blunder just the same. The only reason that can be offered is that Tilden apparently wanted to be coaxed. What if he did? He's worth coaxing.

WHILE THE REDS were helping the Robins to tighten their hold on first place in the National League by handing the Cubs another surprise in the shape of a third straight defeat, the Senators took ad-

VICTOR SCORES 66 TO WIN TROPHY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

It was a modest youngster from Etna, Anthony Myers, 17, of 72 Seavey road, who came through in the third annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph junior tournament for the William Randolph Hearst and other trophies, at the Schenley Park municipal links yesterday. Myers was out in 36 and home again in a sub-par 30 for his 66, which led the field and John Bing, 17, of 712 McClure street, Swissvale, who was one stroke behing him, in particular.

While these chaps had the advantage over the field, some of the finest golf ever scored at the municipal links was turned in and the six boys who tied for third place at 69, Dave Wilson, Cris Paterini, Arthur Tomas, Harold A. Herron and Frank S. Swedko, who will play off for the third and fourth prizes tomorrow morning, certainly are to be commended upon their superb work.

FOUR TIED AT 70

Others who were near the top were Regis Wolff, captain of the Oliver High team, who had a 70 to level matters with Alex Roney of the Stanton Heights team. Andre Burley and Charles Brookey, Peabody High School contestant, while Andrew Kosen, of the Schenley contingent, was the lone holder of a 71.

The first competition for the high and preparatory school trophy went to the Ellsworth-Cokeburg High School team which aggregated a score of 312 to top the five teams in that fight. Jeannette High School placed second with 323. Oliver High was third with 327 and Allentice team No. 1 returned a 333 tally.

It was the fine work of Iris Ross, who had 82, Gus Abbott, who returned 77 and Steve Mihalik 78 and John Damish 75, which put the Ellsworth-Cokeburg team in the fore.

In the fight for the club caddie team plaque, which Castle Shannon won last year, Andy Petrolia's Schenley boys came through nobly to cop top honors. Anthony Onoretta's 72, Andy Kosen's 71, Pete Halahan's 73 and J. Wedmore's 75 were too much for the other boys to match. Schenley's aggregate score of 291 just nosed out the Stanton Heights boys of Jimmy Carroll, the East Enders getting 295, with Joe McAfee scoring 75; Dave Wilson, 69; R. Clay, 78, and Pete Broskey, 73.

NEW CHAMP CADDIE

The new champion is another light-haired chap, fashioned very much on the order of the man he succeeded, Joe Stevenson, of Penn, Pa. Myers has been playing golf for the last four years, caddying at the Pittsburgh Field Club and the Wildwood Country Club in his spare time. Last year he scored an 83 in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's tournament. He has one brother, Bernard, who is 13, and two sisters, Anna, 20, and another only 6 years of age. His father is Joseph Myers.

During the course of yesterday's competition, of which John Jay Burke, city office manager of the county parks, was honorary director and started, a number of notables visited Schenley links to see the youngsters in action, among them that Pirate trio, Pitchers Steve Swetonic and Ira Flagstead, Chick Frazier. Gene Connelley was among the guests who were in attendance.

The officials included some of the finest men associated with

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE BOY WITH CLOCK EYES—Doctors have attempted to explain the clock eyes by prenatal influences. While no satisfactory explanation has yet been offered, medical records contain many similar phenomena, the most famous of which was a French boy of Besancon who has the perfect likeness of a 20-franc gold piece in his right eye. RED FLAHERTY FLIED OUT TWICE IN SAME INNING—In a game between Providence and Allentown on Friday, June 13, 1930, Pitcher Jolliffe wound up and shot the ball without hesitating. The umpire called it an illegal delivery, but too late for Flaherty to hold his swing and he sent a deep fly to Outfielder Watson. Flaherty was recalled and ordered to bat over, and again sent out a fly to Watson in right field.

O'MALLEY TOPS FREE LINKERS

BULLETIN.

Francis J. Lally scored a 65, one under par, to gain the lead for the first 18 holes of the 36-hole national public links championship qualifying test at the Schenley Park municipal links today. Carl F. Kauffmann, national champion for the last three years, finished the first round with a 72.

A brilliant 32 on the out nine enabled P. J. O'Malley to score a fine 67 and pace the early finishers in the first half of the 36-hole qualifying test for the national public links championship at the Schenley Park municipal links today. The four low scorers in today's competition are to represent Pittsburgh in the national event at Jacksonville, Fla., next month.

O'Malley finished one stroke in front of Pat McDonough and S. Walter Phillips, each of whom carded a 68. O'Malley's card:

Carl F. Kauffmann, national public links champion for the last three years, was one of the late starters. He is almost certain to gain one of the four qualifying berths, for certain of the better performers have announced that they will withdraw in his favor in the event that the champion

BIG BILL LOST TO CUP TEAM

LONDON, July 8.—(AP)—Fitz Eugene Dixon, of Philadelphia, non-playing captain of the American Davis Cup team, said last night that Bill Tilden has decided definitely not to play any Davis Cup tennis this year.

Dixon quoted Tilden as saying that he had a contract to report the international matches for the North American Newspaper Alliance which would prevent his own participation either in the inter-zone finals or the challenge round.

Dixon said he regretted that Tilden would not be able to play but added that under rules of the United States Lawn Tennis Association no player could write concerning a tournament in which he is competing.

Tilden apparently is resolved to adhere to his newspaper contracts, declaring it would not be fair to ask for a release from them to enable him to comply with the U. S. L. T. A.'s view that he can not write and play concurrently.

He was quoted as having said the U. S. L. T. A. had the power to allow him to fulfill his contract and still play but Louis B. Dailey, president of the association, who is here, has denied this request. Tilden therefore has taken the position that there is no more to be said.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 8.—The fighting spirit of Larry French still flavored the ramp of the Pirates this morning as they made ready for the fourth clash of a sweltering series with the ambitious Cardinals. Just when Gabby Street and his classy athletes were all set for a big climb up the National League ladder, the nervy southpaw from the Coast spilled their plans. Larry threw back the Redbirds in the third battle of the series, the score being 9 to 5.

Remy Kremer, the 16-victory man of the Pittsburgh staff, is ready to tackle the flock this afternoon. The home team expects to go to work behind Flint Rhem or Sylvester Johnson. The former has been going great guns of late, but he has had some slight eye trouble that may take him out of action.

FRENCH HURLS WELL

French's performance of yesterday was especially noteworthy. Larry didn't know up to 15 minutes before game-time whether he or Heinie Meine would be on the slab. Manager Ens leaned toward Meine, for French pitched part of Saturday's game at Forbes Field and the young lefthander has made a business of working out of turn in the furtherance of the club.

Larry showed more than a willing spirit, which in itself was commendable. The Coast Leaguer held the vaunted attack of the home team to seven blows. The Buccos found Herman Bell, Hal Haid and Jim Lindsey for 12 safeties.

Sharing the heroics of the afternoon was Gus Suhr, the hard-working first sacker. Gus turned the ball game toward the Pittsburgh dugout in the seventh when he hit a homer into the left field bleachers with Pie Traynor aboard the sacks. The drive put the Buccos one run in front.

Another hero was an obscure benchwarmer. Paul Waner had to leave the battle in the sixth inning with his sciatic nerve and Manager Ens had to call upon his only extra outfielder, Jim Mosolf. Jim jumped in like Frank Merriwell. It was his double of the eighth with the score tied that led

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Instead of the Fourth of July deciding who will win the pennants, it just started to make it more intricate. You can't tell whether the A's or our club is leading the American League unless you took up trigonometry when you were in kindergarten. And the Cubs and Robins couldn't be any closer together if they were sitting on a park bench. Our club would now be leading the field by a couple of acres, only on our recent western trip the boys played four or five games like they thought they were the married men's team at a church picnic.

Occasionally [illegible] bent over [illegible] which failed [illegible] and that was about [illegible] in trade.

CROWD WITH BUCK

McTiernan drew blood from the visitor's mouth and nose in the second round, closed and cut his right eye in the fifth and poked his spats for solid punches throughout. In the latter rounds, except for a brief rally late in the eighth frame, Cooper did little but retreat and hold, and he was glad when the fight was over.

For the first time since his return to the ring following his spell of illness, McTiernan was not fazzed by the crowd which seemed to have been converted by his fine boxing exhibition against an opponent who already had a decision over him, however disputed, and who had beaten Jimmy Belmont, Harry Kid Wallace and Joe Trippe, title. The pre-bout sentiment seemed to be that McTiernan would prove an easy victim for Cooper, and when Buck proceeded to rut and slash his way to victory in masterly fashion the former jeers turned to cheers for him. The chances are that when he goes to the post again he will have his one-time detractors on the bandwagon rooting for him. Class always wins em over in the end.

DAVIS POOR SUBSTITUTE

Barney Davis of Cleveland, 136 pounds, proved a weak and futile last-minute substitute for Ray Newton of Mansfield, O., against Eddie Brannon, vicious-hitting Negro, of the Hill, 136, in the scheduled eight-round semi-final, and went down for the count after 2 minutes and 16 seconds of the second round, after absorbing a hard beating all of the way and showing nothing but gameness to recommend him. He had no more chance than Walter Dickerson had when the latter substituted against Lynn Jordan in the semi-final at Hickey Park, Millvale, last Thursday night, and the crowd properly hooted when the uneven battle was over. Both Dickerson and Davis were in bad physical shape when their bouts ended in knockouts and neither ever should have been passed by the boxing commission as fit for the assignment.

Harry Spencer, of Washington, Pa., pummeled Young Jack McVey, of Cleveland, same weight, so badly and cut his left eye so severely that this bout was stopped at the end of the fifth round and awarded to Spencer on a technical knockout.

Angelo Vergione, of Swissvale, 129¾ pounds, outpunched Frankie Moran, of Homewood, 131¾, in the six-round opener.

WINNER CHALLENGED

Tiger Joe Randall was introduced and challenged the winner of the main bout. Willie Davies and Black Bill were announced as the windup performers next Monday night. Joe Keally and Jack Henderson alternated as referees with Keally handling the second and main bouts. The judges were Frank Ferris and Al Grayber, the timers Tommy Grant and A. C.

Jones Gets New Title—Quietest Golfer

MINNEAPOLIS, July 8 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones has another title, the world's most silent golfer.

Deprived by Dame Jones (under the rules of the game, golf) of all interlocutory privileges, the new title is official.

"He's a swell guy," Donovan said. "He only spoke to me twice."

In the course of play, so Donovan reported, Jones only commented on the weather and said:

"Where's the water?" and "What's your name?"

Couch, the announcer; Ray Eberle and the commission physician, Dr. M. R. Goldman. Squire Mike Kain of Aliquippa, a boxing commission inspector, was a ringside spectator while Curley Supples of Buffalo, an oldtime boxer of international reputation, was on hand as the guest of Joe Brady.

Between Rounds

Pete Nebo and Jack Lewis meet in their postponed bout at the Duquesne Garden this evening. Lewis, coming up from the Monongahela Valley, has been training for a comeback and is confident he can stop Nebo. Pete came to Pittsburgh from Wheeling, W. Va., and has been fighting in and around Pittsburgh for the past two years. He has been matched with Joe Carter, who is trying to make a comeback after a long layoff. Carter is here from Akron, O., and has been training at Wheeling. Lewis is a Pittsburgher and has been fighting in and around Pittsburgh for the past two years.

Bruce Flowers and King Tut clash for the fourth time at Milwaukee tonight.

Nate Polo has been appointed by Georgie Chambers as the referee of Matt Speckert in one of the six round bouts at the Armory next Monday night. Chambers has been matched with Eddie Hudson of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Thursday night. Chambers has been matched with an automobile accident. The card has been completed with the signing of Eddie Hudson of Wilkes-Barre to box Nick Gallico in the six round opener. Mickey Walsh, Jimmy Neal and Ray Collins have their trades in the ten-round events.

Eight amateur bouts will be staged at Sarvis Stadium, Irwin, this evening under the auspices of the Irwin Commerce Club and Post No. 781, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Joe Clemente, of Irwin, and Jimmy Fogle, of Connellsville, light heavyweights, will box the main event.

Tomorrow the annual Pennsylvania amateur championship opens at the Allegheny Country Club with a big field entered in the qualifying round. Entries are being received today by Miss Lois Miller, Grant 0519, after which the lists will be closed. It is a three-day affair, the final being reached on Friday.

Two tournaments were staged yesterday, the Caddiemasters playing at the Edgewood Country Club and the women competing in the invitation tournament at the Pittsburgh Field Club.

The caddiemasters' competition was won by Joe Connors, Chartiers Heights, who scored a 38-39-77, nosing out Paul (Toots) Erath, of Edgewood, who recorded a 78.

Mrs. Emilie Roseburgh, of Oakmont, with a gross 90, won the honors at the invitation tourney at the Field Club.

CANADIAN KING WINS FEATURE

The largest crowd of the meeting, from the Canonsburg area, attended the races last night at Bridgeville to witness the running of the Canonsburg Cup. Canadian King, from the Thompson Kennels, won the event in a thrilling stretch duel, gaining the decision by a nose from the pace-setter, Plaza Black Marie took third.

At New Kensington, Brown Effigy won the feature race, the Freeport Cup, Brown Effigy outran Drawn Cord and Princess Harmony, and paid $10.40 to win.

SANDLOT LOOP TITLES AT STAKE

SANDLOT GAMES TODAY

WEST PENN LEAGUE.

Homestead Aces at North Bessemer.

CENTRAL LEAGUE.

Soho Board of Trade at Aliquippa (2 games).

CITY LEAGUE.

Book Shoe at North Side Civics.
J. L. Thomas at Dormont.
Jedinak at Pleasant Valley.
W. O. W. at Homewood.

By TOM BIRKS.

All first half sandlot league titles should be settled this evening. At Dean Field, Soho Board of Trade and the Allegheny Collegians will battle for Central League honors. Should Soho win the title is in the bag, but if the Collegians cop, and Fintex defeat Tommy Carson's classy outfit, then a triple tie will result.

In a battle in the Commercial and Industrial League, Reick-McJunkin and the Baltimore and Ohio nines hook up at Burgwin Park, Hazelwood.

The Commercial and Industrial and Central League race in the first half have been sensational and the fans have gotten quite a kick out of both chases.

At North Bessemer, Homestead Aces will clash with the Elder Club. Pete has taken the reins of the Railroaders and it may be expected that the team will make a great showing. The Whitaker-Verona game, scheduled for last evening, will be played on Saturday.

The big City League battle will be staged at the Salt Works grounds, where North Side Civics and Book Shoe should play to a record crowd. The ever popular Art Rooney has his team fighting hard and a good battle should result. J. L. Thomas goes to Dormont. Jedinak takes his W. O. W. team to Homewood and Jimmy Smith hooks up with Pleasant Valley at the Smilers' grounds.

Jimmy Smith, of New Kensington, will stage the second Allegheny Valley All Stars-Homestead Grays battle this evening at Parnassus Field. The Grays are popular up the valley and a big crowd is expected, to be on hand.

Homewood turned in a victory in the City League last evening. Homewood downed J. L. Thomas, 11 to 3. Book Shoe and Pleasant Valley tied, 6-6.

In the Crafton-Ingram Church League, the Presbyterians defeated the Methodists, 9 to 2. Collier Colts downed Colteryahn in the Metropolitan circuit, 9 to 5, and in the West Penn League, the Homestead Aces defeated Universities, 12 to 2.

Pineview knocked off Troy Hill, 7 to 5, in a North Side Twilight League game.

The Charleroi Robins defeated Speers, league leaders, in the play-off last night of Saturday's tie game, 2 to 1, before a large crowd in the Monon Valley League. The visitors scored one run in the third inning on a single by Rock, two errors and a base on balls. Bakitus, who was on the mound for the losers, held the Charleroi team to two hits until the seventh, when he allowed three singles and a base on balls which netted two runs.

The Lincoln Civics meet the St. John's Club at Hartman Park, Paulson avenue, this evening. This is the second meeting of these two clubs. The Civics defeated St. John's in the first battle, 13 to 3. The Civics are booking games with all first-class teams at home and abroad. Call Emerson 9611 and ask for Hugo.

JAYS CRUSHED BY GENERALS

Clarksburg's Generals hammered out a 12-to-4 victory over the Jeannette Jays in a Mid-Atlantic League game at Clarksburg yesterday. The Generals garnered 16 safe hits.

At Johnstown, Charleroi made it two in a row over the Johnnies, winning by a score of 6 to 2. Kunzler, former St. Francis College star, was on the mound for the Johnnies.

Cumberland defeated Fairmont, 4 to 1. Rase limiting the Diamonds to four scattered hits. At Wheeling, darkness halted the game between the Stogies and Scottdale with the teams tied at 8-all.

BUCK McTIERNAN — FARMER JOE COOPER — REFEREE JOE KEALLY

Long's Sport Comment

vantage of the Athletics' idleness to gain possession of first place in the American.

The recapture of the leadership is Washington's answer to the critics who pronounced Walter Johnson's men done when they were ousted from first place by the A's on June 1. Perhaps they won't be able to stay there, but right now they are going faster than any other club in either league. They have won eight games in a row, and it's the third time this year that they have pulled a winning streak of that length.

George Godfrey

GEORGE GODFREY, Negro heavyweight, barred from Pennsylvania rings for life since the Carnera affair, but scheduled to meet Frankie Simms in Cleveland tonight because there is no working fistic agreement between Ohio cities and the commission of this state, is telling Ohioans that he did not foul the big Italian in their recent bout in Philadelphia, intentionally or otherwise, and adds that good, game fighters never claim fouls. His opinion of Carnera is that Primo is a strong man, but no puncher, and not much inside the ropes. Asked what he thought Jack Dempsey would do to Carnera in event of their being matched, Godfrey replied: "It'll be plain, out-and-out murder. Carnera will be murdered if he hangs around long enough, but I don't think he'll hang around more than two or three rounds. Dempsey won't just crowd Carnera. He'll mob him. He loves to punch up at the big boys. He never was much against the small ones, but he kills the big ones."

EIGHT-GAME WIN STREAK BRINGS NATS LEAD

ROBINS GAIN AS CUBS LOSE ANOTHER

Associated Press.

Aided by the schedule makers, Walter Johnson today had his sensational Washington Senators out in front in the hectic American League pennant scramble for the second time this season.

Because the men who set the playing dates saw fit to give the Athletics a day of rest yesterday and at the same time let the Senators play the Red Sox, Washington is leading the champions by one-half game as the result of an 8-to-1 triumph over Boston.

In defeating the Red Sox, the Senators accounted for their eighth consecutive victory — the third time this season they have run their string of victories to eight. On another occasion they won seven in a row only to lose the eighth.

INDIANS BEATEN

The badly crippled Indians dropped a few more points off their percentage column when they fell before the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 1. The victors got to Pete Jablonowski and Belvidere Bean for 11 hits, which included circuit drives by Ralph Kress and Goose Goslin.

A Mexican stand-off was the result of the Detroit-Chicago doubleheader, the Tigers taking the first, 3 to 2, behind the good pitching of Earl Whitehill, but losing the second, 9 to 5. Whitehill held the Sox to four hits but the Sox managed to stay in the battle until the tenth inning because Dutch Henry did a good job of keeping the Tigers' 12 hits scattered.

ROBINS GAIN GROUND

Babe Herman's powerful bat gave the Brooklyn Robins a full game advantage over the Cubs as the National League champions lost, while the pace setters were trimming the Boston Braves, 2 to 1.

A home run off Herman's bat, which was preceded by a double converted into a run when Wright singled gave the Robins the decision and Ray Moss the best of the pitching duel with Bob Smith.

The Cubs looked just like another ball club as they dropped their third straight to the floundering Reds. The score was 4 to 2. Pat Malone pitched one-hit ball for five innings, but weakened in the sixth and seventh.

GIANTS WIN SLUGFEST

A modern game of baseball was played at Philadelphia, where the Giants defeated the Phillies, 13 to 12, in a slugging orgy that brought five New York and three Philadelphia pitchers to the mound.

The Cardinals' march up the standings was halted by the Pittsburgh Pirates, who won 9 to 5, behind the steady southpaw pitching of Larry French.

JOCKEY SUSPENDED

CHICAGO, July 8. (AP.)—Jockey R. Hanford has been suspended 10 days by Arlington Park stewards for rough riding.

TENNIS ENTRY LISTS CLOSE TOMORROW

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN.

Just one more day remains for entrance into the Sun-Telegraph's city-wide revival of the Pittsburgh public parks tennis championships. Tomorrow at midnight the lid goes on and blanks arriving thereafter at the desk of the Tournament Editor will be disregarded.

The tally sheet of entries to date shows Schenley Park still far in the lead of all competitors. The Oakland-Squirrel Hill sector is now only three shy of the half-century mark, with 40 entries in the men's division and seven in the women's, and it is a foregone conclusion that the total will attain the three-score mark or better before the deadline is reached.

HIGHLAND SECOND

Highland Park stands second to Schenley in man-to-man competitors with 16, but strangely enough offers nary a racqueter in the ladies' event. This extraordinary state of affairs will no doubt be remedied before tomorrow evening, for assuredly there must be a number of accomplished net performers of the fair sex willing to break into tourney play rather than permit a gold and a silver medal for winner and runner-up respectively to go begging in the Highland area.

Olympia and Riverview Parks have perked up with respective lists of 11 and 10 in men's singles, but returns remain light in the women's section with but two contestants apiece. An identical situation with regard to the women's milling exists at West and Frick.

Dates for the Inter-Park elimination series, in which victors in the six parks will meet for city honors and the right to represent Pittsburgh in the National Public Parks championships beginning in Washington, D. C., on August 18, have been tentatively set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 24, 25 and 26. The affair, at the excellent suggestion of Director of Parks James Moore, will be held on the splendid new Frick Park lot and will unquestionably bring out plenty of exceedingly fast tennis.

New entries follow:

Louis F. Baron, Riverview; Eugene A. Solow, Schenley; Robert Madden, Schenley; Joseph Madden, Schenley; Marjorie Arts, Hazel S. Darger, Schenley; Paul Elliott, Frick; Marie Begler, Frick; S. D. Sizemore, Schenley; Zola Alpert, Schenley; Richard E. Rosenfeld, Schenley; R. Zahniser, Olympia; Mildred Klages, West; J. M. Kaier, Schenley; Edward Fenrick, Olympia.

LONDOS WINS

to a five-run rally and he weighed in with another important hit in the ninth. Brother Paul may be able to play today, after receiving treatment last night.

WALTER INJURED

The Pirate hospital squad had a painful member today in the person of Pitcher Bernard Walter, who while pitching in the batting practice session of yesterday, was felled with a hard smash from the bat of Al Bool. The rocket struck Bernard in the left ankle. He had to be carried from the field and later he was taken to a local hospital.

An X-ray picture of the wound was taken to determine the extent of the injury. The result of the plate will be made known some time today. Meantime, it is assured that he will be unable to throw to the batter for more than a week.

WRIGHT SETS MARK

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—(AP.)—Robert Wright, with a 36-hole card of 75-78—153, led the field of 32 municipal links golf players yesterday in the elimination for a place on the six-man team which will represent Philadelphia in the National Public Links championship at Jacksonville, Fla., next month. Wright's total set a new 36-hole record for the Cobb's Creek course.

Morning Mouth

Everybody has it... Astring-o-sol corrects it

That Dry, Stale Waking-Up Taste is Easy to Get Rid of with Astring-o-sol

You can get rid of that disagreeable Morning-Mouth taste quickly when you get up. Just shake a few dashes of Astring-o-sol into a quarter-glass of water. Then gargle and swish it thru your teeth.

Watch that unpleasant taste disappear instantly. Note how cool-ed, refreshed and stimulated your mouth and throat feels. Your breath will be pure and sweet. And you'll feel pepped up, fit and immaculate.

Astring-o-sol's remarkable effectiveness as a mouth wash and throat gargle is due to its concentration, which makes it *1. Do more—you can use it in any strength required; 2. Cost Less to Use—a 4-ounce bottle makes 12 full pints of refreshing mouth wash; 3. Taste Better—you can dilute it to your personal taste.

This 4-ounce bottle makes 12 full pints of refreshing mouth wash.

Moreover, Astring-o-sol is an Antiseptic and Astringent. It is the arch enemy of those tiny germs that cause so much illness. Dentists everywhere use and prescribe it. Try a bottle today and you will wonder how you ever got along without it.

Many Stars of Talkies Castoffs of Other Film Studios

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright 1930, Premier Syndicate)

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 8.

A director friend of mine was lamenting that a promising young actor was being released by his studio.

"Somebody else will nab him," he said, "and then there'll be an awful cry raised over here."

This is exactly what has happened in dozens of instances in Hollywood. George Bancroft, for instance, was the heavy in Tom Mix's old westerns. Fox didn't see his possibilities as a new virile type of hero, and now Paramount is reaping the rewards of its superior sagacity.

On the other hand, when the talkies came in, Paramount didn't even take the trouble to give Bebe Daniels a voice test. They were paying her a big salary, and figured she was through, so they let her go. Now she is R-K-O's biggest star.

Bebe Daniels

Charles Farrell was under six months' contract at Warner Bros. at $100 a week, and they let him go. Both Lewis Ayers, hero of "All Quiet on the Western Front," and Jeannette Loff were at Pathe, but Universal first saw their value.

OTHERS PASSED

Pathe signed Helen Twelvetrees after Fox released her, and now she is on her way towards becoming an important star. Paramount had El Brendel under contract and let him slip between their fingers. Nancy Carroll and Stuart Erwin, dubbed around at Fox and are big hits at Paramount. Both Jack Oakie and Joe E. Brown were turned down by Fox when Ted McNamara died, and a partner was being sought for Sammy Cohen. Who remembers Sammy now?

It's a nerve-frazzling game at which the best guesser wins. And yet some people wonder why producers lose their tempers.

Robert Montgomery just learned that he is to be cast in "Dark Star" with those two champion picture stealers, Wallace Beery and Marie Dressler.

Robert Montgomery

"Yeah," he said. "That's okeh with me if they let me play it in shorts,' so people will know I'm in the film."

NO TENNIS SHOW

Ronald Colman and Clive Brook are jointly responsible for a tallish green fence, which guards their tennis court from the view of passers-by on Hollywood boulevard. Before the fence went up, a regular gallery used to gather to watch the stars at their game.

Hollywood's thousands of extras, who have found little enough to do since the coming of the talkies, will benefit greatly by R-K-O's production of "Cimmaron." The casting director tells me that 42,000 will be used at one time or another in this film. R-K-O also is importing 51 oil-rich Osage Indians for the Edna Ferber story. Chief Bacon Rind will head the delegation.

Very soon now, Marie Dressler will be back in Hollywood to continue her rejuvenated career in the talkies.

Marie holds one of the most extraordinary records in the show business. During her 45 years on the stage she has had only two maids. The first died and was given a fine funeral by her mistress. The second, Mamie, has been with Marie for 17 years. Now that the talkies have heaped an unexpected largess upon the family, Mamie's husband is going to give up his contracting business in New York and come out to Hollywood to live.

Verily, success melts in the mouth.

A NEW RACKET

Rackets thrive in the film colony. After a recent premiere, Charles King was notified by a ticket brokerage that his check had been returned from the bank. Charlie protested that he hadn't bought their tickets and that he didn't have an account in the bank they mentioned.

Charles King

"Your brother said you did," persisted the brokerage man. "He bought them for you."

"But I haven't any brother," said Charlie, and they had to believe him.

Investigation disclosed that the ticket agencies are regularly bilked by supposed relatives of the stars, the purchasers apparently scalping the tickets to turn them into cash.

Incidentally, Charles King, his wife and their three children are now on their way to Europe for a vacation. Charlie will return shortly to make more talkies.

"INSIDE THE LINES" SECRET SERVICE IN SHERIDAN

By KATHERINE GODARD

It's a complicated arrangement, this picture in the Sheridan Square, full of entanglements of love and war and everything. It's called "Inside the Lines" and features Betty Compson as a clever young secret service agent who hides her brains under a mask of sweet innocence. The story portrays the situation in Germany and in Gibraltar in the year 1914, about the time when everyone in sight was under suspicion, until it was proven that suspicion was unnecessary.

Well, anyway, it's an exciting picture. One gets to the place where there is much doubt as to which one of five or six names may really belong to the heroine, and one wonders just how long this suspense is going to last and how soon matters will be straightened again. Betty Compson chases all over a big gloomy-looking building at all hours of the night, enters the main office, opens the safe and, just as she gets the important key, is discovered. It's an embarrassing position but is carried off well.

Then another secret service agent steps in and makes things unpleasant, whereupon he is done away with and one begins to draw a breath of relief. But that breath is too soon. The explanations made in the last few scenes make things seem even more complicated. But several minutes later one draws another breath and the matter really is cleared up.

The program is helped along with a news reel, a comedy, "America or Bust," a Paramount sound novelty, "In the Good Old Summer Time," and a Pathe presentation "Streets of Mystery."

101 RANCH REVIVES WILD WEST ON NORTH SIDE

By HOWARD L. BROWNING JR.

The stern skyline of dignified old Pittsburgh cranes its neck again today as it glances across the Allegheny River for a peek at the Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch Wild West Show, which opened Monday in Exposition Park.

The oldster south of the river can't see much of the young upstart. What it sees, however, over the canopy around the open arena must convince it that everything is topsy-turvy, that the automobile doesn't rule as strictly as it had come to believe.

KIDS GET THRILL

But Pittsburgh's kids don't think of that as they wish they could ride like Jack Hoxie of movie thriller fame. And while they sit there pulling at the straws sunk deep to get the last drop of their soda pop, they don't forget their deep-seated ambition to sit around a campfire and sample the buffalo steak that Col. Zack T. Miller must feed his performers at country stops.

Little Mamie Plotz, too, thrills as she sees the long-skirted ladies of the covered wagon rescued from Indians by dashing, brave cowboys riding through a very hail of bullets.

The tall sentinels in the Golden Triangle may wink a dignified eye, however, as they watch the older generation hold its seat somewhat carefully while the horses buck in the arena. And isn't there something of a "remember when" as Jack Webb shoots clay balls in midair, holding rifle in one hand, never missing?

PITTSBURGH LASS

Selma Zimmerman, Pittsburgh lassie, again receives a hand all her own as she rides in the shooting act and tosses the balls unerringly in the air.

What if there are a few things on the program omitted from the show? What if comedy is at a new low ebb in the rancho?

It's a Wild West circus, with side-show, swell elephants and Western steers, a menagerie, horses, horses, horses and more horses. Western riding there is, and hair-raising jumping.

The lariat is in full swing and the buffalo is on hand to take part in the show. Bee-cootiful ladies grace the ring and hula the hula in the side-shows.

Again the circus calls to its own.

AND INSIDE, IT'S JUST 20° COOLER

Give your parched mouth a change from candy-flavored tooth paste. Give it the new thrill, cooling and refreshing, that comes with the first taste of PEBECO. The delicate "bitey" tang tells you that more than tooth cleaning goes on when you use Pebeco. Of course, it gives you the whitest, smoothest, cleanest, dental surfaces, but it also invigorates your entire mouth. The cooling tang lingers long after its use, telling you that Pebeco is still helping Nature retard decay by neutralizing the mouth acids. Start a tube of Pebeco today.

Romance that vies with drama for thrills!

Pandemonium in the great penitentiary; 3,000 convicts riot; guards held as hostages; reckless, desperate men making a last stand for escape! Every tense moment a heart-throb because you know that one among them has found that life can be sweet and glorious with the one he loves. To join the rioters means the chair; not to join them will bring their swift revenge! Romance and drama that you will never forget!

STOCKS DRIFT AS ACTIVITY DWINDLES

List Follows Commodity Prices Down, Then Lead With Rally in Wheat

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP.)—Stocks again drifted about on the feeble currents of the rather bored operations of floor traders and the few professional operators who were not driven from Wall street by the warm weather today.

With little character of their own, stocks were inclined to follow the trends of the leading commodity markets. A sag in cotton and wheat during the morning was accompanied by a substantial drop in share prices but with the rally in the grain market during the early afternoon, stocks firmed up considerably. Activity in stocks again dwindled to a mere trickle of orders.

Rail shares showed little response to the Interstate Commerce Commission's granting of increased class rates on certain items of freight in strange contrast to the eagerness to discount such bullish developments a year ago. The government's estimate of cotton acreage showing that the campaign for a 10 per cent reduction had resulted in a curtailment of only 2.7 per cent was a little worse than expected but influenced the share market only moderately.

REDUCTIONS SHOWN

Bears were inclined to make capital of forecasts of a rather sharp reduction in U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage to be disclosed on Thursday. Chain store June sales reports continued to show substantial reductions from last year for most of the larger organizations. The drop of 12 per cent in Woolworth's sales from June of last year was not so unfavorable as it appeared at first glance, however, for sales a year ago were abnormally large, reflecting its intensive anniversary sales campaign.

Commission house advices continued rather vague. There was a decided tendency to point out attractive investment values at these levels, but to warn that stocks may go lower, before a sustained rally gets in.

By early afternoon several important shares such as U. S. Steel, General Electric, American Can, Westinghouse Electric and General Motors showed slight gains, having regained earlier losses. Public Service of New Jersey rose a couple of points and Diamond Match, an erratic issue, jumped more than 10.

HITS NEW LOW

During the morning selling Johns Manville was a weak feature, declining nearly 5 points to a new low at 72 compared to last year's peak of 242½. North American, Air Reduction, Safeway Stores and Du Pont all weak spots yesterday, again recorded new lows. Ingersoll Rand made an extreme decline of 15 points.

Call money renewed at 2½ per cent, and was firm at that level. Yesterday it renewed at 2 and rose to 3.

Forbes

Few Business Men Honored By Colleges.

—By B. C. FORBES—

IS IT SIGNIFICANT that this year more universities than ever before called upon business men to make commencement addresses?

Time was when only scholars were wanted. A generation ago prominent politicians were in demand. Business leaders then were for the most part ignored.

UNIVERSITIES perhaps naturally still confer most of their favors on educators. Politicians have gone down steadily in the esteem of our universities as well as in the esteem of the public. Business men on the other hand are attracting more and more attention in the educational world.

Among men of affairs who were called upon to make commencement addresses at colleges and universities this year I noted these: Col. Malcolm C. Rorty, vice president International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation; Arthur W. Page, vice president American Telephone and Telegraph Company; Henry Hobart Porter, president American Water Works and Electric Company; John D. Rockefeller, Jr.; Ivy Lee; Bernard E. Sunny, who has just retired as chairman Illinois Bell Telephone Company; John N. Shannahan, president Omaha and Council Bluffs Railway; George I. Cochran, president Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company.

HONORARY DEGREES were handed out rather gingerly to business and financial leaders as compared with figures in the educational and professional world. Even so, the following were honored: Nearcomb Carlton, president Western Union Telegraph Company; Jackson E. Reynolds, president First National Bank of New York; Thomas Cochran; J. P. Morgan partner; Charles S. McCain, chairman Chase National Bank; Frederick Brown, New York realtor; Charles S. Hamlin, Federal Reserve Board member; Henry Hobart Porter; Louis Wiley, business manager New York Times; Leonard P. Ayres, vice president Cleveland Trust Company; Henry J. Harriman, president New England Power Company.

TO ONE of these gentlemen a personal friend I sent a note of congratulations which brought this reply:

"These degrees must not be taken too seriously. In some respects I am opposed to them for they are an effort to set up a kind of aristocracy. A man who wins a Ph. D. by study is deserving of all honor, but a man who had simply lived in the enjoyment of good fortune deserves nothing from our colleges and universities but a kick in the pants."

All the same, this newly-fledged doctor of laws considered it worth while to take a day of his life to attend the ceremonies attendant upon his begowning!

OUR UNIVERSITY Dons are gradually awakening to the fact that business and finance are today playing an infinitely more influential part in shaping the destiny of the world than they played in past times.

What professor, for example, has filled a role equal in importance and influence to that filled by the head of one of our great industrial corporations. Owen D. Young, chairman of the General Electric Company? Consideration the prominence attained by a man who won his spurs in the world of finance. Dwight W. Morrow. Charles G. Dawes likewise is neither an educator nor a politician, but a business man. Is it not true, too, that the American nation is today presided over by a man of practical affairs, Engineer Hoover?

THE MORE closely our centers of learning can link themselves with the actualities of the world, the greater will their influence become.

Gerard Swope's plan to mitigate the hardships incidental to unemployment has aroused very keen interest among heads of other corporations. The writer has received comments upon the General Electric Company's new unemployment fund from such notable corporation officials as Edsel Ford, Walter S. Gifford, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., P. S. duPont, Fred W. Sargent, Frederick B. Patterson, David Sarnoff, Frank T. Hulswit, Jacob Kindelberger, August Heckscher, William T. Grant, Cornelius F. Kelley, J. C. Penney, Alvan Macauley, Albert H. Wiggins, Charles S. McCain, Daniel Willard, P. D. Wagoner, Walter C. Teagle, Perry H. Johnston, Charles E. Mitchell, Eugene G. Grace, William Green, F. Edson White, Henry M. Robinson, F. B. Davis, Jr., Julius Rosenwald, Charles A. Stone, George F. Johnson.

Whether the millions of unfortunates unemployed believe it or not, the fact is that more thought is being devoted to the subject of unemployment today than ever before. My own conviction is that tremendous strides will be taken within the next few years towards alleviating the sufferings of those thrown out of work.

Company's Profit in First Half Equal to About $2 A Share on Common Stock

NEW YORK, July 8.—Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company's bookings in the first six months this year amounted to $29,500,000, a gain of $1,478,000 over the first half of last year, and net income will exceed the $2,170,088, after charges, reported for the first half of 1929.

In the first quarter of current year, the company's net income totaled $1,270,837, after charges, equal to 93 cents a share on 1,256,448 shares of common stock then outstanding. This was a gain of more than 25 per cent over the first quarter net of $1,018,375 in 1929.

UNFILLED ORDERS UP

In the second quarter a least this same rate of gain will be shown, and it is probable that it may be exceeded.

On the basis of a 25 per cent increase, the first six months net will approximate $2,505,951, equal to $2 a share on 1,258,400 shares to be outstanding. This would compare with $2.75 a share on same share basis in 1929.

Unfilled orders on June 30 last established a new high mark at $17,926,000, an increase of $5,054,000, or 40 per cent, over the $12,872,000 as of December 31, 1929. Orders booked in June totaled $4,606,000 and sales billed were $4,070,000.

LEATHER STOCK KEEPS RISING

NEW YORK, July 8.—Total stocks of finished cattle hide leather in hands of tanners at the end of May were higher than at any time during the preceding 12 months, according to a current statistical report of the New York Hide Exchange.

Total stocks have shown a continuous increase each month since September, 1929, at which time the total stocks of sole belting and upper leather were equivalent to 3,351,000 hides, compared with 4,336,000 hides at the end of May, and 4,296,000 hides at the end of April, this year.

In subdividing the stocks as of May 31, it is shown that the sole and belting leather stocks increased about 3¼ per cent over April, while the upper leather stocks according to preliminary figures show a decrease of approximately 3¼ per cent against the April stocks of this class of leather.

CEREAL PRICES NEAR BOTTOM, LEGGE SAYS

Grain Markets Stabilized, But Wall Street Caused Second Decline, He Avers

By MERRLYE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Alexander Legge, who voluntarily yielded a blue ribbon of industry in the form of the presidency of the International Harvester Company to become a butt of criticism as chairman of the Federal Farm Board at Washington, told me that he thinks that wheat and other cereal prices are near bottom.

When I called on the man whom President Hoover picked to carry out the administration's program of farm relief, he remarked that the grain markets had been stabilized late in the spring, and that the recent secondary panicky decline was purely in response to the stock market weakness, which he considered psychological, resulting from a case of colic in Wall street. Mr. Legge said that wheat, despite the market pessimism, was in a stronger position than a year ago when prices were shooting upward. In setting out with Secretary of Agriculture Hyde on a campaign to induce farmers in Kansas, Nebraska and nearby large winter wheat growing states to plant in accordance with a knowledge of worldwide trends, Mr. Legge said that he is not concerned with the immediate statistical position of wheat, but wants to discourage excessive plantings which will interfere with profits in crops produced in future years. Mr. Legge pointed out that the probable world yield of wheat this year will be no larger than last, which was substantially below the bumper crop of 1928.

PRICES STABILIZED

In referring to the recent collapse of grain prices, as we chatted in Mr. Legge's office in Washington, the chairman declared:

"We had wheat prices stabilized. Perhaps they were coming back a little too fast. Then Wall street developed a case of nerves, and the stock market collapsed. People who were holding both stocks and grain evidently sold grain in order to save their stocks. This latter break was purely psychological."

Alluding to the world-wide decline in consumption, Mr. Legge said that the situation was aggravated by the decline in silver, which reduced the purchasing power of the Orient, which depends on silver currency. Mr. Legge said that consumption was down in Japan, China and India. In response to questioning, he expressed the view that if Japan applied for long term credits in order to increase foodstuffs purchases, it could readily get them. He was less optimistic about China, thinking that the lack of a stable government rendered such financing difficult. He also said that relief experts doubted the possibility of rushing charitable supplies in time to meet the emergency. He said that there was uncertainty as to how much the domestic production of China was off. Outbreak of war in India, Mr. Legge indicated, talking in an academic vein, would be bullish, because it would lead to the hoarding of wheat by India, which is normally a wheat exporting nation.

MAINTAIN NEUTRALITY

Asked to comment on the suggestion made in this column by M. Lee Marshall, chairman of the Continental Baking Corporation, to the effect that the most useful thing that the Farm Board could do would be to stimulate bread consumption, Mr. Legge said that those with a selfish interest in other foodstuffs, including watermelons, had made similar requests, and that as between the competition among commodities the board had to maintain neutrality. Mr. Legge said that it was true that the per capita consumption of bread in the United States was smaller than before the war, but he ascribed the change to increased consumption of fruits and dairy products. Mr. Legge pointed out a present tendency in the United States as a result of the business recession to increase the consumption of bread, substituting it for more expensive foodstuffs, such as meat. In Europe, however, he said, other products, such as beans and rye, were cheaper than bread, and were, to some extent, being substituted.

Mr. Legge expressed optimism for fruitful results from co-operation with the Farm Mortgage Bankers' Association. The bankers, of course, have gone heavily into the farming business through foreclosing mortgages, and were able to co-operate by devoting acreage to products which are in greater rather than lesser demand. Another means of co-operation was in recognizing the need of efficient units of farm operation.

Childs Company Net Up for First Half

NEW YORK, July 8.—Childs Company net profit for six months ended June 30, according to the company, after taxes, charges and preferred dividends, was equal to approximately $1.33 a share on 362,320 shares of common outstanding. This is an increase of about 100 per cent over earnings of 68c a share for the like period in 1929.

June sales of $2,102,793 showed a gain of 5.3 per cent. Six months' sales were $13,581,158, off 0.3 per cent.

Willys-Overland Makes Fewer Cars

TOLEDO, July 8.—Willys-Overland produced about 58,000 cars in the first half of 1930. In the first half of 1929 shipments totaled approximately 200,000 cars. Preliminary July schedule calls for 7,000 units.

Public to Share In Newspaper Profit

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

FOR THE FIRST TIME the readers and employes of newspapers have been given an opportunity to participate in the earnings of an outstanding group of daily and Sunday publications.

Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., yesterday offered 2,000,000 shares of Class "A" 7 per cent cumulative participating stock, priced at the par value of $25 a share. A reservation of 400,000 shares has been made for officers and employes of the organization.

The new stock is entitled to participate in additional dividends equally with 2,000,000 shares of common stock to the extent of 3 per cent after each issue has received dividends of $1.75 a share annually.

Earnings Gain

EARNINGS OF THE PAST FOUR years have covered annual dividend requirements on the Class "A" stock an average of 3.14 times. In each of the past three years earnings have increased. Last year dividend requirements were earned 3.67 times.

A total of $100,000,000 of the Class "A" stock has been authorized. The offering made yesterday will make $50,000,000 of this outstanding. The remaining $50,000,000 of authorized stock is reserved for the sole purpose of retiring the outstanding bonds or debentures of the subsidiaries. The present funded debt of these subsidiaries is $38,547,500.

Owns 11 Papers

HEARST CONSOLIDATED PUBLICATIONS, INC., has acquired through the ownership of the entire common stock, 11 of the largest and most profitable daily and Sunday newspapers owned by William Randolph Hearst.

In the six months ended March 31, 1930 these had a daily average net paid circulation of 2,563,426 and a Sunday circulation of 1,744,017. Including the circulation of the American Weekly, in addition to the Sunday papers in the group, the total Sunday circulation was 5,606,243.

The papers include the New York Evening Journal, Chicago Evening American, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Detroit Times, San Francisco Examiner, San Francisco Call-Bulletin, Oakland Post-Enquirer, Los Angeles Examiner, Los Angeles Herald, Seattle Post-Intelligencer and the American Weekly.

American Weekly

THE SUNDAY CIRCULATION of the American Weekly is 5,606,243 and is the largest of any known weekly publication in the world. According to estimates it is read every Sunday by in excess of 20,000,000 persons.

The total paid advertising lineage published by the 11 papers during 1929 was 143,207,737 lines. Total gross revenue from circulation and advertising during 1929 was $83,366,395. The exceptionally favorable location of these newspapers in the largest cities of the United States indicates a continuous growth of these properties. The combined population of the cities and the contiguous territory within a radius of 50 miles served by these newspapers, according to an estimate of the last census, is more than 32,000,000.

To List Stock

SUBSCRIPTION TO THE STOCK may be made at the cashier's office of the Sun-Telegraph or may be placed through the National City Company, Continental Illinois Bank and Trust Company, Anglo London Paris Company, Crocker First Company, Bank of Italy or Bank of America of California.

Applications will be made to list the stock on the New York Curb, Chicago and San Francisco stock exchanges.

STOCK EXCHANGE TOPICS

Street Hears New Group Being Organized to Bull Market.

For the better part of two months Wall street has been bemoaning the lack of aggressive leadership on the constructive side of the market. Perhaps, after all, those to whom one might be disposed to look for such leadership realized the futility of seeking to lift the market during that period, having been pretty well aware of the trend of things that were ahead of them. Now, however, Wall street gossip has it that a new and powerful bull party is organizing with the support, so the story goes, of some of the strongest banking interests in the country. Whether or not this new development will manifest itself immediately or hold back until impending second quarter statements are out of the way is not certain, but the contention is that real leadership on the bull side is in the making.

Recent outbreaks of price wars in isolated sections of the country have contributed to cast a generally unwarranted pessimism around the oil industry as a whole. Important producers are making every effort to bring about necessary stabilization and it is more than likely that this will be effected. Gasoline consumption continued in the expected uptrend in the forepart of this year, with the figures for the first five months showing an increase of 12 per cent over the like period of 1929. Standard Oil of New Jersey is regarded as the outstanding long pull purchase in this group and its extraordinary long term prospects have made it the object of aggressive group operations innumerable times. Among other things it promises to share widely in the development of the natural gas industry in which it already has made extensive progress. Earnings which were equal to $4.75 per share in 1929 are expected to show substantial improvement this year.

Diamond Match has been a speculative favorite recently due to the expected splitup of its shares, variously declared to be on either a 5-1 or 10-1 basis. The company is the leading factor in the match industry, but has so diversified its products that it now derives about 70 per cent of its net income from other than match sources. The trend of earnings in the past has been consistently upward, with 1929 results equal to $15.81 per share, against $14.91 in 1928. In the first quarter of this year earnings were equal to $2.56 per share, against $2.48 in the like period of last year. The annual dividend of $8 now being paid on the present stock is expected to be increased with the recapitalization.

The adjournment of Congress will give the utility interests an opportunity to go ahead with the various groupings that have been repeatedly brought up in the past to account for the sharp advances that many of these stocks have scored. Among the companies prominently mentioned as ready to set to work on the necessary details are the Electric Bond and Share group consisting of American Gas and Electric, American Power and Light, Electric Power and Light and National Power and Light.

Answering a question as to the effect of industrial reaction on its operations, an official of Vacuum Oil Company stated that as it was not the custom of the management to issue interval earnings statements and impossible at this time to foresee the year's results, all he cared to say was that volume sales and earnings of the company for the first four months of the current year were approximately the same as for the best corresponding prior period.

In commenting on the proposed merger between Vacuum and Standard Oil Company of New York, the official added that the plan expressly provides for preservation of the individuality of the present business of each, which would continue to be conducted separately.

The sharp recession in general business activity has to date had but mild effect on the newsprint division of the paper industry. Production of new grade paper for the first five months of 1930 was materially in excess of the 1928 comparable figures and only moderately under the 1929 peak. Mill stocks, simultaneously, recorded no marked expansion, giving evidence that consumption has been sustained at satisfactory levels. Favored by stabilized newsprint prices and by the fact that many recent operating economies have been effected in production costs, prospects are that earnings of leading manufacturers, in 1930, despite lower volume of sales, will show a fair-sized gain over the disappointing results of the past two years.

North American Co. Electric Output Up

NEW YORK, July 8.—Frank L. Dame, president of the North American Company, announced that electric output of the company's subsidiaries for the 12 months ended June 30, increased approximately 6¾ per cent over the output of the same companies in the preceding 12 months. In the second quarter this year the output increased 5 per cent over the like period last year.

North Butte Mining Approves New Issue

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 8.—North Butte Mining Company stockholders have authorized issuance of 500,000 new common shares at par—$2.50—to stockholders.

DECREASE SEEN IN LOADINGS

Estimates of the Shippers' Regional Advisory Boards anticipate that carload shipments of the 29 principal commodities in the third quarter of 1930 will be approximately 8,806,716 cars, a reduction of 613,603, or 6.5 per cent below the corresponding period in 1929.

All of the 13 Shippers' Regional Advisory Boards anticipate a reduction in transportation requirements for the period, compared with the third quarter last year but an increase is anticipated for nine out of the 29 principal commodities over the same period in 1929.

The estimate by each board as to what freight loadings by cars are anticipated for the 29 principal commodities in the third quarter of 1930, compared with the corresponding period in 1929, follows:

Board	Actual 1929	Estimated 1930

FOUNDRY HERE IN MERGER

CHICAGO, July 8.—(AP)—Final steps in the acquisition of three large steel foundries by the Continental Roll and Steel Foundry Company, East Chicago, Ind., are expected this week.

The concerns being taken over are the Hubbard Steel Foundry Company, of East Chicago; the Duquesne Steel Foundry Company, of Pittsburgh, and the Wheeling Mold and Foundry Company, of Wheeling, W. Va. The result will apparently be to make the Continental Roll and Steel Foundry Company the largest producer of steel alloy and chilled iron rolls, as well as the largest maker of miscellaneous steel castings in the United States.

Coffee Supply Up; Now 5,566,635 Bags

NEW YORK, July 8.—World's visible supply of coffee on July 1 totaled 5,566,635 bags, compared with 5,448,926 bags the previous month and 5,352,398 bags on July 1, 1929, according to the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange.

WALL STREET HEARS

That recent weakness of Air Reduction reflects reports that second quarter earnings will not be up to earlier expectations.

That International Telephone will earn its $2 dividend in 1930 with a small margin to spare.

That Radio Corporation's first half operations showed little return on the common stock. Although no report was made for the first quarter, Wall street understands that due to extensive readjustments the company ran into the red in that period.

That earnings reports of steel companies for the second quarter will be fairly satisfactory and better than expected in more gloomy quarters.

Philadelphia Bonds Sold to N. Y. Firm

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—(AP.)—A syndicate headed by Lehman Brothers, of New York, was awarded $15,000,000 worth of Philadelphia City bonds at its bid of 100 and interest for $7,300,000 of the 4 per cent issue and $7,700,000 of the 4¼ per cent bonds. Five bids were received. The money will be used to replenish the consolidated loan fund from which current expenses are paid.

WESTERN LINES RATES UP

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Increased class rates to Western Trunk Line carriers is accorded under a decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission in its investigation of class rates on roads operating in this territory as distinguished from western territory generally.

The report announced today concedes a majority of upward revisions in class rates on the Western trunk line roads, although certain downward revisions are made in the general readjustment. Western trunk line territory extends west from Lake Michigan to the Rocky Mountains and northward from Kansas and Missouri to the Canadian border.

The increased annual earnings expected to result from the Interstate Commerce Commission ruling are estimated in railroad circles at $12,000,000.

At the same time, railroads in eastern territory were accorded permission to institute a new system of class rates applying over the northeast quarter of the United States which will in general result in increased earnings.

LOREE HEARING POSTPONED

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has postponed until the fall arguments scheduled for July 15 on the proposal of L. F. Loree to build a 200-mile line across Pennsylvania into the Pittsburgh area.

The commission has reopened the decision that F. E. Taplin must reveal the price paid him by Pennroad Corporation for his controlling stock interest in the Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

Shipments Higher For Locomotives

WASHINGTON, July 8.—June shipments of railroad locomotives from principal manufacturing plants totaled 81, against 58 in May, 78 in June, 1929, and 51 in June, 1928, Commerce Department reports.

For the first half of the year shipments amounted to 419 compared with 719 for corresponding period of 1929 and 314 in 1928.

Of the first six months' shipments, 402 were domestic and 11 foreign, while six were electric.

GERMANY LIKES PLAN FOR 'U. S. OF EUROPE'

Would Enter It, However, Only Under Reservations, Including Treaty Revision

International News Service.

BERLIN, July 8.—Germany will participate in the Pan-Europa scheme of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand of France, with certain reservations, it was decided by the Foreign Relations Committee of the Reichstag.

Incorporation of reservations in Germany's acceptance is in keeping with the more aggressive tone of this nation's foreign policies, which has become noticeable of late.

The reservations will be set forth in Germany's official reply to Briand's invitation. The principal one is expected to be for German equality with the rest of Europe, which naturally would involve revision of the Treaty of Versailles, now the main aim of Germany's foreign policy.

This will divide Europe into two camps. One of revisionists, headed by Italy and supported by Germany, while the opponents of Versailles treaty revision will be headed by France.

Premier Mussolini, of Italy, took a bold step toward revision when he announced Italy "and other nations of Europe" were dissatisfied with the terms of the treaty.

ROME AWAITS ANSWER

ROME, July 8.—(INS)—The Italian government awaited today a reply from France to the note which had been transmitted with reference to Foreign Minister Briand's proposed "United States of Europe."

Italy signified willingness to participate in the discussions of Briand's plans for a federation of European nations, but imposed certain conditions.

Italy also insisted Turkey and Russia be included.

BRIAND NOT TO REPLY

PARIS, July 8.—(INS)—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand issued a statement today, saying he had no intention of replying to the Italian note referring to the "United States of Europe."

"I do not wish to start polemics with any country. I will await replies from all and then discuss them in Geneva, next September."

Court Frees Taxi Drivers of Blame For Fares' Rum

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 8. (AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court has absolved taxicab drivers of guilt as transporters of liquor when a passenger carries intoxicants without their consent or knowledge.

The question was decided in an opinion in which the court reversed judgment of Hot Spring Circuit Court. The lower court had upheld an order of Malvern Municipal Court fining Ernest Henson, a taxi driver, $100 on a charge of transporting liquor.

WORLD AIR CODE NEEDED, SAYS LINDBERGH

Should Be Formulated Now, He Declares in Answering League of Nations' Query

NEW YORK, July 8.—(AP.)—Responding to a request from the League of Nations for his views on the international aspects of commercial aviation, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has cabled to the transit section of the league a comprehensive outline of what can be done for flying.

He suggested, he told the Associated Press today, that now is the time, while airlines of the world are in a formative stage, to establish principles and practices which will offer a broad basis for development and which will recognize that the airplane is going to break down national barriers and the prejudices of isolation.

URGES STANDARDIZATION

His cablegram, sent yesterday, was calculated reach Geneva on the eve of the opening of an international conference on commercial aviation. It read:

"There is great need for international co-operation in the standardization of airways. A uniform system of markings and signals should be decided upon and a comprehensive meteorological and radio reporting system established.

"Adoption of uniform regulations is of utmost importance. In some countries today, aircraft are placed in the class with ocean steamers and must go through similar procedure in clearing. Clearance charges are high and delays are often comparatively long, in relation to the time spent in actual travel.

UNDER MANY RESTRICTIONS

"There are instances where only aircraft registered within a country and carrying its markings are allowed to operate. Others in which it is required that a native pilot be carried; in certain countries a visiting pilot must qualify for a license before he is permitted to fly. Numerous and complicated papers are often required, where a careful study would make most of them unnecessary.

"Intelligent consideration of these and other problems confronting aviation would be of untold assistance to development of international commerce. Aviation does not concern one nation alone. Its ultimate value lies in bringing the countries of the earth into closer contact. It is not possible to develop air transport and communication in its broadest aspect without the co-operation of the entire world."

BYRD AIDES HEAR TREATY ATTACK

NEW YORK, July 8.—(Universal)—George Henry Payne, city tax commissioner, last night delivered a sharp protest against the London naval pact at the Army and Navy Club. The occasion was a dinner of the Advertising Men's Post of the American Legion, given for Bernt Balchen and Harold June, co-pilots of the Byrd expedition.

Prior to Payne's address the legion's victory honor medals were bestowed upon Balchen and June. Commissioner Paye launched into his speech by declaring:

"The naval pact apparently gives us parity with Great Britain and Japan, although virtually every naval expert of this country agrees that it does nothing of the kind. On the contrary it gives Japan and England advantages over us.

"The American people have a right to know what entanglements they are getting into. Anyone who intimates, as Secretary Stimson does, that the American people are not competent to pass judgment on the treaty does not understand democratic institutions. There is something sinister in the desperate efforts of those who made the treaty to rush it through the Senate."

ORTIZ RUBIO'S PARTY WINS

MEXICO CITY, July 8.—(AP.)—On the basis of incomplete but representative returns from Monday's nation-wide congressional election, the National Revolutionary party, of which President Ortiz Rubio is a member, was expected to control both the next Senate and the next Chamber by a large majority.

So far only a few electoral districts have reported defeat of the party's candidates, and headquarters here have claimed a sweeping victory throughout the country.

The National Revolutionary Alliance, headed by Luis Morones, issued a statement charging that many of its partisans had not received registration blanks in time to qualify for voting. The victories of the National Revolutionary party in a number of places were disputed.

STAY GRANTED THOMPSON

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 8.—J. V. Thompson, former banker and coal baron, who was to have been sentenced yesterday for contempt of court, won another legal battle when Judge Dawson, before whom he was arraigned for sentence, granted a stay of 24 days. Bond of $20,000 to assure his appearance in court was demanded.

Thompson, whose obligations to the Niccolls and Messmore estates are said to total $300,000, must meet the obligations by July 31 or go to jail, the court decided.

Attorney L. K. Porter, of Pittsburgh, trustee of the estate of John Niccolls, father of the Princess of Thurn and Taxis, demanded the bail of the banker be set at $100,000. The $20,000,000 coal deal, about which litigation has centered for some years, he branded as "a phantom sale," designed to enable Thompson to evade obeying the mandates of the court.

BRITISH TREATY FOES TO FIGHT

LONDON, July 8.—(Universal.)—Lieutenant Commander J. M. Kenworthy, the House of Commons' most violent opponent of the London naval treaty, said last night he is basing his attack on the pact on two points. Commander Kenworthy said:

First, the opposition shall attack one point in the bill introduced in the House on the rules, supposedly supplanting the Root resolutions ruling that submarines in war time are able to sink unarmed merchant ships on the trade routes. The London treaty's substitute for the Root resolutions is equivalent to legalizing piracy.

Secondly, we are now recognizing the iniquity of the treaty with the Labor government's building program exceeding that of 1925, 1927 and 1928 and, with the exception of submarines, the 1929 Conservative program. When the necessary supplementary estimates come to Commons, we shall vigorously protest against these expenditures."

OPPOSE TURNS ON BOULEVARD

A measure to eliminate left turns from the Boulevard of the Allies to side streets is urged by Frank L. Duggan, chairman of the Better Traffic Committee as a means of decreasing snake driving and congestion on the boulevard. Mr. Duggan says much of the weaving driving is caused by cars slowing down to make left turns through the other lanes of traffic.

The request was made to city Council with the intention that Safety Director James M. Clark give a 60-day trial period to such a regulation. City Traffic Engineer Lewis M. McIntyre declared such a regulation would not interfere with traffic already using Forbes street and that it would benefit traffic using the boulevard.

4 SLAIN DURING EGYPTIAN RIOT

CAIRO, Egypt, July 8.—(AP.)—Two policemen and two rioters were killed today at Mansourah in a furious and prolonged encounter between armed forces and followers of the recently resigned Premier Nahas Pasha. The police fired into the mob which offered stubborn resistance.

A pitched battle was raging in the center of Mansourah which the police and a detachment of troops appeared unable to end.

Nahas Pasha, who was in his motor car, was in the thick of the fighting.

Today Last to Pay Back Water Bills

City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley today announced that this is the last day delinquents can settle their water bills. A week ago he issued a warning that service would be denied those not paying their bills.

The city has been carrying about $1,300,000 in delinquent accounts, Schooley said. Collection of this, he pointed out, will have a strong bearing on property taxes next year.

IGNORE ALIENS, CANNON URGES

WASHINGTON, July 8.—(AP.)—Exclusion of unnaturalized aliens from the population count to be used in the reapportionment of congressional representation was described by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., as "the most important legislative proposition before the country."

The views of the Southern Methodist leader were contained in a statement on the prohibition situation he prepared before sailing from New York on the Aquitania for Brazil. He said:

"These unnaturalized aliens are estimated to number 7,500,000, and give to wet metropolitan centers about 30 congressmen and 30 electoral votes. Were they eliminated in the enumeration, the basis of apportionment would be correspondingly lowered, and states like Virginia, which now seem certain to lose a congressman, might retain the present number.

"There should be a prompt, sharp drive to get this resolution (the Stalker resolution for submission of a constitutional amendment to achieve exclusion) through Congress before Christmas and then press it through the state Legislatures."

NO JOB, NO PAY TO AGENCIES

Men and women who pay employment agencies a fee to get them positions and fail to get jobs can demand the return of the money, it was stated at the State Employment Agency, 622 Grant street, today.

Frequently persons seeking work complain that they paid money to obtain a position, but did not get it.

It was emphasized at the State agency that where employment agencies fail to obtain employment for the applicant, such agency must refund the fee paid.

While reports have been current that unscrupulous methods are being used by outside agencies to obtain fees for jobs, nothing was known about the subject at the state headquarters. No charge for obtaining positions is made by the State agency.

DOG RACE TAME IN COURT

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 8.—Dog races themselves may be exciting, but once they move into court they're dull entertainment.

There were no fireworks today at the hearing in which the New Kensington Kennel Club asked that its preliminary injunction against interference with the races by state police be made permanent. The dogs weren't mentioned once.

There was nobody from the attorney general's office to represent the state constabulary, but there was private counsel for the police.

The police contended that the preliminary injunction was illegal in that they had not been notified of the application for it.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park, of Allegheny County, where two dog tracks are operating, attended the hearing with an eye to preparing for any complaints which may be made against the races in his territory.

Judge Charles D. Copeland reserved decision.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Antiques

Miss Hannis said, "I know of a young man who might like to work here this summer."

Miss Hannis was bookkeeper for Dillson, the noted expert and dealer in antiques.

"There are thousands of young men who would like to work here, Miss Hannis," Dillson said, pompously. "They would like work here for the sake of being able to go into business some time and put in their advertising, 'Formerly with Dillson.' That would be as valuable to them in this business as the sterling stamp is to silver."

Miss Hannis wasn't at all awed by Dillson. She knew that he was dishonest, swell-headed and somewhat arrogant.

"This young man knows antiques," Miss Hannis persisted. "How can a young man know antiques? It takes years of study and constant application to this business to acquire that sort of knowledge."

"This young man knows antiques thoroughly, colonial, late Americana and foreign. He had traveled some years, he has written several books about it, you are using one of his books right now."

"You don't mean Hodson?"

"Bert—I mean Albert Hodson."

"Is he young? He can't be very young."

"He is under 30."

"How do you happen to know him? Can you get him? I can't afford to pay very much."

"He came from my town, Mr. Dillson. I think you can get him. You couldn't afford to pay what he is worth, only I happen to know that he would be willing to work."

"Send him in. Write to him at once."

Miss Hannis did not explain that Albert Hodson was then in the city, that he had spent his money as fast as it came in, caring for his parents and two aged aunts, and that about all he had was the old farm upstate, and a few thousand.

Begins Work

Bert Hodson had come to the city, hunted up Janice Hannis and asked her if she thought he had a chance to get in at the great Dillson's shop, which he called a "salon."

Hodson went to work for Dillson.

He was to accept forty a week and commissions.

With Janice Hannis that night he discussed things.

"If I can get in touch with a few of the really rich buyers of antiques I can make big money on my commissions—and then we can be married and fix up the old place and live up there where life is worth living."

"Yes, Bert, but it will take a lot of money—thousands to fix up the place and a lot more to invest so we can have a steady little income."

"Darling, you watch and see—I'll make big commissions, think of it—a few sales of whole sets would almost do the trick. Suppose I sold a Salisbury dining set. It's worth fifty thousand. There would be five thousand for me, enough to fix up the place. A few more sales like that and we would have an income of $20 or so a week. With the farm and that ready money we'd live like royalty!"

"Try and do it, Bert," Janice begged.

The rest of their talk had nothing to do with antiques but was as old as time—the subject was love.

Dillson wouldn't admit to himself that young Mr. Hodson know more about antiques than he, but it was true, and Dillson would never get that knowledge out of the back of his head.

He tried to be patronizing.

"These are not sandwich glass," Hodson said, a few weeks after he went there to work.

Dillson bristled.

"I bought them for that," he declared.

"But surely you can see——"

"Look here, Hodson, we're in this business for a living."

"But that isn't honest."

"Come back a moment," said Dillson.

They sat down in his very private little office.

"You know and I know that whoever said honesty was the best policy, never heard of the antique game. There isn't enough to go around, and it is becoming more and more scarce. But the collectors demand antiques, why not supply them?"

"I see," Hodson said.

False Pretense

Hodson saw a great deal more than Dillson expected. He had found out that it was this very Dillson who, some twenty years previously, had swindled his maternal grandfather out of all of his money. He had set Dillson up in business. Hodson was on the point of resigning and giving Dillson a good sock in the nose at the same time, but Janice Hannis gave him better advice. Hodson's commissions were few. When any really big sale was made Dillson always stepped forward and closed it, robbing Hodson of the commissions.

Then when Dillson got in some alleged early American pine tables, chests, and chairs, Hodson looked them over and shook his head.

"Faked," he said. "The house of Dillson can't afford to sell that stuff."

"Can't it? Well, so long as it looks all right and there are suckers to buy it, the house of Dillson will flourish. Don't be a fool, Hodson — if somebody fools me I don't kick—I fool somebody else. After all, getting the money is the thing we are all aiming at and you'll live and die poor if you're crazy enough to try and get enough genuine antiques to sell, with nothing else palmed off for the big profits. Is that plain enough?"

Quite plain, Hodson agreed. He and Janice held some more conferences.

Then the Daltons, with oodles of money, wanted to get one of the few remaining Salisbury dining room sets.

I know where to get one, Hodson informed Mrs. Dalton. She urged him to get it at once. After she had gone, Dillson came over.

That's the right stuff, Hodson, don't be finicky. I know where I can get one made up that the old cabinet and furniture maker Salisbury himself wouldn't know was fixed."

I can do better than that, Mr. Dillson. I know where to get the genuine, and the Daltons are so clever they'd be wise to anything else.

Have it your way, Dillson said, with a wink.

When the set arrived Dillson was amazed.

By George, it is genuine! he cried.

I said so, Hodson reminded him.

The set was sold. Hodson wanted his fifty-one hundred commission.

"Tut, tut, my boy, I sold it. I closed the deal," Dillson said.

Very well, sir, Hodson said meekly.

Resigns

He worked on for several months longer and Dillson believed he had a valuable sap working for him. Then Hodson resigned. He said he thought he could make more on the outside collecting.

Some months passed.

Bert Hodson was back home. The old unpainted house was well filled with dusty furniture, mostly apparently very early, plenty of Duncan Phyffe and such stuff.

The ancient barn stood well back, the open doors showing hay on the mows. But back of the barn was a great high fence. It looked like a cattle yard, but it wasn't. Under the rear of the barn was a workshop. Three skilled old gentlemen had been working there for some months.

Peter Morris was out there rubbing down a pine table with black coffee. It gave it that very old appearance, even if you cut a quarter inch or more into the soft wood. Then he rubbed places along the edges of the table, for all the world like the places that a man's sleeves would wear after a few generations.

Another chap was slowly sliding a table back and forth across a slab of granite.

Imitation Sandwich glass from across the seas was unpacked, given a coat of dust, slightly nicked in places, and put in the house.

Hodson went to the city and dropped in, ostensibly to chat with Janice. Dillson greeted him, invited him to come back to work and asked how he had prospered.

"Amazingly, sir," Hodson answered. "I have been up through New England, into Canada and down through Ohio, where so many of the early New Englanders first ventured to settle, and I picked up quantities of good stuff."

"Well, well—bargains, I suppose?"

"For genuine early American they are real bargains."

"I'll be up and see you before long, unless you are going on another trip."

"I'm on the track of two sections where the collectors have neglected to go, but it will keep. I shall be home for some months. I have a lot of dealers interested, Mr. Dillson."

"Eh? Well, well, better give me first chance—matter of courtesy. I always treated you pretty well here, you know."

Dillson Calls

"Certainly, sir."

Hodson wanted to sock him good and plenty, it pained him to call him "Sir," but he went back home, after an unusually important conference with Janice Hannis.

Dillson kept his word. He was up the following Monday. There was a dealer present from Chicago, according to the introduction. He was an old man and said little. In reality it was old Peter Morris.

"Has he bought much?" Dillson whispered.

"One good-sized lot—it was shipped this morning."

"Well, Chicago is far enough not to hurt my trade. Let's see—hello, a better Salisbury set than the one I dug up, and sold."

"I dug that one up, you sold it," Hodson reminded him.

"Yes, yes, doesn't matter—by George—those old pumpkin pine tables—and the Sandwich glass—and that Phyffe highboy—you had remarkable luck—"

"It will go fast enough, sir."

"Go? It will go to me. I'm opening up a North Shore branch."

"You have been in this for years; you know that these are not steep for genuine stuff, sir."

Dillson did know it and grudgingly admitted it.

Albert Hodson took Dillson's check for a most amazingly large sum of money—and after the check had gone through all right he shipped the stuff.

Miss Hannis resigned and came up home where Hodson married her, and they started having the old house fixed up.

"Whatever did you tell him, Bert?" she asked when she got back. "He simply raved over it all."

"I told him that he knew very well my prices were not steep for genuine stuff and they weren't—if only the stuff had been genuine!"

Good news of good times from London—

"Because vitiated atmosphere makes members of Parliament sleepy, experiments are under way to spray the atmosphere with a mixture of oxygen and alcohol."

We should do something to this country to keep Senators and Congressmen awake—but of course we can't use alcohol.

Why not just let the sergeant-at-arms run around and wake everybody up by slapping them in the face with a wet towel?

Of course we have substitutes for alcohol that might be used as a spray—fusel oil, TNT, embalming fluid or varnish.

* * *

A simple way to keep the politicians awake is to merely arrange to have somebody introduce a resolution every five minutes providing for a reduction in official salaries.

Braddock's Last Battle Changed World History

Exercises commemorating the one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the Battle of Braddock's Field were inaugurated today and will continue tomorrow. The boroughs of Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin are conducting the affair.

Congressmen and governors from several states, official representatives of the French and British governments, delegates from Indian tribes and other notable persons have accepted invitations to the exercises, and it is expected 125,000 people will visit the three boroughs before the celebration is completed.

It is proper that the affair should be given this prominence, and that eminent visitors from other states and foreign countries should attend; for the event that is commemorated was of more than local interest. Indeed, in the opinion of some historians, it is not too much to say that Braddock's expedition affected vitally the history of the world.

While it is true he was defeated, his expedition paved the way for Gen. Forbes' expedition three years later, which was successful. The French were ousted from Fort Duquesne and it was decreed that not the Gallic but the Anglo-Saxon civilization was to predominate in North America.

organ, Gates and other American officers uish themselves later in the Revolutionary ...ddock and received their military training on the expedition—training which was to stand them in good stead when they fought for the independence of the United States.

The three boroughs are to be complimented on the enterprise they have shown in arranging for so imposing a celebration.

Careful Inspection of Bridges Is in Order

The limit was reached in defective bridge railings yesterday when an iron rail on the Twenty-eighth street span gave way under the weight of a four-year-old boy. Whatever may be said about railings torn loose by the impact of automobiles, there can be no justification for the weakness of this bridge, for the child was merely leaning against it when it collapsed.

There have been a number of distressing accidents lately, due to the weakness of bridge railings. If the Department of Public Works is alive to the warning, there will be an end to these mishaps.

A careful inspection of all bridges is in order. It should be made at once, and bridge railings that cannot stand strains to which they are liable at any time should be promptly replaced with stronger materials.

Avalon Takes Sensible Stand on Sunday Bathing

The Borough Council of Avalon is to be commended for the sensible stand it has taken in allowing the new municipal bathing pool to be used on Sunday afternoons. The borough had shown itself alert and progressive, in the first place, by providing the pool, which was built through a popular bond issue; it will keep the boys out of the Ohio River, where swimming is not always safe. And now that the pool has been opened the borough has again shown awareness of the needs of the people in arranging to open it at a time when it can be used to best advantage.

The congregation of one of the Avalon churches had requested that the pool be closed on Sunday. Since it was proposed to operate it on Sunday only in the afternoon, at a time when church services are not held and there could be no possible interference with religious worship, the Council very properly declined the request.

The vote was significant—eight to one. That is probably a pretty fair measure of public sentiment throughout the Pittsburgh district on the question of prohibiting innocent non-commercial recreation on Sunday.

Allied Boards Perform Great Service to City

In waging a single-handed fight against the 25-cent bus fare the Allied Boards of Trade are performing an outstanding service for Pittsburgh. This public spirited organization is making an excellent fight against an unfair imposition on the people of this city.

Following a survey by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, showing that in no other large American city is such an unreasonable price charged for bus service, the Allied Boards have been unceasing in their efforts to make an apathetic Public Service Commission reduce the bus fare.

The outcome of the case will have a far-reaching effect on Pittsburgh's development. A lower bus fare will break the Philadelphia Company's strangle hold which is checking the logical development of transportation in this district. A fair decision by the Public Service Commission will stimulate the development of Pittsburgh's outlying districts which are not adequately served by the street cars.

The Philadelphia Company and its subsidiary, the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, apparently have no desire to give this city a good bus service at a reasonable price. They are merely putting up an appearance of supplying the service to keep out independent competitors who would sell real transportation in order to stay in business.

The Allied Boards of Trade are presenting the case in such a way that the commission may have to order the Philadelphia Company to run buses at a lower price or else allow some one else to give the service.

Interviews Tougher

Just got a postcard from O. O. McIntyre from Doorn which is where Wilhelm landed after deciding that he would rather play leapfrog than war.

It shows Huize Doorn and states that it is the verblijfplaats Wilhelm II. It is just a photograph of a stale old mansion with window boxes and a sunken garden taking its last bounce.

"Bugs" Baer

We can picture O. O. marching up the main wheelbarrow aisle with his cane akimbo and his protruding spats trying to organize themselves in the Hollandaise sauce.

We can also synchronize ourselves listening to O. O. asking Bill how it feels to be back in the minors.

We once had a nice dinner with Wilhelm over the telephone. We ate at one end of the line and he sounded as if he was getting the dyspepsia on the other.

It's a long time since the war. There are no Allies left in Germany and all the wounds have healed except the doctor's bill.

You must feel a little sympathy for a man who reached for an empire and grabbed a doorknob. Wilhelm still looks and acts like a king. But he has the same chance of living in history as the Perth Amboy prodigy who carved his initials on a turtle.

He dresses very well. But we bet that O. O. had him outdappered by a long row of daps. O. O. claims to be the best dressed man in the newspaper racket. You can be that and still get picked up for vagrancy.

When we were at Doorn in 1927 the ex-Mr. Kaiser had not yet got his elbows adjusted to telephone booths and other citadels of democracy. He had sprouted a excellent set of home-grown whiskers that had the streamline contour of a mouse nest.

We didn't speak German, the Kaiser didn't break out in a rash of English and the interpreter had left his education at home on the head of a pin.

We had some questions to ask him that are still questions. If O. O. doesn't get a better break his interview will consist of six solid pages of throat clearings.

Nobody has got a good interview since the news reels took over the business. Those boys drive up in a sound truck, run out a length of hose or two, start grinding their cranks and grab a real interview with a celebrity who doesn't know what it is all about and thinks they are there to sandblast the house.

TIME AND SPACE

By Archibald Henderson

Recent discoveries in regard to the behavior of certain bodies in the material universe are raising questions of fundamental importance regarding both time and space. Einstein is gradually accustoming us to the idea that space and time are both relative—neither being absolute in the sense understood by Newton. Moreover, he has raised a grave question regarding the infinity of space.

Everyone knows that our system of measuring time is based upon the period it takes the earth to rotate upon its axis. This period is almost, but not exactly, 24 hours; and the hour is subdivided into minutes and seconds. Of course we might use many other bodies, astronomical and otherwise, as clocks, notably both the sun and the moon. But none furnishes so good a clock as the earth.

Most excellent work has been done in the way of organizing groups of scientific observers to keep accurate observations of occultations of stars by the moon. Prof. E. W. Brown says that from hundreds of observations reported to him, it is possible to calculate the length of a year within one-tenth of a second!

One of the salient features of modern science is the importance attached to very minute quantities. A discrepancy is questioned, not on the basis of the size, but of the fact, of the error. The discrepancy in the case of Einstein's famous third test was almost unbelievably small; but it served as one of the basic supports of Einstein's startling theory.

Recent investigations, carried on upon eight different bodies of the solar system, clearly show that the earth is on the rampage. It is a very mild rampage—for it is ahead of its rotational schedule by only a fraction of a second a day. Moreover, this old earth evidently has spasms of reform; for every few years it lags again, resuming its former habits of regularity and sobriety. It is thought, by some scientists, that this irregularity in rotation may be due to a slight shrinkage in the earth's diameter. The retardation is confirmed, says Professor Brown, of Yale, by observations on the sun, the moon, Venus, Mercury, and four satellites of Jupiter.

More startling discoveries have recently been made regarding the nature of our space. Within the past two or three years, certain spiral nebulae which are exceedingly remote exhibit velocities far greater than were ever hitherto suspected. It has been found that the more distant the nebulae, the greater their speeds. Galaxies of stars have been found which are distant 160,000,000 light years.

The effect of great distance is indicated by a lengthening of the wave lengths, making the light appear redder. There is a definite dependence of the distance upon the velocity!

This is an extraordinary fact, and indicates that Einstein may be right in believing that the universe is finite. The fainter a nebula is, the redder it appears. Perhaps the velocities thus indicated are not really recessional; the measured speeds perhaps indicate a relativity effect.

If, however, these red shifts are interpreted as real velocities of recession, depending on distance from the sun, then we should have to conclude, says Prof. Shapley, of Harvard, that the measurable universe is finite, for at a distance of some hundreds of billions of light years the velocity would equal that of light and radiations from such remote objects could never reach the observer.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

"Why aren't women good sports?" writes O. A. C. "Now and then one hears of a woman who will take chances like a woman but they're mighty scarce.

"Look on the average wife. If her husband wants to strike out into something new, that may be a little risky, does she sympathize with him and give him a hand? No, she does everything to discourage him. Women are always afraid that things will turn out wrong and they never stop crabbing if they do. They seem afraid they will lose something. Women are sure the mercenary sex as well as bum sports—and I'd like a woman's explanation though I suppose you'll deny it's true."

No, I won't deny it, O. A. C. It is true. In a very important sense, women aren't good sports. AND IT'S A JOLLY GOOD THING FOR THE WORLD THAT THEY AREN'T.

Think back, into our beginnings, Men, from the first, were the experimenters, the takers of chances. They had free and roving heels. But women hadn't. They were home bound, baby bound. They had to keep homes safe for the sake of those babies. They couldn't make experiments. They were bound to frown on risks—they had so much at stake. They had the safety of their children at stake—the safety of the race. NATURE MADE A MOTHER HUMAN A BAD SPORT, IN A CERTAIN SENSE, FOR EXACTLY THE SAME REASON THAT SHE MADE A MOTHER TIGER A BAD SPORT. So women frowned, and still frown on risks and riskers. They couldn't make an adventure of motherhood. They had to keep it a Going Business.

And that, too, is why women are "mercenary" — acquisitive. Women do value possessions more than men because they need possessions more than men. Primitive woman's life was one long, fierce scramble for possessions — for food and furs, to keep her children fed and warmed. The roving buck could travel light, but the squaw with the papoose on her back needed goods and chattels.

Yes, I know what you're going to say . . . many a squaw has no papoose on her back these days. And the worst sports are often the spoiled girls with no responsibility. That's true. But the old, first training still holds and the female—regardless of her modern status—is still bound by the laws of those first squaw grandmothers.

But as for taking chances—back up, Big Boy! WOMEN HOLD ALL THE RECORDS FOR TAKING THE BIGGEST CHANCE THERE IS! Every human that walks is living proof that some woman gambled her life on a chance. Gambled more than her life—risked those things that are most precious to men, liberty, adventure, a place in the sun. I'm no softy on my sex, stranger. I know all our feminine cussedness, in its infinite variety. But I'm telling you this—IT'S EASY ENOUGH TO PLAY POKER WITH LIFE, LIKE A MAN. BUT HOW MANY MEN WOULD PLAY SOLITAIRE WITH DEATH LIKE A WOMAN?

The next time a woman is tight-minded, timid, discouraging a poor sport—remember that, son. There'd be no human race today if ladies hadn't taken chances. Or, if, having taken them, they hadn't hung on to their winnings.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

Some folks get along with their mothers-in-law all right, but others don't. Sam Chandell didn't like his mother-in-law. But he liked his wife, all right, so he didn't tell the old lady exactly to stay away.

One day Mrs. Chandell says, "Say, Sam, Mama is coming to visit us for a while. Her nerves need a rest, and she always likes the quiet here. Now, you'll be nice to her, won't you?"

"Sure, I'll be nice to her. Say, George, by the way, did you say you wanted some firecrackers and some torpedoes and an air rifle and a coupla horns?"

"Yeah, Dad, but you always said I couldn't have 'em."

"Well, I changed my mind, son. I'll bring 'em all to you tomorrow."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

The City

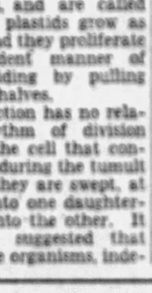
Unceasing turmoil, endless striving here
Where men of all degrees and races meet;
Confusion greets the quickened eye and ear
As sound and motion on the senses beat.
Is it a monster without kindly heart,
The city, where Youth brings its all to spend,
Bearing rich gifts of patient skill and art
And asking only justice in the end?
It stands, instead, a triumph shaped in stone,
Enduring long beyond the builders' time;
A challenge left by mighty men alone
To all who follow in their ways sublime.
And he who reads aright the city's soul
Finds inspiration there to gain his goal.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

Thus crossing does not necessarily produce reversion. We mention this to remind the reader how complicated the interplay of the genes may be.

The term revision is sometimes loosely used to cover another quite different class of happenings, where the appearance of an ancestral type is due not to hereditary recombination, but to an arrest of development.



H. G. Wells

This is well illustrated by certain kinds of hare-lip, in which a groove connects either nostril with the mouth. This state of affairs is permanent with dogfish, and is passed through by the embryos of higher animals. Sometimes the grooves fail to close, and then the primitive condition persists into adult life.

It is, however, much better to label all such cases as arrested development.

SEC. 11. HOW MUCH OF INHERITANCE IS MENDELIAN?

The Mendelian laws, we have seen, are of service both to the practical man and as cleaners of cobwebs from our general ideas about heredity. But are they the only laws? May there not be other modes of inheritance besides the Mendelian one?

There is a small group of cases in which inheritance is very evidently not Mendelian. It includes a few plants—of which a variety of our friend the Four-o'clock is one—which have variable patches of green and white on their leaves, and it concerns the inheritance of those patternings.

The green pigment of plant tissue is contained in special round bodies that float in the cell outside the nucleus, and are called plastids. These plastids grow as the cell grows and they proliferate in an independent manner of their own, dividing by pulling themselves into halves.

Their reproduction has no relation to the rhythm of division and growth in the cell that contains them, and during the tumult of cell-division they are swept, at random, some into one daughter-cell and some into the other. It has even been suggested that these plastids are organisms, independent lives within the cells, just as the algae in a lichen are captive lives within a larger organism; but nobody has yet isolated a plastid and seen it grow apart from the containing cell.

These plastids, then, are the bearers of chlorophyll from a cell to its daughter-cell, and it is because of their presence in the seed that a plan inherits its vital greenness from its parents.

Now in variegated plants like the Four-o'clock some of the plastids are abnormal and contain no chlorophyll, though behaving in all other respects like their green neighbors. And in their generations these plastids, these ipdependently multiplying bodies inside the cell, breed true.

If a cell contains only green plastids, all the cells that proliferate from it will also contain green only. If it contains white plastids, all its descendants will be white and its proliferation will produce a white patch on the plant.

If a cell contains some of each they will be divided between the daughter-cells any old how; one may chance to get all the white and one all the green, and one will get a few white and a lot of green, and so on. There is little orderliness in his method of inheritance. From these facts one can infer the results of sexual and asexual propagation in the plants in question.

An egg cell, or a shoot from a "pure green" part of the plant, will itself be pure green; one from a "pure white" part will be pure white; one from a mixed part may be anything. And the male parent has no effect whatever on the color of the offspring, because there is no room for plastids in the pollen grain.

Thus there arise various permutations and combinations, but without the disciplined regularity that characterizes Mendelian inheritance.

In these plants, then, there is inheritance in which the nucleus is not immediately concerned. It is inheritance through the rest of the cell. And it also differs from Mendelian inheritance in that the male parent has very little say in the matter, because his gamete is practically all nucleus.

Abroad With A New Yorker

By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS: The Sport of Kings is literally that sort of sport on this side of the Atlantic. I stood watching the King of Spain, fascinated, incidentally, by his Hapsburg lip, while he watched the nose to nose finish of an exciting race at Longchamps, that beautiful course on the fringe of the leafy Bois, today.

The race tracks of France offer a far more interesting, colorful and cosmopolitan crowd than we see in America—save perhaps at the Louisville Derby. There are the gaily dressed mannikins from fashionable dressmaking establishments, kings, princes, dukes, East India rajahs and the smart-looking demi-mondaine only seen over here.

In the betting sheds I noticed there were few heavy bets—most of them ranging from a few francs to about $40. The leading courses are Longchamps and Auteuil along with Vincennes, St. Cloud, Maison Lafitte and Chantilly. A different course is used daily, the horses being moved in huge motor vans.

The turf here is a grassy green course sprinkled with yellow wild flowers and it is the only place in France I know where dogs are barred. But mine should worry, for he napped during the proceedings on the plush softness of Bill Hogg's Hispano-Suiza.

The beautiful concrete grandstands are terraced with variegated flowers and the president's box is a private castle in itself. A gentleman in a high silk hat who occupied it, however, was a prominent wine merchant from Marseilles. The crowd was the best dressed I ever saw.

Among those I recognized in the promenade were Felix Wildenstein, the New York art dealer; Jules Bache, the banker; Betty Baker, of Hollywood; Jack Hobbs, the Amphitryon, of the Coconut Grove at Palm Beach; Grace Fields, former American dancer; Watterson Rothacker and his wife, and a newspaper editor who once fired me for laziness.

After the races we motored to Versailles, that stupendous pile of decaying grandeur that perhaps more than anything else in the world hastened the twilight of royalty. Among other places we visited the room where the treaty of Versailles was created. I indulged a furtive peek under the table to see if the American delegates parked any gum there.

My biggest chuckle so far on this continental excursion was inspired today when I overheard my wife in another room scolding our deaf dog with: "You're just like a Frenchman. You have to do everything wrong first."

The most irritating thing in France is the quick firing concierge system of shameless petty thieving in hotels. On my weekly bill was five francs for "postage service." That 20 cents pocketed by a conscienceless hyena, was for licking a stamp for a letter. For that price I'd lick the glue off 12 stamps and eat a postcard.

Philandering husbands have a clearing house here for escapades in a postal service known as "Hans Bouger." This service has 800 correspondents all over the republic. A straying spouse may have letters mailed to his wife daily from any city in France while he is, in fact, hitting the high spots in his home town.

Near Place Clichey in Montmartre I saw an American girl who gained some prominence as an entertainer on Broadway 10 years ago. Her complexion was splotchy and her face puffed in an unwholesome bloat. I had heard liquor, cocaine and Parisian night life had exacted its toll, but the change to me had something of horror. I had known her passably well and as a face to face meeting was unavoidable I held out my hand. She took it, but there was only the blank vacuity of a clouded mind in her stare. A philosophic American friend, who had known her, too, in affluent days, observed: "They die, but go on living like that over here."

I have made three visits to the bird markets on the quay near Notre Dame. On each occasion I purchased for a pittance a bird and took it to the Tuileries and released it from its tiny cage. If I were a bird (Voice: In many ways you are!) I can think of no life so wonderful as caroling and flitting about in the beautiful gardens of the historic Tuileries.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

A banker gives out the information that it is comparatively easy for a young man to accumulate enough to protect himself against want in his old age if he will save $500 and place it in a building and loan at 5 per cent until he is 65 years old.

The sum would not be large but by careful and simple living he could exist comfortably with enough to meet ordinary expenses.

Many fathers are wondering today how to provide for spendthrift sons.

They cannot see how the unproductive years are to be taken care of.

When these boys leave school it might be a good idea instead of giving them $500 outright, to deposit that amount as a trust fund not to be touched until they are 65.

Such a fund with specific instructions as to when the accrued interest and principal shall be paid is a good plan.

The young person should not know of this fund in his favor.

Knowledge of it might cause a slackening of effort to accumulate an old age fund.

Young persons should not have anything done for them that they can do for themselves and it is good for them to feel personal struggle must be made.
